GREAT ENGINEERS TO DECIDE THE TYPE OF THE ISTHMIAN CANAL

Shall It Be Built at Sea Level or With Locks, Is the Question. International Body Meets at the Call of the President. Executive and Congress Will Make the Final Decision.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Eminent engineers of America and Europe met here today on the call of President Roosevelt to investigate and make recommendations as to type of canal to be built to connect the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. By the executive order, made last June, a board of consulting engineers was constituted, consisting of Gen. George W. Davis, Alfred Noble, William Barclay Parsons, William H. Burr, Gen. Henry L. Abbott, Frederick P. Stearns, Joseph Ripley, all American engineers; Henry Hunter, nominated by the British government; Herr Eugene Tine, nominated by the German government; M. Guérard, nominated by the French government; M. Quélence, consulting engineer, Suez canal, and J. W. Weicker, nominated by the government of the Netherlands. It is this board which assembled today at the offices of the isthmiian canal commission. The members were met by Chairman Shonts, who in a few words appropriate to the occasion expressed the belief that good results would follow their deliberations.

The board of consulting engineers will have referred to it all the data that has been collected by the commission bearing on the subject of a canal, and it will be their duty to determine whether the canal should be constructed with locks, or should be a sea level canal, and if the former should be recommended, then details as to the character of the locks will be taken under discussion. The recommendations of the consulting engineers will not be final, but will be made to the isthmiian canal commission, which in turn will use its own judgment in a report and recommendations to the president. The final conclusion as to the type of canal will be settled by the president and congress. In calling the board of consulting engineers together, the president directed that in case there was a difference of opinion among members of the board, there should be minority reports. It was also stated that the board might visit the isthmiian canal, making its final report if it should be deemed necessary.

AN ENGLISH TRAIN CRASHES INTO STATION KILLING TEN

Witham, Eng., Sept. 1.—As the express from London to Cromer, on the Great Eastern railway, was entering Witham station this morning, several cars left the track and crashed into the station buildings, causing the death of ten persons, six of whom were women, and seriously injuring twenty people. Among those killed was the porter of the station, who was sitting in his room by the platform. He was crushed to death. Two ticket sellers were buried in the wreckage, but they escaped serious injury. The gasometers beneath the cars caught fire and consumed the wreckage. Fortunately, however, all the bodies were removed before the flames gained headway.

The train was running at full speed, Witham not being a stopping place for the express. The third car from the engine was the first to leave the rails and mounting the platform, it dragged another car along. The first car went over the side, demolishing the buildings, and then falling on its side, commenced to burn. There was only one passenger in the car, and he was out of it before it was crushed. The work of removing the dead and injured was quickly accomplished.

WESTERN RAILROADS BUYING LARGE LOTS OF STEEL RAILS

Chicago, Sept. 1.—The Iron and Machinery World tomorrow will say: More than 300,000 tons of steel rails for 1906 delivery have been sold by the Illinois Steel company within the past week. This represents the production of six months and fills up the mills to about July 1 of next year. Five Western roads have bought in lots ranging from 50,000 to 75,000 tons each. This haste of the Western railroads to buy is in striking contrast with the slowness of last year. The deduction seems obvious that the railroad managers are anticipating for 1906 splendid business both for the steel mills and for the railroads. Accompanying the large trading in rails there is good buying of track material.

SHEET METAL WORKERS STRIKE

New York, Sept. 1.—A strike of the sheet metal workers in this district was called last night by the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' union. About 2,800 members attended the meeting, and the call for the strike was almost unanimous. The strike will affect about 200 buildings which are in course of construction, and about 300 shops in which the metal workers are employed. The men demand an advance of 50 cents a day.

ACCEPTED PRESENT SCALE. Helena, Mont., Sept. 1.—At a conference yesterday of the United Mine Workers of America for the district comprising Montana and Wyoming, it was agreed to accept the present scale of wages for another year. This action excludes any possibility of a strike on this score for another year.

THE RAZING OF FORTS ON NORWEGIAN FRONTIER

Will Probably Be Waived By Swedes. Swedish Court Favors Prince Charles For Norwegian King.

Copenhagen, Sept. 1.—It is expected that the negotiations between Norway and Sweden will soon result in a full agreement on the subject of the dissolution of the union. Well informed persons presume that Sweden will give up her claim for the razing of the fortresses on the Norwegian frontier, being satisfied if the forts are not armed. The Swedish court favors the candidacy of Prince Charles of Sweden for the Norwegian throne, but it is not certain that the riksdag will accept the Norwegian offer of 700,000 crowns yearly as an allowance for the eventual king.

AN UNCLE OF HARRIMAN

Was Killed By the King of Hawaii In 1859.

Honolulu, Aug. 23.—(Victoria, B. C., Sept. 1.) While in Honolulu, E. H. Harriman, the railway magnate, made inquiries regarding one Charles Neilson, who was shot and killed by King Kamehameha IV. The railway man expressed interest in the case, and some of the known Neilsons, and could tell about him, but not the details. The killing is referred to in Hawaiian histories. It took place at Lahaina in 1859. Neilson was a heavy drinker, and was known for his quarrelsome ways. He was in too high favor with the queen, who was then regent, to be punished. While under the influence of liquor he shot Neilson, inflicting wounds which eventually proved fatal. The tragedy is stated to have weighed the king's mind that he was never the same, and offered to abdicate and flee the island. The ship Henry Villard arrived here on the 18th, 25 days after the event. One of the longest and most eventful voyages in the world was made. The ship was damaged by a storm, and the crew suffered from lack of food and water. The ship was finally rescued by the Hawaiian navy.

DIVORCE STAMPEDE

Said to Have Started In Council Bluffs.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Sept. 1.—A regular divorce stampede seems to have started here. In the last few days there were forty divorce cases filed. Since the last term of court in the spring 163 couples have asked the district judge for separations. The unusual number has attracted the attention of court officials and is the subject of much comment. Ministers have signified their intentions of preaching sermons on the subject and warning their congregations against the spread of the custom.

TO STOP GRAFTING. New Law Prohibits Gifts to Purchasing Agents.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 1.—An act of the last legislature takes effect today which is directed against the practice of corrupting purchasing agents, whether they be the maid servant whom the grocer gives a bonus in return for her mistress' trade, or the agent of a great commercial house whose patronage may mean thousands of dollars a year to the manufacturer who is it. This makes it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $10 to $500, or by both the fine and a year's imprisonment to give, offer or promise an agent, employee or servant any gift or gratuity whatever, without the knowledge and consent of the principal, employer or master of such agent, employee or servant with intent to influence his action in relation to his principals, employers or masters' business. The penalty also applies to agents who accept gifts or commissions given for this purpose.

GARCIA IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ECUADOR.

Guayaquil, Sept. 1.—Senor Lizardo Garcia, who was elected president of Ecuador, Jan. 11, assumed the presidency yesterday. Senor Garcia was the Liberal candidate for the presidency. He had the support of the government, and the Radical nominee, Gen. Maximiliano Ferraz, after riotous elections.

CIRCULATION OF CURRENCY.

Washington, Sept. 1.—The monthly circulation statement issued by the controller of the currency shows that at the close of business Aug. 31, 1905, the total circulation of national bank notes was $12,220,267, an increase for the year of $2,763,331 and an increase for the month of $1,703,331.

EMIGRANTS HELD HOSTILITIES WILL NOT CEASE UNTIL TREATY OF PEACE IS SIGNED

For Further Observation Before Sailing For the United States. No Particular Apprehension Over Outbreak of Cholera in Prussia.

Hamburg, Sept. 1.—The agent of the Imperial German health office, whose duty it is to inspect emigrants sailing for America, ordered all steamer passengers of the Hamburg-American line steamer Molke, which sailed for New York yesterday, to be landed at Cuxhaven. Later, they were put on board a steamer lying off Brunshaven, and are under quarantine. It does not appear that there is any case of cholera among the steamer passengers, but the health officers, who have become increasingly vigilant because of yesterday's cholera case, have thought it wisest to order all the emigrants to be landed for a fresh inspection and observation until Saturday, when, if health and none of them has been shown to have come in contact with cholera, they may be allowed to proceed.

Danzig, Prussia, Sept. 1.—Seven new cholera cases were reported officially to the provincial board today, four in Nakel, on the River Netze, one at Utsch and two at Elzbin.

Culm, Prussia, Sept. 1.—Two new cases of cholera, one death and three suspected cases of cholera were reported here today.

Marlenwerder, West Prussia, Sept. 1.—One death from cholera and five suspected cases have been reported here.

Rastenburg, East Prussia, Sept. 1.—A woman named Duddy, who died of cholera here yesterday, came from Bouchun with her family by way of Berlin. It appears that she drank water at a railway station on the way here and it is presumed that it was infected.

Washington, Sept. 1.—The authorities of the public health and marine police of the United States have been notified of the outbreak of cholera in Prussia. They say that in the past the German authorities have been very careful to prevent such epidemics, and express confidence that they will do so in the present instance.

CRISIS HAS PASSED

Fever at New Orleans Succumbs to Campaign of Science. Permanent Isolation Hospital Will Be Established For New Cases.

New Orleans, Sept. 1.—Signed statements of all the leaders in the fever fight, indicating that the crisis has passed, that the campaign of science is meeting with unbounded success, and that the fever will be practically forgotten by frost, are printed here today.

Though showers were predicted, today was clear and warm, with no marked increase in the yellow fever situation, there being a normal report of new cases and deaths. One of the objects which the new association will push here will be the establishment of a permanent isolation hospital, where fever cases will be taken, as they are at Havana, immediately when they enter this port. So strong is the sentiment in favor of the early completion of the water, sewerage and drainage system, which is being mapped out for an appeal to the legislature in behalf of legislation that will provide the money necessary for a reasonable speed in construction.

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 1.—The first death from yellow fever occurred today. No other new cases were reported up to this morning.

INVITATION To President to Attend a Peace Banquet.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 1.—President Roosevelt received today, an invitation in behalf of the state of New Hampshire, to attend the banquet which is to be held at the White House on September 12, to celebrate the signing of the peace treaty between Russia and Japan. The banquet probably will be held at the White House, and the president is expected to arrive at some time in the near future yet to be determined definitely. The invitation was extended personally by Senator Burleigh of New Hampshire and George H. Moses, secretary to Governor McLean of that state, who arrived here today to make an appeal to the president to participate in the function.

Senator Burleigh already had been informed by the president that he would be unable to do so. It was decided to make him this personal appeal to change his mind.

ECLIPSE PROGRAM FULLY CARRIED OUT.

London, Sept. 1.—Prof. William Joseph Huxley of the Lick observatory, who was in charge of the expedition to Aswan, Egypt, that the expedition executed the eclipse program fully. The program was carried out in the form of streamers from the sun spot, which increased the work of the mission during the last few days. The program was also carried out in the form of streamers from the sun spot, which increased the work of the mission during the last few days.

FINNS PLEASED. At the Conclusion of Peace at Portsmouth.

Helsingfors, Finland, Sept. 1.—The conclusion of peace at Portsmouth came as a great surprise to the people here. Peace was earnestly desired particularly because Finland in the long run might suffer heavily under the tax on liquor, which so far has not been heavy.

On account of the arrangements by which the Finns are excused from military service in consideration of the annual payment of $2,000,000, the emperor's concession to the Finnish battalion of the guard, the last remnant of the Finnish military organization has been disbanded as recruits to fill the ranks are not forthcoming. The disbandment deeply touches Finnish pride and has called forth a number of protests.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED. New Yorkers Are Arraigned Before Chicago Judge.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Anton Aub and Joseph Coffey, who claimed to be representatives of the Manhattan asylum of New York, were arraigned in court here today on a charge of conspiracy. The cases were continued until next Tuesday, on the advice of Assistant States Attorney Hoyt, who will in the meantime confer with the authorities of the Illinois state board of charities at Springfield. The men appeared at the Harrison street police station yesterday with four men and said that they had been sent by the authorities of the asylum in New York to Chicago with instructions to deliver the four men in their charge to the police of this city.

CHIEFS IMPRISONED FOR BRUTALITY TO NATIVES.

Paris, Sept. 1.—As a result of the investigation of Count De Brazza, the two chief colonial functionaries of the French Congo, the government announced that the two chiefs, M. Gaud and M. Toque, have been sentenced to a term of imprisonment for the murder of natives. The government also announced that the two chiefs, M. Gaud and M. Toque, have been sentenced to a term of imprisonment for the murder of natives.

Armistice Is Signed But Will Not Be Effective Until Then.

Treaty Will Probably Be Signed the Middle of Next Week. Jap Envoys Do Not Expect Pleasant Reception at Home.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 1.—Japan has refused to consent to the cessation of hostilities until the treaty of peace has been signed. The Russian envoys, accompanied by their secretaries, called on Baron Komura and Mr. Takahira shortly after noon today and were in conference with them for half an hour. Japan having indicated last night, through Baron Komura, her willingness for an armistice, Mr. Witte supposed today that he would find them ready to sign. Baron Komura explained that, while his government was ready to consent to an armistice, his instructions were that this should not take effect until after the signing of the treaty. The discussion lasted for half an hour. The Russian position being that Japan's contention was without precedent, and that if the armistice was not to take effect until the signing of the treaty it was practically unnecessary. However, the Japanese were insistent and an agreement was accordingly entered into providing for an armistice, which shall take effect the moment the treaty is signed.

RECEPTION OF ENVOYS On Return to Japan Will Not Be Pleasant.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 1.—It is now expected that the text of the peace treaty will be completed by tomorrow night or Sunday. Full authorities, if not the actual text, will then be cabled to Tokio and St. Petersburg for the approval of the respective governments and by Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest, Mr. Witte and Baron Komura expect to receive final authority to affix their signatures. The subsequent exchange of ratifications by the two governments will be simply a formality, which will be completed by the end of the week. The only difficulties which thus far have appeared are due to ambiguous language of the daily reports, which rendered the basis of the treaty. It is here that the long experience and recognized authority of the famous international lawyers who are providing assistance to Japan, as well as Russia. Both Mr. De Martens and Mr. Denissoff, as well as the Russian envoys, are selecting with care the language of each article in order that the treaty will be sound in international law, and selecting with care the language of each article in order that the treaty will be sound in international law.

JAPS PRAISED For Their Peace Sacrifices By Benevolent Societies.

Boston, Sept. 1.—A number of leading officials connected with benevolent institutions, having worldwide scope, today forwarded a dispatch of congratulation to Baron Komura on the action of Japan in granting the concessions which made peace possible. The dispatch follows: "The Hon. Baron Komura, Hotel Wentworth, New York, Sept. 1. The undersigned, officials in Boston connected with the National Benevolent Societies of the United States, hereby beg leave to express their profound admiration for the unexampled magnanimity of the Japanese government in its self-suppression in the interests of peace and the highest principle of humanity. We are convinced that the attitude of your august sovereign, and your country, will command the admiration of all people and of all time. "The late Mr. Neeima, a well-known pioneer of modern education in Japan, was educated among us, and bore our confidence, and the Christian Doshisha, established by him at Kyoto has commanded our interest for more than a quarter of a century. The hospitality shown to the highest ideals, and the triumph of Christian principle in Japan, have aroused our admiration and enthusiasm. "Samuel B. Capen, president American Board of Foreign Missions. "Frank K. Sanders, secretary Congregational Sunday School and Publishing society. "Albert E. Dunning, editor of the Congregationalist. "Charles B. Rice, secretary Board of Ministerial Relief. "Asher Anderson, secretary National Congregational Council, and several other officials of the American board, the 'Congregationalist' and the 'Publishing Society'."

ARMISTICE AGREED UPON. Rapid Progress Being Made In Drafting Treaty.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 1.—Japan, through Baron Komura, has agreed to the immediate conclusion of an armistice. At 11 o'clock last night Mr. Takahira went to Baron De Rosen's room and explained that he and Baron Komura received instructions to arrange terms of an armistice. Baron Rosen immediately communicated with Mr. Witte and it is probable that a meeting will be held today for the proclamation of a complete suspension of hostilities preliminary to the signing of the details by the two generals on the battle field.

Rapid progress has been made in the drafting of the treaty of peace. Baron Komura at Mr. Witte's request, will today probably fix a day for its signature. Russia's consent to a suspension of hostilities reached Mr. Witte last night in a cablegram from Count Lamsdorf, whom Emperor Nicholas has empowered to deal with that important phase of the negotiations.

LABRADOR EXPEDITION FAILED TO SEE ECLIPSE.

St. Johns, N. F., Sept. 1.—The Lick observatory expedition which went to Labrador to observe the solar eclipse of Wednesday last, met with complete failure. Heavy banks of clouds obscured the heavens throughout the entire period of the eclipse. The report of the failure of the mission was brought here by Governor Magregor, who had accompanied the expedition to Labrador and who returned here today on the warship Scotia.

DECREASE NOTED

The Car Service Association Handles 21,582 Cars In August.

Wisconsin Central Excursion to Arrive Saturday—End of Season.

The total number of cars handled by the Lake Superior Car Service association during the month of August was 21,582, according to the monthly report of Chairman James Kelly. This is a falling off of 1,002 cars as compared with the same month of the preceding year. Fewer coal and grain cars were handled last month than during the same period in 1904.

Although the total number of cars is smaller, the total tonnage is greater than a year ago, owing to the fact that larger cars are being used now than was the case a year ago. A number of cars with a capacity of from forty to fifty tons are now being handled by the association. In 1904 these same cars were not in this district at all. Each year sees a tendency to increase the size of the cars.

LAST EXCURSION.

Wisconsin Central Brings One to Duluth Saturday.

The season of special excursions in and out of Duluth over the various railroads is now practically over with. The last big excursion to be run into the city for the year will, in all probability, be the one scheduled to arrive here tomorrow evening over the Northern Pacific. It will be a Wisconsin Central excursion, starting from Marshfield, Wis., but will come over the Northern Pacific from Ashland. The visitors will return to their homes Sunday afternoon on the regular Northern Pacific train, which leaves Duluth at 4 o'clock.

It is believed that several hundred people will take advantage of the special rates. The special will start from Marshfield early in the morning, and at Mullen will be met by another excursion special from the branch line, which takes the Michigan copper country. The trains should bring in a good class of people, and local business interests are anticipating good results from the excursion.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road will run its last excursion east to Detroit and other points Sept. 10 and 12.

INCREASE SHOWN

August Busiest Month In Two Years For Builders.

Permits Numbering Nearly $200,000 Issued By Building Inspector.

A substantial increase in the amount of building done in the city during the month of August, as compared with the corresponding months of last year, is reported in the monthly statement of the building inspector. August, 1905, showed the greatest amount of building of any month in the last two years, the total reaching nearly $200,000. The exact figures were $192,440, eighty-six permits being issued during the month. The corresponding month of 1904 showed only sixty permits, and a total of $137,576. This leaves an increase of $54,863, or about 40 per cent over last year's figures.

It is expected that September will show a still larger increase, as there are several large permits to be taken out, among them being the one for the new residence of Chester A. Condon, which alone will amount to $50,000, and $70,000. The plans are now being inspected by the building inspector, and the permit will probably be issued within a few days.

The building operations for the first eight months of the year exceed $1,000,000, amounting in all to $1,062,925.50. The total value of all buildings erected last year was estimated at about $1,000,000, according to the building inspector's figures, and this mark should be exceeded this year by from $200,000 to $300,000. The total for the first eight months of last year was $944,089, or over $100,000 less than the total for the first eight months of 1905.

The majority of the permits taken out during the past month were small, and the fact that the total is the largest for two years is all the more noticeable from the fact that there were no large permits to swell the figures, the largest not being over $20,000.

ATTENTION!

In the month of July we sold 1,008 gallons of our famous Non-Excelling Ice Cream—this month's sales exceeds that number.

Because the people of West Duluth and vicinity are quickly becoming convinced that it is the best ice cream ever sold in the city of Duluth and the price is the same as for that cheap kind that is sent up here from out of town.

Why It Is The Best

West Duluth.

It has been learned that B. B. Ferguson, son of Mrs. S. G. Briggs, was not killed at Goodland, as at first reported, but at the Hull mine at Hibbing. The young man had obtained a position there under William West, about a week ago, and was considered a very capable young man. The only particular which has reached here from Rev. and Mrs. Briggs, who went on the scene yesterday, is that young Ferguson was caught between two ore cars and crushed to death.

A young wife and child survive the unfortunate man. Previous to his obtaining the job at which he had been working when the end came, he had lived as land agent at Goodland for about eighteen months.

Rev. and Mrs. Briggs will bring the body to Duluth on tomorrow morning's train, and it will probably be buried here.

LEASE NOT A SALE

Frank B. Kellogg Insists That Mineral Lease Law Is Valid.

Quotes Auditors to Prove It Good Thing For State.

Quoting decision after decision that has been rendered in supreme and federal courts to support his contention that a lease is not construed to be a sale, Frank B. Kellogg, of St. Paul, of counsel for the defendants in the Virginia "silver" case, made a strong argument this morning for a practical construction of the constitution, an interpretation that will not hold the state mining lease law to be invalid and void.

Mr. Kellogg cited authorities which, he said, supported his claim that a practical construction of the state constitution has the same force and effect as the construction of a contract between individuals, and that the court has no right to say that there shall be a different construction made as between individuals and between the state and an individual.

Mr. Kellogg said nobody would dispute the state's claim that ore is land, any more than a tree or a plot of grass is considered as land.

He quoted at length from the annual reports of the auditors of the state of Minnesota with reference to the mineral contracts and leases, and called attention to the fact that each official, after the passage of the mineral lease law, had laid special stress on that portion of his report in which he said that the lease law seemed to be very advantageous to the state. Reference was made to the annual report of State Auditor Braden in 1886, three years prior to the passage of the mineral lease law, in which he stated that he had refused to sell mineral lands in Cook and Lake counties, and suggested that the state should provide for suitable long-term leases to individuals to explore and operate the iron properties, the state to receive an annual fee, and a royalty on the production. Time and again, Mr. Kellogg said, the state legislature has had its attention called to the benefit of the mineral lease law, yet, until now, no question has ever been raised as to its constitutionality.

One of the features of these reports was an extract from Former State Auditor Robert A. Dunn's report for 1902, in which he says that, judging from the returns made the state, the mineral laws are satisfactory. Again, Mr. Kellogg referred to a passage in the annual report of State Auditor Iversen, for 1903-04, in which that official says:

"All things considered, our laws pertaining to state mineral leases are advantageous to the state."

These reports of state officers, Mr. Kellogg contended, have a bearing on the legal question at issue and he insisted that the opinions of the auditors, who had the best opportunity of observing the working of the law, should carry with them much weight.

He further quoted Former State Attorney Douglas' own ruling in 1893 as to the state auditor's authority to issue mineral contracts on any state land, in which he held that leases could be issued to explore the lake beds for ore.

Attention was also called to the opinion of Judge Mitchell of the supreme bench of this state, in which he held that a contract accepted by everybody for thirty years should be accepted in practical construction rather than a new interpretation to be placed on it at a late date.

Mr. Kellogg said it was improbable that the mineral lease law is unconstitutional from the fact that it was passed by a legislature that contained more lawyers at the time than any other legislature in the state's history. Mr. Kellogg declared it impossible for any lawyer to find a flaw in the constitution to have existed.

If this lease is thrown out on the ground of unconstitutionality, declared Mr. Kellogg, "then are invalidated all the other state leases and millions of dollars spent in exploring and development will be absolutely forfeited to the state by private individuals and some of them will be irreparably ruined. It cannot be refunded. It could not be raised by taxation to be refunded."

Mr. Kellogg went to some extent into the figures presented in the schedules filed with the defendant's exhibits, figures which were produced in The Herald last Wednesday, showing the number of leases and contracts issued, the amount received in fees, royalties, etc.

He said he could not believe it possible that a narrow and technical interpretation of the law could be given, one that will hold the leases and contracts invalid, and forfeit to the state all these vast sums of money that have been spent.

He analyzed the language of the state leases and contracts and argued that the very wording cannot be construed to mean that a sale of the property is meant, but that it remains from the beginning to the end in the state.

At the noon hour he had not completed his argument and an adjournment was taken with the understanding that Mr. Kellogg finish early in the afternoon and that Judge Douglas should continue the argument for the state.

During 1904, 403 men were given practical help, and the records show that only thirty-two have been found disappointing. Ninety-three per cent of these were without homes or friends able or willing to assist them, and 145 were below the

HE GAVE SIX DOLLARS In Twenty-Five Years To His Family.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 1.—During the past three years George Culbert has contributed the sum of $6 to the support of his wife and three children, and as a result they are now in a destitute condition. Mrs. Kate Culbert, the wife of the man, has appealed to the board of children's guardians, and asked that steps be taken to compel her husband to provide for his family's support. A warrant was issued for Culbert, and he will be arrested on the charge of non-support.

According to Mrs. Culbert's story, she has been married for twenty-five years, and during that time has had a hard struggle. She has three children, whose ages range from 9 to 14 years. For some time she has been in a destitute condition, unable to work and dependent upon the meager wages paid a child of 14 for her support. She has frequently taken her husband to task for his worthlessness, and has insisted that he find some employment. She said his only answer was: "Work is fit only for negroes and mules." Mrs. Culbert has caused her husband's arrest on several occasions, but would never prosecute him, as he always promised to do better if given another chance. She says he has frequently whipped her, and she now bears the scars of some of the injuries he has inflicted. She says she will not permit him to go free this time, but will prosecute him, with the assistance of the board of children's guardians.

KENTUCKY COAL OLD SLUM HOME

Four Railways to Penetrate Eastern Portion of State.

Beds With Billions of Tons of Coal In Sight.

Paducah, Ky., Sept. 1.—Development of the eastern portion of Kentucky has at last reached a stage where capitalists throughout the country are now anxiously glancing at the corporations which have had enough foresight to see the enormous possibilities of this field. Better known as the "mountain region" of Kentucky, this section, until the last two or three years, has been left to itself, and the ring of hammers and the blast of mining powder have been almost unknown.

These conditions are fast disappearing, however, with the rapid threads of capital and corporations who are pushing railroad lines into the rough districts and securing property rights on all available territory in the immediate neighborhood of the new rights-of-way. Preparations are being made by four railroad systems to enter the territory and the great coal fields which lie near the Virginia border.

Among the first of the railroads to enter the new territory is the Chesapeake & Ohio. With Pike county as its present terminus, this line will be completed into the famous Elk River coal fields of Letcher county and within a few miles of Pound Gap and the Virginia line by Sept. 1. This will not only open this heretofore untouched coal field with a short extension of the line through Pound Gap, the Virginia coal fields and an outlet to the Atlantic seaboard will be secured.

From the South the Louisville & Nashville railroad is reaching out from Middlesboro with a line which will run within twenty miles of the terminus of the Chesapeake & Ohio from the North. The Louisville & Nashville has secured considerable property along its line, and the extension from Middlesboro will be completed within the year.

From the South and West the Lexington & Eastern is extending out from Lexington and Breathitt county, and its ultimate destination in the wealth-laden district cannot be estimated at this time. From the east George L. Carter is pushing the Atlantic Seaboard, and within a few years there is little doubt that it will have reached Pound Gap, and the Chesapeake & Ohio outlet to the East is assured.

These long tentacles of commerce extending into Kentucky's newly discovered fields, the final outcome cannot be doubted. Already capitalists are hurrying property rights on coal and timber lands and coke ovens are being erected in all territories. The United States geological survey has estimated that 200 tons of coal are in Pike and Letcher counties, but it is believed that even these enormous figures can be doubled. Many of the coal veins reach thirteen feet in thickness, and the coal is so close to the surface that they can be worked at little expense by the drift method.

HAD TO DRESS WIFE'S HAIR Every Morning and Lost Several Good Jobs Thereby.

New York, Sept. 1.—Magistrate Tighe, in Adams street police court, Brooklyn, was today upon display the wisdom of Solomon when John Gamble and his wife Ida appeared before him, both demanding to know if it were the duty of a husband to always comb the wife's hair. John and Ida live at No. 312 Fulton street, Brooklyn, and have been married five months. Ida has long hair, and which was John's pride before he married her, and which has caused trouble since Ida became Mrs. John.

"It looks like this," began John, "you see, she doesn't know how to fix her hair, and every morning I have to stay away from work long enough to comb it and place it. I lost several good jobs since I married Ida." While John was talking, Ida, by the side, nodded her head in assent to the charge that she didn't know how to fix her own hair.

London, Sept. 1.—To go from the thick end of the Ghetto and be married to a fairy prince in the form of an American millionaire is wonderful enough, but for the transformed girl to come back to the dense Ghetto with the fairy prince in an up-to-date motor car is, perhaps, more wonderful still.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Phelps Stokes, the prince and the Ghetto girl came back. They stayed an hour and a half, and it took three sturdy, fresh-complexioned English policemen to keep the squat, motley-hued and admiring crowds of Poles, Russians and Germans from overwhelming them.

The rich American fairy prince and his East end factory girl bride were far more retiring than the teeming denizens of the Brick Lane Ghetto. Instead of fascinating the picturesque alien throngs by bringing up their superb car at the door of Mrs. Stokes' relatives with a round turn, they left the car in Calvert avenue, a street or two away, and walked humbly in on foot, just as the millionaire's bride, then Miss Rose Pastor, used to walk in when she was only a factory girl.

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Phelps Stokes walked to the house in Chambers street, the end of the cul-de-sac of the Bethnal Green side of the East end Ghetto, and knocked.

"Are you Mrs. Levine?" asked the millionaire's wife of her aunt, Mrs. Solomon Levine.

"Yes," was the answer. They went in, and as the door closed the unsatisfied crowd gasped and waited an hour and a half for the party to emerge.

Inside Mrs. Levine called her husband, Solomon Levine, and the five children were soon ranged up and introduced to their wonderful relatives. Long they chatted of old times, of the factory, of the housing and rents, of the ways of living in the poorer districts of London, and the ways of living in the slums of New York.

PURE BLOOD INSURES A CLEAR SKIN

When Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Pimples, or other skin diseases make their appearance it is a sure sign that the blood is filled with humors and burning acids, and being forced through the pores and glands burn and blister the skin, producing the eruptions which are usually accompanied with intense itching, and are disgusting and humiliating.

Bread Legal and Illegal

The Royal Baking Powder is a pure, grape cream of tartar powder. Its greater healthfulness and absolute superiority over other powders are shown by the United States Government official tests, and are so universally recognized that its use is approved and encouraged by health officers at home and abroad.

Guard your food against the alum baking powders.

Alum baking powders are considered so injurious to health, and their promiscuous sale a source of such danger, that their use is universally condemned by physicians and health officers. In many States the law requires that they shall be branded to warn consumers that they contain alum.

In the District of Columbia, under the laws of Congress, the use of alum in bread, biscuit, cake and other food is a misdemeanor.

Alum baking powders may be known by their price. Powders sold from ten to twenty-five cents a pound, or twenty-five ounces for twenty-five cents, are not made of cream of tartar.

DOG KILLER

In Cincinnati Kills Pets With "Dog Buttons."

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 1.—The dog killer is abroad in Walnut Hills, and half a dozen homes there mourn the loss of favorite animals.

Several of these were valuable, one belonging to W. B. Johnson, advertising representative of the Queen & Crescent, having been recently purchased by him at a price of $50. The dog was a fine specimen of fox terrier, and was very gentle.

Clerk of Fire Department Henry Schlotman was another victim, losing a $20 dog, while two neighbors, Messrs. Jordan and Graf, each lost valuable water spaniels. Several other dogs were killed in the vicinity, and these followed similar outrages in that section of the city for some time past.

The means of death employed by the dog killer is the fatal "dog button," and so far every dog that has come in contact with it has died.

In every case the dogs killed were harmless and were not accused of any depredations.

STOLE LONG RIDE IN CAR

Journeyed From Colorado to Indiana at Small Cost.

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 1.—It was a rough journey, but John H. Clarke, his wife and three children, the eldest aged 16, had not enough money to travel in any other way.

A month ago Clarke and his family were in Kansas near the Colorado line. Today they are back in Muncie, among their friends, and the trip of more than 1,000 miles from Holly, Kan., to Indianapolis cost him just $5.50, or $1.10 for each individual of the party.

For 15 years Clarke worked in the freight house of one of the railroads entering Muncie. He tried of "trucking freight" and determined to try farming. He invested all his savings in a farm in the Sunflower state, went broke, or nearly so, and with just $40 in his pocket determined to come back to Muncie.

It was in a car of grain that Clarke was determined to make his eastern trip. Into it he moved his family, their few possessions, a big jug of fresh milk, and a small supply of food. After instructing his wife how to work the bolt he went back to the elevator to wait until the agent should make his rounds.

HELD PRISONER

In Tall Pine Tree By a Big Bear.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 1.—Adolph Mannheim, a well-known resident of this city, formerly engaged in business in San Francisco, had a thrilling experience in the Sierra Nevada mountains, near Weber Lake. For nearly eighteen hours he was held a prisoner in the thickest branches of a tall pine tree, while a huge bear, armed with a rifle shot, patrolled the place pawed the ground and made attempt after attempt to reach the frightened man above him.

It was late at night when a rescue party, sent out from Mr. Mannheim's camp, reached the place, attracted there by his cries for help. The bear, probably frightened by the intrusion of the rescuers, escaped—pools of blood, tracks and torn-up ground being the only evidence of the vigil it had kept over its captive. Mr. Mannheim, weak from hunger, thirst and nervousness, was carried back to camp.

Manheim started from the lake early in the morning to pick wild flowers in the hills. He was alone and was not looking for game. He took no weapons. When about two miles from camp and deep in the woods, he heard the bear growling in pain and started to escape. As he started, brain came in sight at full speed. In the race of 200 yards that ensued Mr. Mannheim reached a tall tree trunk and lost the time in climbing to the top. The bear was wounded through the neck, probably by some hunter in that neighborhood. It was a clumsy and of immense size.

MAKING OF MELODRAMA Is a Lost Art, Says London Manager.

London, Sept. 1.—Has the writing of melodrama become a lost art? Of the two famous melodramatic theaters in London the Princess is closed and the Adelphi has been given up to Shakespeare and the musical comedy.

NO GAMES YESTERDAY.

Superior at Duluth.
Fargo at Grand Forks.
Crookston at Winipeg.

Rain stopped all games in the Northern league yesterday. Crookston was billed to meet Superior again in the fourth of the series for the basement honors, but the rain interfered.

The Fargo-Grand Forks game was also called off on account of rain.

Today the final series of the Northern league season will be commenced. The Champs arrived home this morning from Fargo and this afternoon they are scheduled to meet the Superior team. The game is not likely to be a close one, however, as the Fargo team is in better shape than the Superior team.

The Crookston team left Superior last evening for Winipeg, where it will close the season with four games with the Maroons.

Fargo will remain at Grand Forks, where the State fair is in progress, until Saturday night, when both teams will leave for Fargo to finish the season there, with one game on Sunday and a double-header on Monday.

The season will probably end with the six teams in their present positions, and the Champs will once more carry off the pennant. It is just possible that Fargo can pull Grand Forks out of second place, but it is probable that the Maroons will win every game. It is also possible that Duluth will lose to the Champs, and if that team can be pulled into the grounds it will mean the improvement in the game for next season.

O'Den's men deserve a royal welcome home Sunday. It will be the last chance for the fans to show their appreciation of the good work of the team. In spite of the opposition of the league, the team which tried to prevent the White Sox making a runaway race of the championship, and in spite of the fact that the team, which had to be rigidly adhered to, the Champs have played fast ball, and every fan with a quarter to spare, should give the team a final send-off, and to boot for better grounds and a higher-priced team next year. No crowd should be tolerated on the grounds Sunday, and if a few fans can be pulled into the grounds it will mean the improvement in the game for next season.

NO GAMES YESTERDAY.

Games today.
Superior at Duluth.
Fargo at Grand Forks.
Crookston at Winipeg.

Rain stopped all games in the Northern league yesterday. Crookston was billed to meet Superior again in the fourth of the series for the basement honors, but the rain interfered.

The Fargo-Grand Forks game was also called off on account of wet grounds. Today the final series of the Northern league season will be commenced. The Chicago arrived home this morning from Fargo and this afternoon they are scheduled to meet the Superior team. The game is not likely to be played, however, owing to wet grounds. The two teams are billed to come together again tomorrow and on Sunday, the big league game will be pulled off. The season will close with a double-header on Labor day.

The Crookston team left Superior last evening for Winipeg where it will close the season with four games with the Maroons.

The Fargo men deserve a royal welcome home Sunday. It will be the last chance for the fans to show their appreciation of the good work of the team. In spite of the opposition to the game, the team which tried to prevent the White Sox making a runaway race of the championship, and in so doing, to keep the season limit, which had to be rigidly adhered to, the Chicago have played a fine game, and every fan with a quarter of a cent to spare, should go to the park Sunday, and to cheer for better grounds and a higher priced team next year. No small cheers will be tolerated on the grounds Sunday, and if the fans can be persuaded to the grounds it will mean big improvements in the game for next season.

PAID

The Depew Improvement Company Reimburses the Equitable.

Senator Declares a Great Injustice Has Been Done Him.

New York, Sept. 1.—Announcement was made yesterday by the officers of the Equitable Life Assurance society that the indebtedness to the society of the Depew Improvement company was paid yesterday afternoon, the principal and interest amounting to $293,550.52. The correspondence incident to the transaction was also at the suggestion of President Paul Morton, made public to the end, Mr. Morton said, that an impression unjust to Senator Chauncey M. Depew might be removed.

The correspondence consists of three letters of even date, the first addressed to Mr. Morton by Henry E. Anderson, of the law firm of Anderson, Anderson, attorneys for the Depew Improvement company, announcing that the organization committee of the Depew Improvement company having perfected the title to the property not covered by the Equitable mortgage was prepared to take over the property which secured the loan paying in cash to the Equitable the face of the loan and interest.

The second letter also addressed to Mr. Morton, is from Senator Chauncey M. Depew, who states explicitly his part in the transaction between the improvement company and the Equitable society and points out what he declares are inaccuracies in published statements through which a grave injustice has been done him. Among other things Depew says:

"I had nothing to do with the organization of the Depew Improvement company, and I have no interest in it."

company, not even authorizing the use of my name, nor was I in any way connected with it until five years after its incorporation. I purchased for $100,000 in cash a one-fifth interest in the stock of the company.

At that time had a tract of land consisting of about 2,500 subdivided lots and 250 acres not subdivided.

The Equitable Life loaned $250,000 upon 1,575 of the company's lots. These lots were selected as constituting the most valuable tracts there. At the time the mortgage was made these lots were selling, the lowest at $300 and the highest at $600 each. The valuation placed upon the lot by the Equitable appraisers at that time was $333,750, and upon the balance of the property owned by the company $540,000, a total valuation of the property of $87

LAW ATTACKED AND DEFENDED

Attorney General Young Opens Up on Mining Lease Law.

J. L. Washburn Claims It Does Not Violate the Constitution.

Attorney General Edward T. Young opened the argument yesterday afternoon in the closing chapter of the Mabel Evans case in district court of this county and attacked the constitutionality of the mining lease law of 1893.

Mr. Young asserted that the clause in the constitution providing for the public sale of lands is perfectly plain and that there is no escaping it. He claimed that two questions were involved in this particular case relative to the state's claim of the unconstitutional law. One was the question whether the land in dispute is ore land and the other whether the lease law was in effect when the land was sold.

Mr. Young entered at length and in detail into a discussion to the effect that ore bodies are "land" and quoted a large number of authorities which he claimed bore out his claim. Holding that ore is land, he insisted that the state has not the right to dispose of a mine in any other way than by a public sale.

Mr. Young rehearsed also the history of the location by which the state acquired the small piece of swamp land, possession of which is now disputed, and insisted that the circumstances connected with the Mabel Evans lease all pointed to a conspiracy on the part of George Finn, J. C. Patterson and Mabel Evans to defraud the state out of some valuable land. He based his claim of fraud largely on the deposition of Pearl H. Smith, a witness who testified that he had been present at the time the lease was made and that he saw the parties to it.

Mr. Young closed his argument by stating that the state is abundantly able to restore to anybody the money that has been unlawfully taken, that Minnesota is a long way from being bankrupt. He argued that if an individual public officer of the state has exceeded his authority the state is not in any way bound by that officer's acts.

"We want a fair and square construction of the constitution," said Mr. Young, "a construction that shall be fair to both parties in this case."

J. L. Washburn opened the argument for the defense, insisting that the constitutionality of the mining lease law and then the fraud and conspiracy charges in a most vigorous manner. He said that the questions involving the constitutionality of the mining lease law are of the greatest importance to the state, the holders of the leases and the people of the state, and that they require a disposal which will place them before the supreme court as soon as possible.

Mr. Washburn claimed it was the duty of the state, through its legislature, to discover some method by which it could utilize its mineral lands so as to return the largest revenue for the benefit of its institutions. This subject has been up for consideration by the legislature year after year and finally, when a way was devised which the representatives of the people believed to be fair and adequate and which has been generally accepted for years, one department of the state seeks now to bring an action that will undo it all, by claiming that there is only one way to dispose of public lands, and that by public sale.

Mr. Washburn said that the action started has been brought to have set aside this specific lease on the ground of invalidity and, through this lease, to attack the validity of all the leases that the state has issued, on the ground that the law authorizing their issuance is unconstitutional.

He claimed that unless the constitution prohibits an act, the power to do that act is vested in the state through its legislature. Following out this argument, Mr. Washburn claimed that the constitution of the state of Minnesota contemplates the disposition other than by sale of its lands, that it provides for the leasing of lands for revenue, and creates safeguards about these revenues for state institutions.

"It has been generally understood," said Mr. Washburn, "that by the sale of lands is meant the sale of the fee. The court should not now be asked to put a strange or new interpretation on the constitution. The full power should remain with the state to sell, lease or dispose of its lands, unless the constitution positively prohibits the exercise of this power. It is not claimed that the state cannot lease its lands, for it has already done so for years and years."

He claimed that what has been done by the land department, acting on the authority of the legislature, is not a leasing of the lands, but is a sale of the fee, and that the constitution positively prohibits the exercise of this power. It is not claimed that the state cannot lease its lands, for it has already done so for years and years."

Mr. Washburn claimed that before any court can set aside a law of a state there must be found some specific provision which clearly prohibits the legislation, and that this is the doctrine of the supreme court. He then quoted at length authorities to show that every presumption is made in favor of the validity of a statute, and that when a law is susceptible to interpretation it must be given its full effect.

Mineral leases, Mr. Washburn said, had been in use long prior to the 1893 mining law, and can only be said at public auction. "It is not worth while," he asked, "to suggest with all these provisions for sale and lease of land, that the other methods of utilizing the lands?"

Mr. Washburn called attention to the fact that when Judge Douglas, counsel for the state, and he, Mr. Washburn, were in the state legislature framing the mining lease laws and having people to pay their money in them, they did not find it necessary to do so until there is left no escape for the court but to so act.

Mr. Washburn also called by Mr. Washburn to the fact that in spite of the recommendations of the former state auditor years ago that the mining lease law was unconstitutional, no attempt has been made up to the present by the attorney general's department to have the law declared unconstitutional, but that it has been passed on by the legislature, continued to pass new mining lease acts, and suggested that when the acts were passed there were "some mighty good men in the state legislature."

"The courts have had a little to do with it," Mr. Washburn said. "Questions have been up in the United States courts and the supreme court has suggested its unconstitutionality. Some important questions have been decided in the supreme court resting on the validity of the law. I say this to show that the law is not unconstitutional."

"The state cannot make a tender or make good the money it has received under the law. It would result in a confiscation of millions of dollars' worth of property. Any attempt to do so would run the state up against other constitutional provisions."

"The supreme court has declared that where great enterprises have been built up on a practical construction of a constitution, that construction shall stand."

"We say that the state does not sell either the land or the ore by these contracts. We say that it grants the right to take the land or the ore, and, having turned it into personal property, to take it away from the state and sell it, the state to receive a compensation of so much per ton."

"We say the lease is inconsistent with a sale. It does not evidence such a sale. It is a lease, and it is a lease, and it is a lease. Such sale must be a sale of the lands in fee."

"If this contract is a sale, what does it evidence a sale of? The evidence is that both merchantable and non-merchantable ore exists in all ore-bearing bodies. If so, what is the state's interest?"

"The state owns the land at every stage of progress, and when the party is through, quits, or the term of the lease expires, the state still continues in the title. The title has never passed."

"We say that these leases have been construed as valid under constitutional construction, and that these laws are not repugnant to the constitution; that such construction has been placed on it by every state department. It must stand."

Mr. Washburn then took up the other branch of the case, the charge of a conspiracy to defraud the state. He claimed that the complaint itself is inconsistent with a charge of fraud on the part of Finn and Patterson to acquire the lease through Mabel Evans without her knowledge, and then says that Finn, Patterson and Mabel Evans were in a conspiracy to defraud the state.

Mr. Washburn claimed that the Virginia Silver was for over eleven months open for a lease, and asked if it were not possible that there might be such a person as an innocent purchaser.

"The question of fraud," he said, "smirred right down the allegations of Pearl H. Smith, 'backed by his man Friday.'"

Mr. Washburn went to some extent into the Smith deposition and the Bradshaw testimony, and attacked P. H. Smith's case most sarcastically and in scathing terms. He asserted that it was no very pleasing spectacle to see P. H. Smith and P. E. Bradshaw posing as witnesses of the state in a charge of conspiracy against somebody else when they had left no get the swamp land away from the state, and came into play the influence of a United States senator.

FRIGHTFUL TRAGEDY

Acronaut Blown Into Fragments While High
In the Air.

Greenville, O., Sept. 1.—In sight of 25,000 persons, Prof. John Baldwin was blown to atoms here yesterday afternoon by the explosion of six sticks of dynamite while high in the air. His wife and three children were among the spectators who witnessed the tragedy.

Baldwin has been giving daily exhibitions at the county fair here. He would ascend several thousand feet in the air and explode dynamite at intervals. Yesterday he mounted 100 feet in the air every eye among the thousands of spectators below watched him until he became almost a mere speck.

Suddenly a great cloud of smoke appeared. It hid the air ship from view, the spectators, supposed, from sight. In another moment the sound of the explosion reached the straining ear of the watcher, but the air ship did not again appear. For a moment the crowd waited expectantly, thinking that a view of the aeronaut would be obtained through a rift in the smoke. Then a groan of horror rose from the multitude. The air ship had vanished. Searchers immediately began looking for fragments of the wrecked air ship. A half mile away they found pieces of silk cloth of which the balloon was made and splinters of the basket-like framework on which the aeronaut had been perched. Scattered about a twenty acre field were found fragments of Baldwin's body. The distance from which the remnants of the airship fell was so great that the crowds had not seen the fragments fall.

No one can tell how the accident occurred. The six sticks of dynamite which Baldwin carried with him exploded simultaneously as only one report was heard. It is supposed that in igniting the fuse connected with the dynamite he fired the gas in the balloon, and that it exploded, causing the dynamite to explode also. Baldwin's business was aerial warfare demonstrations. For nearly twenty years he has been giving balloon and air ship exhibitions all over the country. He was 37 years old and his home was at Losantville, Ind.

It was with great difficulty that Mrs. Baldwin was revived from the faint which followed the tragedy and her condition is critical.

and at that time it was agreed between Mr. Gilbert and his creditors that instead of being forced to make an assignment, or go into bankruptcy, he would turn his affairs over to a board of trustees, consisting of A. L. Orlean of Duluth, C. F. Latimer of Ashland and John J. Rupp of Sogahaw. These trustees have managed the property ever since, and have fixed matters up so that it was decided at a meeting they held a few days ago to settle all claims up in full.

Most of the property consisted of timber lands, much of which had to be sold to make the settlement, but a large bunch of which remains to Mr. Gilbert.

Social Musical and Club Circles

For several days a woman has been canvassing in the East end of the city in the interest of an art school which she alleges is to be established in Duluth by Prof. Somebody, and to advertise and introduce the school he has hit upon the plan of securing photographs from some of the best people and making enlargements for which they are to pay nothing, but will be expected to hang in their homes where they will be seen.

The game is an old one and has been set forth in the newspapers so many times that it is surprising that anyone should be caught, and yet some of the most prominent people in the East end have given their pictures. The woman takes good care to show the photos of well-known people at the houses she visits and these at once give her a standing. If Mrs. Somebody has given her why of course it must be all right, and straight away the woman of the house gives up hers and swells the collection.

But what is the game, those that have never heard of it will ask. The pictures are to be hung and, of course, that necessitates a frame. The woman gently hints that after she knows your picture. You say you know that and you will get a frame for it. Oh, but you know every artist frames his own pictures. They all insist on that because they would not like their work to appear in something that does not harmonize with it, she says sweetly, but there is a finality about the matter of saying it makes you see at once that the frame must be furnished and you will be expected to pay for it.

She is very tactful and very suave and makes it difficult for you to get angry with her and she goes out with your picture goes to the next house shows yours and gets one there. Some fine day a big chap will come around with a very ordinary copy of a picture with a cheap frame for which you will be expected to pay a handsome price. If you refuse there is trouble, and unless you buy it from him, you do not know where your portrait will be kicking around. You will have to buy the frame at his price to get your picture out of his hands.

The thing has been worked off and on for several years in Duluth, but about half a dozen years ago an instance became very prominent because of the very large number of photos that had been collected and the length of time that had elapsed without hearing anything of them. It then developed that a Duluth artist had been engaged and was getting out the pictures of the whole lot. In his studio were the photos of scores of people, showing how profitable the game is when it comes to making for the frame, the charge will be all the way from a few dollars up, according to how liberal the agent thinks you will be willing to contribute in order to get your picture out of his hands.

BREAKING AN ENGAGEMENT
By Frank H. Meloon.
(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)
Edna came down the path cycling meekly and nervously.
"So we're not engaged?" I demanded.
"Very gracious of you to grant me this interview," I conceded, with mock composure. "But will you do me the particular favor to tell me why we're not engaged?"
There was no answer.
"Just your word and isn't my word worth something?" I demanded, working myself into a very proper passion.
"Maybe they are and maybe they aren't," was the noncommittal reply. "But when I say we're not engaged, that means we're not. And Edna tossed her head in that pretty way she has, and stamped her shapely little foot determinedly.
"Oh, it does, does it?" I retorted. "Well, after all, I never did care so much about the engagement. I hate to throw these things up at you, as it were."
"Don't spare me," she retorted, rather cruelly, I thought.
"Well, then," and I braced myself square, "there is the engagement ring." I felt that I had scored a point. "It is a diamond ring, and I suppose you're worried about the payment of the next installment?"
"I suggested after a while. Edna's reply nearly floored me.
"There is," she answered simply.
"And he is—?" I asked.
"Mr. Ketchum?"
"Yes, your Mr. Ketchum."
"Great heavens! You aren't engaged to him already?"
"Since last evening."
I noticed Edna was peeping out of the corner of her eyes to see what effect this would have on me, but I concealed my emotions as best I could. Up to this point I had not wholly given up winning her over from her harsh mistress, but now I saw she had a motive. I have always been afraid of women with motives. They are nearly as bad as women with moods. One had no regard for the laws of the road and the other has no regard for anything whatsoever except that which she has in view.
"I never thought you would marry for money," I told her.
"Suddenly not—when you asked me to be your wife," she flung back. I could see that Edna was getting impatient and losing her temper besides. A woman is liable to lose her temper when she gets impatient. I concluded to close the interview, seeing that to prolong it would be of no use.
"At least you will congratulate me on one thing?" I ventured.
"What is it?" she asked cautiously.
Edna's eyes were still snapping sparks of fire, but her curiosity led her on.
"My coming marriage," I answered as nonchalantly as possible.
"To whom, may I ask?" she said, looking surprised and, though I do say it, somewhat disappointed and a little shaken up.
"To Ketchum's daughter," I replied. "You will thus have the pleasure of being my step-mother-in-law."
"Well, I congratulate you," said Edna slowly, and then she went back into the house, leaving me standing by the gate in something of a quandary.
I had told Edna a falsehood, but it gave me a clue to my proper course of action, and when old Ketchum and Edna were married a fortnight later, the engagement of Miss Daisy Ketchum to your humble servant was made public for the first time. Old Ketchum loved, but Edna was a good step-mother-in-law to me and exercised her influence in my behalf very effectively. I was never sorry that engagement story popped into my head as it did, and eventually I gave Edna our old engagement ring as a souvenir for it was a real diamond after all, and I had bought it on the installment plan, my seeming self-committal to the contrary notwithstanding.

WOULD PREVENT SALE OF TIMBER

Minority Interests In Ash River Company Ask Injunction.

Would Prevent a Million Dollar Deal With Weyerhaeuser.

Charging that the directors of the Ash River Land & Timber company are about to sell to Frederick Weyerhaeuser, of a vast quantity of standing pine, for $1,000,000, in defiance to and without the consent of the minority stockholders, William O'Brien, Samuel McCure and James Mulvey have brought an action in the district court against the company, its directors, Henry Turish, W. K. Coffin, H. S. Levy and M. S. Stein, to restrain them from disposing of the timber to Weyerhaeuser, and to restrain Weyerhaeuser from purchasing the same.

They demand a temporary injunction pending the trial of the case and Judge Dubel has issued an order to show cause, returnable Saturday, Sept. 9. In the complaint it is stated that the Ash River Land & Timber company was organized a few years ago for the purpose of acquiring and owning what is known in timber and lumber circles as the White-Pine timber tract, and it is asserted that the transfer and sale of the timber would reduce the value of the stock held by the complainants at least one-third and cause them irreparable injury. It is also claimed that since Frederick Weyerhaeuser made his offer of $1,000,000, another responsible party offered $1,075,000, but that the board of directors, Aug. 26, disregarding the request of William O'Brien, that the proposition be left to a vote of the stockholders, passed a resolution that the timber be sold to Weyerhaeuser and that he have 50 years to remove it.

The lands described embrace the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 2-36-18, together with 18,000 acres of other timber lands in townships 66-2, 67-19, 67-20, 67-21, 68-19, 68-20, 69-19, and 69-20, all within St. Louis county.

The complaint says that the Ash River Land & Timber company purchased the timber lands for more than $500,000, and that William O'Brien owns one-eighth interest, Samuel McCure, one-sixteenth interest, James Mulvey, one-sixteenth interest, and that Henry Turish owns at least 45 per cent of the capital stock. Allegations are made that if the sale be permitted to go through, the directors are threatening to retire about 55 per cent of the stock and practically close up the business of the company, hence the permanent restraining order that is asked. Mr. O'Brien and the other minority stockholders are represented in the action by H. B. Fryberger.

SHIPMENTS OF ORE

Existing Records Again Broken—Total of 3,380,262 Tons

Steamer Gary Carries 56,000 Tons In the Single Month.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Duluth & Iron Range roads broke their previous ore-shipping records during the month of August. The Missabe line leading with a total of 1,432,556 gross tons, which is the greatest amount of ore that was ever shipped by an individual ore-shipping system in one month in the world. The previous record was 1,408,977 tons in July, sent down the lakes by the same road. The total of the three ore-carrying roads for August was 3,380,262 tons.

The Great Northern road's shipments show a falling off over those of the month of July. In July they were $2,525 tons, and in August 2,000 tons. A year ago during August they were 87,278 tons. Whether the falling off is in any manner due to the cleaveland strike is not announced by the officials. The excessive rains earlier in the month had a tendency to make the shipments from the mines smaller earlier in the month than in the month of July. The shipments of the other two roads show an increase over those of the preceding month and those of August, 1904. The total of the Iron Range road for the month was 1,432,708. The shipments of the season are already several hundred thousand tons in excess of the entire shipments during 1904.

The shipments of the month, as compared with those of August, 1904, are shown to be as follows:

	August, 1904.	August, 1905.
D. M. & N.....	85,699	1,432,556
D. & I. R.....	872,345	1,245,708
Great Northern.....	807,278	760,998
Totals.....	2,565,322	3,380,262

Season's shipments: 1904. 1905.

D. M. & N.....	2,148,019	5,589,491
D. & I. R.....	2,065,569	5,002,491
Great Northern.....	1,976,477	2,165,025
Totals.....	6,190,065	12,757,007

The big steamer E. H. Gary broke all boat one-carrying records during the month of August. She took five cargoes of ore, comprising a total of 56,000 tons, from Ashland to Chicago in the thirty-one days. At the rate of 75 cents a ton, the Gary's gross earnings for the month were $2,000. Her running expenses, it is said, came less than $400 for the month. This leaves a profit of at least $1,600. The Gary is a steel corporation boat.

RILEY IS RELEASED

Prisoner Brought Back From Winnipeg, the Wrong Man.

After escaping from the town marshal at International Falls and later being arrested in Winnipeg as Michael Riley, from a description furnished by the Duluth police, William Riley was this morning released from custody, when the authorities became convinced that a case of mistaken identity was responsible for his arrest.

Riley was brought back to Duluth to answer a charge of passing a forged check for $146 on a Lake Avenue Savings Bank. From the evidence they had at hand, and the description furnished them, the police thought that Riley was the man they wanted, and after a chase, which has lasted nearly six months, they got him into custody. Later developments have shown them that it was a case of mistaken identity, and Riley was released this morning.

"It was our mistake entirely," said Chief Troyer, this morning, "and it was no fault of the Winnipeg police that they arrested Riley. They did it on a description furnished by us."

FINAL ASSESSMENT.

Last Call on First Street Property Owners.

The final assessment for the paving of First street, amounting to a little more than $30,000 was levied by the board of assessors at the meeting held this morning.

Several tax payers appeared to protest in Sixth street from Fifth to Seventh avenue east, and for the culvert over Brewery creek in Third alley. The cost of the work exceeded the contract price in both cases, by a considerable amount. This was owing to the excessive amount of rock encountered in the sewer work, and to the additional length of the culvert, which it was found necessary to make longer than expected.

Next Tuesday, last of the Herald excursions on the steamer American. Thirty miles down the lake and back for only 25 cents. Boat leaves Booth's dock at 4 p. m., returning at 9 p. m. Get your tickets at the Herald office and enjoy the pleasant trip of your life.

HOT ON THE TRAIL

Of Maine's "Bad Man" Who Is Fortified By Dynamite.

Battle Due When the Game Wardens Take "Doc" McKenzie.

Greenville, Me., Sept. 1.—State Game Wardens Irving Hamilton and David P. Brown, with a posse of other wardens have left here for the woods of Northern Maine, with instructions to arrest "Doc" McKenzie, an ex-convict and preacher, who is considered one of the most desperate violators of the game laws with which the state has ever been forced to deal. A short time ago two wardens held him up and shot him in the leg, but he got away and it is expected that a lively battle will be fought before he is taken.

McKenzie has been known as a "bad man" since he nearly killed Charles Kelley at a dinner party in Grand Isle several years ago, during a fight. He is about 35 years old, is tall, thin, broad-shouldered, and is said to be able to run for hours with a hunk or heavy canvas on his back. He can strike with the force of a triphammer, and is alleged to be able to break a man's leg with his bare hands. In his fight with Kelley he crumpled up one of his legs as though it had been made of thin plaster.

McKenzie was arrested for his assault on Kelley and served three years in prison. When he came out Kelley was dead and he went into the lumber camps, where he has been a terror ever since. The wardens say that he violated the game laws when and where he pleased and established a luxurious camp at Harrington Lake. This he stocked with furniture and provisions, said to have been stolen from sporting camps in the vicinity.

In July, when he was wanted for killing a moose out of season, Wardens Hamilton and Brown were sent after him and met him on July 10 carrying a heavy pack on his shoulders, but he saw them in time to drop the pack and escape. The men continued on to his camp, where they say they found a veritable woodland palace. Chests of clothing, cases of ammunition and barrels of food were stored about, and the place was all ready for a long siege.

Wires were found running to twenty points about the camp, and on following these the officers discovered that each ended in a mine filled with heavy charges of dynamite. Besides the mines, which were capped and ready to explode at a moment's notice, several dynamite bombs were found under the bunk McKenzie occupied. Each of these was powerful enough to wreck the place. All along the walls were rifles loaded with soft-nosed bullets, and stacks of ammunition were arranged on shelves close to the walls, through which the rifles could be operated.

When McKenzie failed to appear, the wardens removed the dynamite from the mines, destroyed the bombs and took a round of all the furnishings. They then left and in an investigation which followed it was ascertained that much of the plunder belonged to the Great Northern Paper company and was a summer camp which was closed for the summer. The search for the ex-convict was then resumed and all the wardens who could be reached were asked to join in the chase.

When the cabin was again visited the plunder was found intact, but it was evident that McKenzie had returned and hid. His trail led to the north woods along the Canadian border, and the game warden Capt. Brown, when he tries to go through the passes to the Allagash and Canada, McKenzie is known to be carrying at least two rifles and to have plenty of food, ammunition and money. As he has grown more and more desperate, a bloody fight is probable.

DEFENSIVE ALLIANCE

Provided in the New Anglo-Japanese Treaty.

London, Sept. 1.—Diplomatic circles here are taking new interest in the new Anglo-Japanese treaty, but as yet they are not in possession of anything beyond the broad outlines already cabled. They are satisfied that it provides a defensive alliance on one hand, guaranteeing Japan the fruits of her victories in the far East, and on the other hand, insuring Great Britain against aggression in India. The diplomats express themselves well satisfied that it guarantees peace. In German circles the treaty is looked upon favorably.

bly. It is expected that it will be promulgated immediately upon the signing of the Portsmouth treaty.

When in the East Mr. Buckman heard Duluth spoken of very highly by leading wholesalers.

RUSSIANS PUT OUT

Of Frisco Hotel With Two Lady Guests.

San Francisco, Sept. 1.—Two officers of the Russian transport Lena, interned at the Mare Island navy yard, were "out-tuned" from the Palace Hotel during the small and quiet hours of this morning. The night watchman of the big caravanserai decided that the two officers of the Russian war vessel were not desirable guests and compelled them to beat a hasty retreat into the night. Incidentally, two lady guests at the Palace Hotel were required to leave at the same time.

Capt. A. Glinther, who is in command of the Lena, and his second officer, Capt. S. Ratnamoff, are the two Russian officers who figured in the episode. The Lena's officers have been making merry in San Francisco. Their parole for Mare Island permits them to journey as far as the city, and here at times they have been diligently lessening the horrors of international strife.

The Russian officers have returned to their more severe quarters on the Lena. The two ladies who were concerned have sought quarters in a more sequestered part of town. One of them claims to be the wife of a diplomat in Russia. The other is unmarried and registered from New York.

WHEAT IS FIRMER

Wet Weather and Higher Cables Cause an Advance.

Some Flax Shorts Get Nervous and Price Moves Up.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 1.—Wheat was somewhat higher today, owing largely to the wet weather in the Northwest and the higher foreign markets. The strength was not very great, however, for the forecast was for clear weather, and this alleviated the alarm. September in Duluth advanced 3/4c, 3/4c in Chicago, 1/2c in Minneapolis and New York, and 1/4c in Kansas City, while in St. Louis it was 1/4c lower.

The Liverpool market closed 1/8c higher, Paris unchanged and Budapest 3/4c higher.

Stocks of wheat at Duluth are expected to decrease 37,000 bush this week, and that would bring them under 400,000 bush. Car receipts at Duluth were 15 against 18 last year, and at Minneapolis 12 against 23 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 37 against 28 last year. Chicago received 21 against 29 last year. Primary receipts of wheat were $2.40 a bush last year, September 1, 1904, and $2.40 a bush last year 1904-05. Clearances of wheat and flour were 40,000 bush last year, and 1,000,000 bush this year. Good News For Careful Buyers

We are happy to state to our many patrons that by buying independent of that grasping octopus, the Grocers' association, we can give them greater values than ever. We are able to buy our goods at a lower price, which, combined with the fact that we are willing to take a fair, instead of an exorbitant profit, makes this store recognized as underselling any other grocery in Duluth.

If You Have Hay Fever, Don't Suffer

A Carence Nasal Shield Prevents Hay Fever and Asthma

This is the only instrument which gives instant and permanent relief from Hay Fever and Asthma

A BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE UNDISPUTED FACTS REGARDING THE CARENCE NASAL SHIELD:

FIRST—The Shield reduces the labor of the nostrils one-half, which means that the same amount of poisoned air is excluded from the nose.

SECOND—The air which does enter the nostrils passes through a very fine screened opening.
This screen prevents the smallest particle of dust from passing through it.

THIRD—The medicated pads keep the nostrils open and in normal condition.

THE TRIBES OF DWARFS

In Central Africa Visited By American Woman
Missionary.

New York, Sept. 1.—Until recent years the very existence of tribes of dwarfs in Central Africa has been disputed, notwithstanding the testimony of explorers, because the little people are very shy, and when one of their villages is found it is more than likely to have been deserted by the inhabitants. But a visit to the dwarfs is no longer difficult, and an American woman, Miss Jean MacKenzie, who is connected with one of the West African stations of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, has just sent to the office of the board, in this city, a report of a visit she made to them.

Miss MacKenzie begins her account of the trip with the laconic statement:
"We started off in the rain. When we struck into the bush we led the caravan. I walked after, and could just see the path after he had showed it. The wet leaves brushed my face, and all the forest was full of a perfect green light. Some flowers were here, but not many—rather all the forest dress was green, except where little streams ran brown. Thus we walked for three-quarters of an hour, when he would ahead to tell the people of his village that a woman of the "minis" was coming. At noon, after a walk of four hours, I stepped into the clearing, where the dwarf shelters lay.

I sat down in the first shelter, beside a little shrunken woman, who shrank away. I did not speak to her more than to greet her, but looked about me. The settlement lay on the side of a hill, and took the form of a rectangle, with one side open. There were no houses, properly speaking, but four shelters made with roots of leaves, the eaves sloping from a roof-tree, about five feet high. It is easiest to enter such a shelter from the open ends. This much I saw as I sat beside the woman.

"Presently one little man after another came from somewhere and shook hands with me pleasantly enough, until quite a company were squatted in front of the shelter, watching me
breathe. The women hung back. I could see them watching me from under cover. I think there must have been twenty adults about the settlement within fifteen minutes of my arrival.

other came from somewhere and shook
hands with me pleasantly enough, until quite a company were squatted in front of the shelter, watching me
breathe. The women hung back. I could see them watching me from
been twenty adults about the settlement within fifteen minutes of my arrival.

"I still rained, and the people made off to their shelters, and those living in neighboring settlements disappeared. The normal life of the village was resumed. They prepared a shelter for me, and from where I lay on my bed of poles, a foot shorter than myself, I watched the people. There were four beds in each hut, and two fires,

Those women who were not cooking over the fires lay on the beds, as did the men. After I was rested I sat in other huts with the women. They surfaced, I suppose, from dumb alarms, as they distrusted me. My heart felt like lead. I afterward walked to another settlement and saw other such people, most of whom had come to see me when I arrived. I thought: This is the primeval slime at the bottom of the sea of life. I know that there are other times and seasons and aspects, but so the dwarfs appeared on that rainy day, to one missionary, who is a woman.

ELOPED A YEAR AGO And Now They Have Been Married.

Youngstown, Ohio, Sept. 1.—A marriage at Rosemont, this county, in a little home which the bridegroom had acquired, was the consummation of a romance which started with John Kreiner and Lillian Willett, in Virginia. It was nearly a year ago when two seemingly young boys wandered into the office of Probate Judge J. C.
Ewing, here. They asked for help.
"For me and my little brother," said
Kreiner, giving his name. Judge Ewing gave them sufficient money to go to the home of a friend, Dr. Wagner, at Ellsworth, and on the judge's recommendation the doctor hired both as farm hands. The younger said he could cook, and a trial showed that he could. The discovery was followed shortly afterward that the cook was a girl. The confessed. Kreiner said that his home was in Maryland, and that he had gone to work in Virginia, where he met the girl.

They were afraid to ask parental consent, and decided to elope. The girl cut her hair and donned boy's clothes, and the easiest way to escape suspicion. They tramped here together. After the discovery of the sex of the girl, the boy left the employ of Dr. Wagner, getting a job on the railroad, and setting out to acquire a home. He rented a little cottage, which he fitted up for his bride, and waited. They decided that they would be married at once and start housekeeping.

FUGITIVE TEACHER. Broken Down and Is Spurred By Wife.

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 1.—Prof. Henry F. Brooks, former principal of the Uniontown public schools, is in the county jail here. He has just been brought from Liverpool, England, where he was arrested three weeks ago on sleeping from a New York liner.
Prof. Brooks was on his way to Paraguay to embark in the cattle business with the $2,000 which he is alleged to have embezzled from the Uniontown school funds.

The condition of Brooks, once the most trusted of Uniontown citizens, is most pitiful. He has broken down completely. His wife and brother, to whom he looked for help on reaching Uniontown, have ignored him. Mrs.
Brooks, whom he deserted, is living in McKeesport, and a messenger sent to her by the imprisoned man brought back the reply that when Mrs. Brooks met her husband again it would be in the hospital and she would appear as a proscriber.

News that his wife, too, had cast him off and a hint that she would join him for desertion, were too much for the man who collapsed utterly and had to have the care of a physician.

It is claimed by Brooks that letters were sent him asking him to return quietly to Uniontown, where his brother would fix matters for him, but in this he was misled. His brother is in Salt Lake township and refuses to have anything to do with the alsonder, and the jail physician fears for Brooks' reason now.

FALLING TO AN AWFUL DEATH, MAN GRABS WIRE AND IS ELECTROCUTED

Yawning Tanks of Boiling Metal Were Waiting Below Him.

He Saw His Fate and Caught an Uninsulated Current.

Was Instantly Killed and Body Remained on Dead Wire.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Nels Anderson, a motor inspector for the Illinois Steel company, chose death by electrocution in preference to a more horrible fate in one of the company's seething metal pits today at the South Chicago works.

Anderson was doing repair work on the arm of a crane, directly above one of the hot metal pits. A slight movement of the arm caused him to lose his balance. The only support within reach was an uninsulated live wire, which connected the crane with power. The doomed man gave one glance at the white-hot metal below, and caught the wire as he was falling. He was almost instantly killed, and the body hung over the wire until the current could be shut off.

FIELD IS TO MARRY A RICH WIDOW

London, Sept. 2.—Marshall Field, the wealthy Chicago merchant has been granted a special license to marry Mrs. Della Spencer Cato, also of Chicago. The wedding will take place September 5, at St. Margaret's church, Westminster.

Mr. Field has been a widower for some years. Mrs. Cato's husband, Arthur, a well known whip and sportsman, died suddenly at a hotel in New York during the horse show last winter. Her wealth extends into the millions. Since the death of her husband, she has held aloof from social functions, and in the latter part of June, left for Europe with her sister. She met Mr. Field in Switzerland after he went abroad in July. Since then the party has toured through Spain, Italy, and the Alps. They were last heard from by their friends at Barca, Switzerland. Only the immediate members of the families will be present. Mr. and Mrs. Field will return to America in about a month's time, after a short honeymoon in Europe.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—There have been frequent rumors that Marshall Field and Mrs. Della Spencer Cato, who is the widow of Arthur Cato, would marry. Marshall Field, whose wealth is estimated at between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000, was 70 years of age on Aug. 18. Mrs. Cato, who was Miss Della Spencer, daughter of the man who founded the hardware establishment of Hibbs, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., is 46 years old. She is one of the leading figures in Chicago society, and is ranked second to none of the society leaders. Mrs. Cato not only inherited the estate of her husband, but a large portion of the state of her father. She is reputed to be worth between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

POSSE OF PEOPLE HUNTING FOR AN ALLEGED MANIAC

Lorain, O., Sept. 2.—A posse of one hundred men headed by Sheriff Salisbury is today scouring the country in Avon township near here, in search of Peter Pitts, an alleged maniac who has been terrorizing the people throughout the district for several days. Pitts is heavily armed and it is believed he will only be captured after a desperate fight. The citizens forming the posse are armed with rifles and revolvers. Pitts is charged with setting fire to a farm house on Wednesday night. The building was destroyed and the inmates narrowly escaped with their lives. Since then he is accused of having attempted to break the Toledo limited on the Lake Shore electric road by piling ties on the track. The motorman, however, discovered the ties in time to avert a wreck. The maniac has also attempted to kill several women and children by shooting at them. A report reached here early today that the posse had surrounded Pitts in a cornfield.

FOUNDER OF ROYAL ARCANUM THINKS ITS DAYS NUMBERED

Put-In-Bay, Ohio, Sept. 2.—Edwin Hedden of Baltimore, who on Tuesday addressed the meeting of the Royal Arcanum in a plan based on "Table A," with the attained age clause eliminated, and whose ideas were endorsed by many of the protesting delegates opened today's session. He said he owed it to the supreme council and himself to say he was convinced by the address of Abb Landis of Nashville, the expert fraternal actuary, that his calculations were radically wrong, but the differences were not so irreconcilable but that a plan of modification of the rates might be arrived at that would relieve the tension existing. The discussion between Mr. Landis and the delegates as to plans occupied the entire morning session. Dr. Darin S. Wilson of Boston, founder of the order, stated he came here with a sad heart, and feeling that the days of the order were numbered, because of the rates adopted at Atlantic City. Something absolutely must be done to relieve the old men now in the order.

AN ULTIMATUM SENT TO SULTAN

Paris, Sept. 2.—The government has addressed to the sultan of Morocco another peremptory note amounting to an ultimatum. This note says that the release of the imprisoned Algerian citizen Bouzain is not sufficient and demands in addition, first, the payment of an indemnity; second, the punishment of the Caid who made the arrest, and third, a public apology. If all these demands are not granted within a brief delay the French minister will be ordered to leave Fez preparatory to the adoption of coercive measures.

UNKNOWN WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE

Minneapolis, Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald).—The body of a woman was found hanging by a shawl strap to an oak tree near Crystal Lake, Minneapolis, late yesterday. The woman had not been dead more than two hours. No one of the hundreds who viewed her body could identify it.

The woman was apparently 30 years old, five feet five inches tall, blue eyes and dark curly hair. She was dressed in a white waist with polka dots and a black tailor made skirt. A purse containing 28 cents, but nothing by which her name could be identified, was found lying on the ground at her feet. The police record of the missing woman in Minneapolis, does not contain a description which agrees with that of the woman.

DANGER OF CHOLERA REACHING UNITED STATES IS VERY REMOTE

Germans Have Long Expected the Present Epidemic and Have Made Preparations to Control It.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—The ministry of the interior has issued a notice assuring the public that there is no reason for anxiety on account of the appearance of cholera in German territory. The government has long reckoned on the present situation. A circular dispatch was sent by the imperial department of the interior to the confederated states in January, calling attention to the possibility of cholera, and requesting them not to be unprepared to deal with an infection.

"Resisting the spread of cholera," the official notice says, "has become much easier under the imperial epidemic law of June 1, 1900, giving the health police proper powers. These powers have been fully exercised in sequestering persons that have cholera, or have been exposed to it, or who have doubtful symptoms, and in watching over persons and property employed in traffic on the rivers (Widder, Bräse and Netze and the Hamburg canal.)" from the disease were registered in one day.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—The Kresch Anzeiger officially announced today that forty-three cases of cholera and seventeen deaths had occurred in Germany up to noon today. The German imperial health office today made the following statement, concerning the probability of cholera reaching the United States from Germany: "The danger of the migration of cholera to America from Germany is remote. Since the experiences of 1892-93, arrangements have been perfected to combat the disease even if its importation cannot be prevented. Hamburg and Bremen are the most dangerous spots, and to them the most care has been devoted. So far only sporadic cases have occurred within German territory, derived from Russian raftsmen and the single emigrant who died at Hamburg."

Warsaw, Sept. 2.—The reports from West Prussia, and the announcement of three deaths from cholera in Galicia, yesterday, no longer leave any doubt that the Vistula district is infected for the present. It is known that four deaths from cholera occurred in Russian Poland, and several suspected cases are announced from Cichocinek, a watering place not far from the Russian frontier. The government of Kielce, bordering on Galicia, is still free from the epidemic. Warsaw itself is also exempt and the special committee is ready to act in case of an increase in the disease. The rafts aloft have been placed in quarantine.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 2.—It is expected that the text of the treaty will be completed today. Only two articles remain to be drafted. Two calligraphers from the state department are already here to begin the work of engrossing, and everything now indicates that the ceremony of signing the treaty can take place Tuesday at the latest, possibly Monday.

The statement in the Associated Press dispatches last night that the series of conferences which continued until almost midnight related to differences over the article concerning the division of Sakhalin, is fully confirmed. The Japanese at first were inclined to be obdurate, but an arrangement mutually satisfactory was provisionally agreed to and it is expected to be finally ratified by the chief envoys during the day.

The article relating to Sakhalin will be in accordance with the original agreement as given in the Associated Press dispatches, namely, mutual obligation not to fortify Sakhalin and obligation on the part of Japan not to fortify Le Perouse straits. The only other question which remains to be solved is involved in the details of the evacuation of Manchuria. The troops are to be immediately withdrawn, the Japanese to the line of Mukden and the Russians to the line of the part of the subsequent withdrawal have not yet been arranged. It is the word describing the status of Le Perouse straits should be "open," but the Russians wanted it distinctly specified that no fortifications should be erected on Japan's side which could support a war fleet, or under whose guns a fleet could operate. As to the evacuation of Manchuria the Japanese want the method and time of the withdrawal for troops particularly specified, and the number of the railroad guards, which are to remain, specified in the bond. To permit this question to be left open would be equivalent to a tacit understanding that Russia was to retain her "sphere of influence" in Northern Manchuria, and Japan hers in Southern Manchuria. It would revive in a way the very question which existed before the war. Control of Manchuria might become a bone of contention, leading eventually to another war.

The interruption of communication with Japan may delay slightly the signing of the treaty. The Associated Press has reached the Japanese envoys for four days and they are now proceeding under their general instructions. A cable has been received from the Japanese consul at Hongkong saying that he could not tell when communication would be restored. The typhoon which interrupted communication was very severe, but it is not known whether it affected both the land and submarine lines. Baron Komura has not yet decided whether he will assume the responsibility of signing it without direct authority. He does not, however, the delay would be only a matter of two or three days as a special steamer could go from Shanghai to Nagasaki in fifty hours.

The Japanese say the emperor's failure to send a message of thanks to President Roosevelt is undoubtedly due to the interruption of communication. The Japanese want the method and time of the withdrawal for troops particularly specified, and the number of the railroad guards, which are to remain, specified in the bond. To permit this question to be left open would be equivalent to a tacit understanding that Russia was to retain her "sphere of influence" in Northern Manchuria, and Japan hers in Southern Manchuria. It would revive in a way the very question which existed before the war. Control of Manchuria might become a bone of contention, leading eventually to another war.

FIRST NEWS OF PEACE Allowed to Reach Army in the Field.

Gunshu Pass, Manchuria, Friday, Sept. 1.—The first intimation of an agreement between the peace envoys was printed in today's issue of the Army Organ, but Vitter's message to Emperor Nicholas received today was held over for tomorrow. From various sources the news of the agreement percolated into the communities at Koclatien and Gunshu Pass Aug. 31, but comment was withheld pending military sanction for its publication, and the news is yet too vaguely known or realized to note its effect. Arrangements, however, have already been instituted for the establishment and maintenance of a neutral zone between the armies pending their demobilization. The army has had ample time to accustom itself to the idea of peace. The men have followed the discussion as closely as delayed dispatches permitted and it is evident that the idea of paying an indemnity was the most unwelcome of the Japanese conditions. The foreign military attaches are expected to be recalled and are arranging for formal leave taking of the commanders. The industrial and missionary interests are already preparing to resume their enterprises, disorganized by the war.

SLIGHT HITCH Said to Have Occurred Over Sakhalin Island.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 2.—The only possible hitch on the horizon of the peace conference, according to reports current here, which, however, are not officially confirmed, arises out of evident misunderstanding over the question of the neutralization of the island of Sakhalin. According to the Japanese understanding reached on Tuesday contemplated a mutual obligation on the part of the two countries not to fortify the island. At St. Petersburg, however, there seems to have been an assumption that the agreement involved freedom of action upon the north of Russia in this respect in the north of Sakhalin, with an obligation on the part of the Japanese not to fortify or use for strategic purposes the portion of the island owned by her before 1876, which is to be retroceded in the present treaty. It is expected on both sides, however, that the hitch, if it really exists as reported, will shortly be straightened out and it is believed that one of the subjects of last night's conference related to this point.

NO STEPS YET TAKEN To Terminate Movements of Troops to East.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2, 6:20 p. m.—The Associated Press was informed at the war office at 4 o'clock this afternoon that no formal orders have yet been given regarding the armies, that no steps have yet been taken to terminate the movement of troops going to the Far East and that no recent mobilization has been discontinued. In fact no steps have yet been taken towards putting an end to the regular work of shipping men and supplies to Manchuria or any other business connected with keeping the Manchurian army on a war footing. The explanation was that no orders would be given to these ends until the details of the formal announcement of an armistice are fully understood with the Japanese after formal orders have been sent by Russia and Japan to their respective commanders, who will meet in the field and arrange the details, such as determining the dividing line, etc.

TWO SECTIONS IN COLLISION

Bar Harbor Express Wrecked and Several Passengers Injured.

South Gardiner, Me., Sept. 2.—The second section of the Bar Harbor express on the Main Central railroad, bound eastward, crashed into the rear car of the first section near the station here early today. The car was badly wrecked and about fifteen passengers were hurt, one man seriously. The chief injuries resulted from scalding by escaping steam from the locomotive. The injured were taken to Gardiner and Augusta. None of the cars left the track. The engineer and fireman of the second section were hurt, but not seriously.

PRETTY GIRL DISFIGURED FOR LIFE

New York, Sept. 2.—Miss Mary Faglia, a beautiful Italian girl of Brooklyn, was shockingly mutilated today by a woman who is said to have been made jealous by her husband's admiration for the girl's pretty face. Miss Faglia was in her own home when the jealous woman attacked her with a razor and slashed her face terribly, inflicting three large gashes, one across the temple, another opening her cheek from ear to mouth and a third almost severing the end of her nose. Miss Faglia declared that she did not know the cause of the vicious assault, but a relative who saw Mrs. Francesca Delmonte disappear over a fence when she responded to the screams of the injured girl, supplied the accepted motive. The police searched for Mrs. Delmonte but could not find her. Miss Faglia was not fatally hurt, but was disfigured for life. She declared she would settle her account with her assailant without the aid of the police.

FALLING TO AN AWFUL DEATH, MAN GRABS WIRE AND IS ELECTROCUTED

Yawning Tanks of Boiling Metal Were Waiting Below Him.

He Saw His Fate and Caught an Uninsulated Current.

Was Instantly Killed and Body Remained on Deadly Wire.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Nels Anderson, a motor inspector for the Illinois Steel company, whose death by electrocution in preference to a more horrible fate in one of the company's seething metal pits today at the South Chicago works.

Anderson was doing repair work on the arm of a crane, directly above one of the hot metal pits. A slight movement of the arm caused him to lose his balance. The only support within reach was an uninsulated live wire, which connected the crane with power. The doomed man gave one glance at the white hot metal below, and caught the wire as he was falling. He was almost instantly killed, and the body hung over the wire until the current could be shut off.

FIELD IS TO MARRY A RICH WIDOW

London, Sept. 2.—Marshall Field, the wealthy Chicago merchant has been granted a special license to marry Mrs. Delia Spencer Cato, also of Chicago. The wedding will take place September 5, at St. Margaret's church, Westminster.

Mr. Field has been a widower for some years. Mrs. Cato's husband, Arthur, a well known whip and sportsman, died suddenly at a hotel in New York during the horse show last winter. Her wealth extends into the millions. Since the death of her husband, she has held aloof from social functions, and in the latter part of June, left for Europe with her sister. She met Mr. Field in Switzerland, and they were abroad in July. Since then the party has toured through Spain, Italy, and the Alps. They were last heard from by their friends at Baven, Switzerland. Only the immediate members of the families will be present. Mr. and Mrs. Field will return to America in about a month's time, after a short honeymoon in Europe.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—There have been frequent rumors that Marshall Field and Mrs. Delia Spencer Cato, who is the widow of Arthur Cato, would be married. Marshall Field, whose wealth is estimated at between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000, was 70 years of age on Aug. 18. Mrs. Cato, who was Miss Delia Spencer, daughter of the man who founded the hardware establishment of Hildner, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., is 46 years old. She is one of the leading figures in Chicago society, and has been ranked second to none of the society leaders.

Mrs. Cato not only inherited the estate of her husband, but a large portion of the state of her father. She is reported to be worth between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

POSSE OF PEOPLE HUNTING FOR AN ALLEGED MANIAC

Lorain, O., Sept. 2.—A posse of one hundred men headed by Sheriff Salisbury is today scouring the country in Avon township near here, in search of Peter Pitts, an alleged maniac who has been terrorizing the people throughout the district for several days. Pitts is heavily armed and it is believed he will only be captured after a desperate fight. The citizens forming the posse are armed with rifles and revolvers. Pitts is charged with setting fire to a farm house on Wednesday night. The building was destroyed and the inmates narrowly escaped with their lives. Since then he is accused of having attempted to wreck the Toledo limited on the Lake Shore electric road by piling ties on the track. The motorman, however, discovered the maniac and attempted to kill several women and children by shooting at them. A posse reached here early today that the posse had surrounded Pitts in a cornfield.

FOUNDER OF ROYAL ARCANUM THINKS ITS DAYS NUMBERED

Put-in-Bay, Ohio, Sept. 2.—Edwin Hedden of Baltimore, who on Tuesday addressed the meeting of the Royal Arcanum in a plan based on "Table A," with the attained age clause eliminated, and whose ideas were endorsed by many of the protesting delegates at today's session. He said he owed it to the supreme council and himself to say he was convinced by the address of Abb Landis of Nashville, the expert fraternal actuary, that his calculations were radically wrong, but the differences were not so irreconcilable, but that a plan of modification of the rates might be arrived at that would relieve the tension existing. The discussion between Mr. Landis and the delegates as to plans occupied the entire morning session. Dr. Hedden's address, founder of the order, stated he came here with a sad heart, and feeling that the days of the order were numbered, by which the woman could be identified with a description which agrees with that of the woman.

AN ULTIMATUM SENT TO SULTAN

Paris, Sept. 2.—The government has addressed to the sultan of Morocco another peremptory note amounting to an ultimatum. This note says that the release of the imprisoned Algerian citizen Bouzain is not sufficient and demands in addition, first, the payment of an indemnity; second, the punishment of the sultan who made the arrest; and third, a public apology. If all these demands are not granted within a brief delay the French minister will be ordered to leave Fez preparatory to the adoption of coercive measures.

UNKNOWN WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE

Minneapolis, Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald)—The body of a woman was found hanging by a shawl strap to an oak tree near Crystal Lake, Minneapolis, late yesterday. The woman had not been dead more than two hours. No one of the hundreds who viewed her body could identify it.

The woman was apparently 30 years old, five feet five inches tall, blue eyes and dark curly hair. She was dressed in a white waist with polka dots and a black tailor made skirt. A purse containing 28 cents, but nothing by which the woman could be identified was found lying on the ground at her feet.

Hamburg, Sept. 2.—On account of the appearance of cholera, the police authorities have forbidden the transportation through Hamburg of Russian emigrants until further notice. The Hamburg-American Steamship company has issued instructions to all its Russian agencies to refuse steerage tickets to Russian emigrants.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 2.—The health report reiterated today its assurance that there is no cholera in the empire, including the Vistula district. The Minsk district has just reported again that no cases of cholera have been discovered there. A special investigation is being conducted in the Warsaw district. The authorities are again tracing the course down the Vistula of the raft on which two cases of cholera occurred in April last, while descending the river from the government to Minsk to Culm, West Prussia.

Warsaw, Sept. 2.—It is reported here from Tarnoff, Galicia (Austria), that cholera has appeared in the neighborhood of Tarnoff. Three deaths

NEWS OF PEACE WAS CAUGHT BY STEAMERS IN MID-OCEAN

New York, Sept. 2.—How the news of the Russian-Japanese peace agreement was flashed about the Atlantic ocean and received by vessels still several days out of port and hundreds of miles beyond direct communication, with wireless telegraph stations, on land was reported by the steamship La Lorraine, which arrived here today. Last Thursday, while the La Lorraine was about 80 miles east of New York, the peace message was suddenly caught on its wireless instruments and the sender was learned to be the steamship Kronprinz Wilhelm bound for Europe and already about two days out of New York harbor.

A defect in one of the Lorraine's shafts caused the steamer to make part of the passage at reduced speed.

SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM AT ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—The intense heat of the past few days was dispelled today by a thunder storm of unusual electrical severity. Lightning struck the front wall of the home of Frederick Bricksmit, stunning the parents and two children. On Newstead avenue four new flat-buildings were plunged up in the street. A number of homes were unroofed and trees were blown down.

NO NEW TRIAL FOR G.A. POTTER

Court Says He Must Pay Sarah Ham $20,000.

George A. Potter, against whom a verdict of $20,000 was rendered about a year ago, in favor of Sarah Ham of Dubuque, Iowa, for alleged breach of promise to marry, is denied his motion for a new trial.

The order denying the motion for a new trial, although not yet filed, was made yesterday by Judge Essig, who presided at the Ham-Potter trial, one of the most sensational suits that the district court of this county has had for many years.

The claim for a new trial was based mainly on the claim by Potter of new evidence.

P. J. Neff, attorney for Potter, says that he will take immediate steps to appeal to the state supreme court for a reversal of the order of the lower court.

Mrs. Ham brought suit for $100,000, alleging that Potter's courtship lasted for a term of over twenty years.

WILL AVOID TEMPTATION

Hibbing Man's Temper Gets Him Ticket to Pittsburg.

Pleading guilty on information to the charge of assault in the second degree, Sam Mustrial of Hibbing, appeared in district court this morning for sentence. After hearing the circumstances in the case, the court decided to confine the case until his further order. Some persons in Hibbing had threatened Mustrial with a ticket to Pittsburg and it is the understanding that he will make use of it, in which event no further consideration of the case may be necessary.

Mustrial was arrested at the instance of G. H. Thompson, who claimed that he drew two revolvers and would have shot him had he not been restrained. Mustrial, who is a cripple, having lost one leg, claims to have been provoked. He admitted having a temper that sometimes got the better of him. In the case, and although Mustrial pleaded guilty, the court continued the case, and he will be brought back to court when he would bring trouble upon himself.

In the Competition For the Dryden Trophy at Seagirt.

Seagirt, Sept. 2.—The riflemen of infantry and cavalry branches of the United States army, the United States navy, the marine corps and national guard of Ohio, Maryland, Illinois, Massachusetts, the District of Columbia, Washington and New Jersey, today began the competition for the Dryden trophy, valued at $1,000 and presented by Senator Dryden of New Jersey. Must Be Examined.
On motion of R. S. Powell, attorney for Sarah A. Banks, and her husband, Charles A. Banks, in the damages action brought against them by Daniel McKenzie, Judge Carr, this morning made an order directing that McKenzie appear before Dr. C. Stewart and Dr. H. Boyer, Sept. 5, at Dr. Stewart's office, and submit to a thorough examination of his physical condition for information for the court and a jury, to be used at the coming trial of the action. Failure to appear will mean a dismissal of the action. McKenzie alleged that the Banks family and brought civil action to recover damages for his alleged injuries.

WILL TRY TO LEARN SOMETHING OF CHINKS

Washington, Sept. 2.—Frank H. Mayer, of the department of agriculture, has been assigned by Secretary Wilson, to make a tour of the Northwest in the interest of the department.

"He will tour the Kientien region," said the secretary, "and we hope he will bring back much information that will be of value to our farmers in the Northwest, where the climatic conditions are similar to that which is the original home of the peach, and we feel a great deal may be learned about that fruit by studying it in its original habitat. It is also to be supposed that observation in that old civilization will reveal no little information about other hardy fruits and about the grapes and legums."

Mr. Mayer will be gone for more than three years, and he expects to penetrate parts of the country never explored by a representative of the Caucasian race.

W. C. McCARTER, Duluth Man Whose Reputation Is Thoroughly Established Among Educators.

W. C. McCarter, president of the Duluth Business University, has just been appointed vice president of the Detroit Business University of Detroit. Mr. McCarter has been connected with the school for over forty years, retiring.

Mr. McCarter has declined two very flattering offers, one to assume the active management of the Detroit Business university, and the other to take charge of the Central Business College of Indianapolis, of which he is one of the board of directors. These offers are significant, as indicating the reputation Mr. McCarter has achieved among all the prominent business colleges of the country as a progressive, conservative and able educator. Mr. McCarter, however, has planned his life to Duluth, believing in the greatness of its future, and satisfied to be at the head of his own school, which has a standard second to none in America.

ABSOLUTE SECRECY

Observed With Regard to Meeting of Scandinavian Delegates.

Karlstad, Sweden, Sept. 2.—The Swedish and Norwegian delegates appointed to discuss the dissolution of the union between Sweden and Norway, today began their deliberations today, sitting two hours before adjourning for luncheon. So far there are no indications as to the date of the conclusion of the negotiations.

The session lasted until 5:15 p. m. and the delegates then adjourned in regard to the proceedings. It is said that at the session of Sept. 1, the delegates, thus emphasizing the fact that Sweden does not recognize Norway's claim that the union has already been dissolved. This is denied by the Norwegian here, but the report is published by the Afterposten of Christiania.

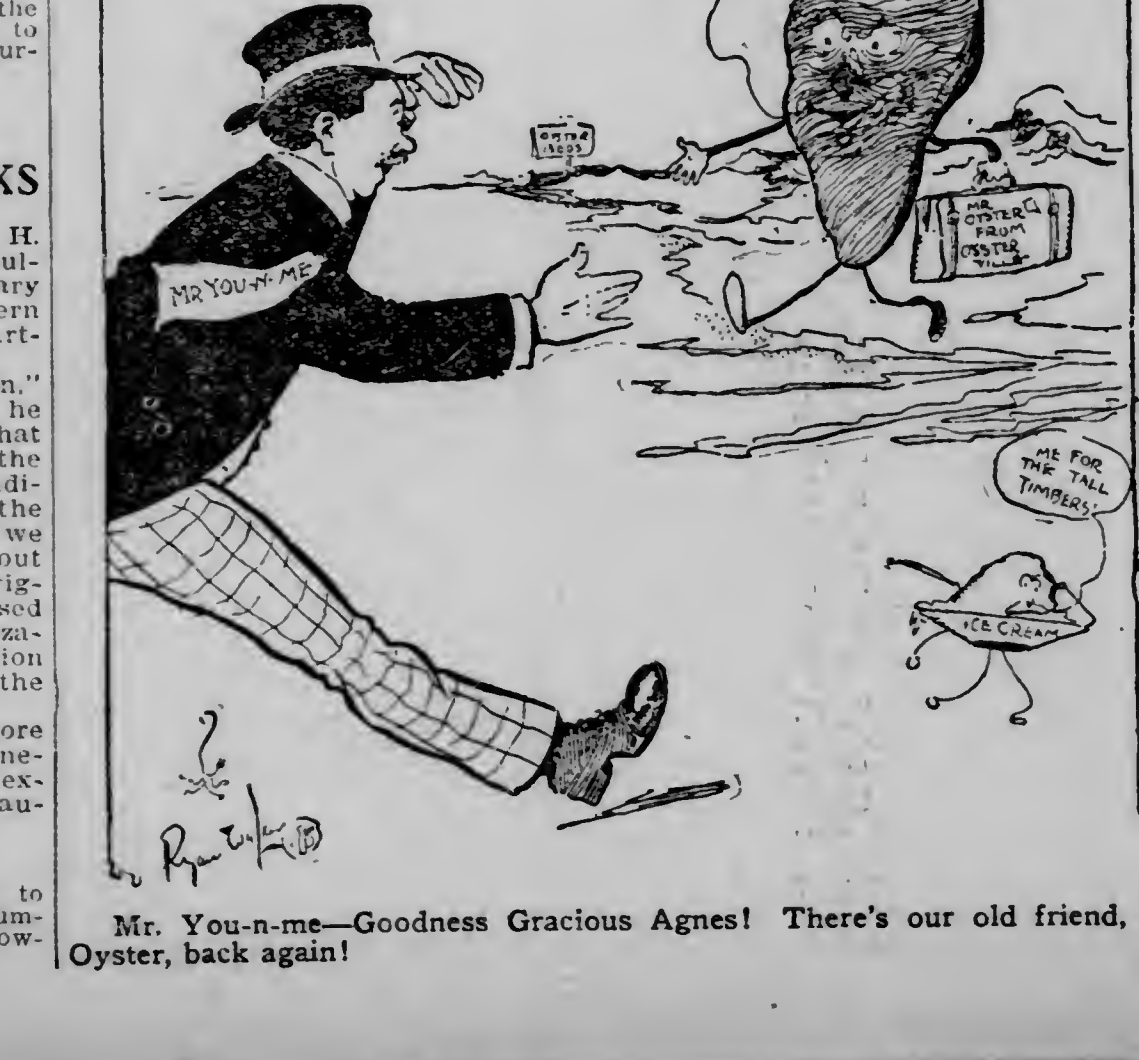

The Swedish delegates are assisted by three military experts. The feeling here this evening is that if the conference fails to reach an agreement within a week, the negotiations are likely to be suddenly broken off.

The Norwegian delegates are not as optimistic as they were on their arrival here. Premier Mikkelsen (Norway) predicts that the negotiations will perhaps last for weeks.

NEW EMPLOYMENT AFFORDED BY THE REVIVED HANDICRAFTS

Well Trained Men and Women Are Finding a Livelihood in the Vogue of Arts and Crafts—Professional Workers Supplanting the Bungling Amateur—The Importance to the Craftsman of Thorough Education in the Arts of Design.

Boston, Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not so long ago, when Mollie, whose papa used to be rich and no longer is, wanted to get a little money which she was too proud to earn by going to work in an office or factory, she used to try her hand at hammered brass work, china painting or decorating fans. There was always the likelihood that well-to-do friends would help by buying the things she made; and whatever remained unsold would be more or less ornamental. It is not so today. Mollie's sight that she knew nothing of the historical or technical standpoint. Though that she was determined to get a few dollars in return for the "spent on what she regarded as a kind of hobby."

Today, however, is an age of specialization, and the sort of work which Mollie used to do is no longer in vogue. The successful craftsman of today is a specialist, and he is not only a specialist in his work, but in the various applied arts of his life. He is a specialist in the use of his hands, and he is a specialist in the use of his mind. He is a specialist in the use of his eyes, and he is a specialist in the use of his ears. He is a specialist in the use of his nose, and he is a specialist in the use of his tongue. He is a specialist in the use of his feet, and he is a specialist in the use of his hands. He is a specialist in the use of his mind, and he is a specialist in the use of his body. He is a specialist in the use of his soul, and he is a specialist in the use of his spirit. He is a specialist in the use of his life, and he is a specialist in the use of his death.

For the handicrafts of today are not only a means of livelihood, but a means of education. They are a means of education in the use of the hands, and they are a means of education in the use of the mind. They are a means of education in the use of the eyes, and they are a means of education in the use of the ears. They are a means of education in the use of the nose, and they are a means of education in the use of the tongue. They are a means of education in the use of the feet, and they are a means of education in the use of the hands. They are a means of education in the use of the mind, and they are a means of education in the use of the body. They are a means of education in the use of the soul, and they are a means of education in the use of the spirit. They are a means of education in the use of the life, and they are a means of education in the use of the death.

After leaving here a severe storm struck the lake and the boats were in trouble ten miles out. Traphagen and Smith escaped from the wreck of the Black Diamond by swimming ashore.

THE MANUFACTURES DISPLAY AT PORTLAND

Occupies Space of 90,000 Square Feet and Is For the Most Part Striking and Original in Conception.

Portland, Or., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Visitors from east of the Rocky Mountains at the Lewis and Clark exposition, who have aggregated since the opening of the fair more than 50,000, express surprise at the extensiveness of the showing made by manufacturers in the palace of manufactures, liberal arts and varied industries and the machinery, electricity and transportation building. Hardly a firm whose name is popularly known has failed to participate in the exposition, and a vast majority of the exhibits are well conceived and of general interest.

The palace of manufactures, liberal arts and varied industries, which is one of the largest structures on the main grounds was constructed as a supplementary structure after it became evident that the space originally intended for exhibitors was entirely inadequate. It is a great, light-roofed structure built on practical lines, but not without architectural merit; and every available foot of space of the 20,000 square feet in the building is occupied.

The displays are for the most part striking and original in conception, and they interest every one, but especially the people of the Northwest, the vast majority of whom, because of the primitive distance of previous life, are gaining their first exposition experience in attending the Western World's Fair. These people are particularly delighted with the various displays.

surpass, any ever presented at previous expositions. The management of the Western World's fair felt that this was a good deal for a man in Mr. Francis' position to admit, but that it was only due the aggregation of displays in the building devoted to showing the progress of the world in transportation and electrical invention.

As a striking feature of the transportation exhibit, there is on display the first locomotive used in Oregon, and by its side a modern model of an engine of immense proportions. Then there are a number of other locomotives, and some refrigerators, and some carriages and wagons, adapted to every use, are exhibited, and automobiles contend with them for popular favor in the electrical showing there is a great array of dynamos, with printing presses and sewing machines operating by electrical power.

The method of operating a modern telephone exchange is illustrated effectively by a small exchange board, where "Hello" girls sit perched on high stools answering calls.

The largest water pipe ever cast, which weighs 23,620 pounds, is exhibited near the display of locomotives. A leather belt running in water is used to prove that the belt will not come unglued. There is a four-roller quartz mill in operation. The various mining machinery is exhibited. One company shows in miniature the manner of hydraulic mining, and another shows a modern model of a large pump, operated by them. A large space is devoted to threshing machines, which are running as vigorously as if a heavy harvest demand their attention. In an annex to the building all manner of farm machinery is displayed, and its merits are explained by attendants.

A big traveling crane, which was used for installing the heavy machinery and other cumbersome displays, is equipped with a car which looks like a traveling mushroom. One may travel the length of the building in this most reliable aerial car.

The company which operates this crane has an interesting exhibit of logging engines and saws, including a saw, which is a compressed air saw, used for cutting logs into required lengths as they lie after having been felled in the forest.

A machine which has interested housewives is one whereby the dirt from a carpet is sucked out of it without removing the carpet from its floor. The practicability of the machine is demonstrated by a woman who, when the man in charge spreads a saw on a strip of carpet, grinds it into the texture with his foot and then makes the machine suck it up, leaving a clean path in its wake. In another part of the building a woman turns out our wooden cups and other articles which are for sale as souvenirs. The simple tools the machine which is carving is done by means of a few carved blocks, and the machine which is carving is done by means of a few carved blocks, and the machine which is carving is done by means of a few carved blocks.

President McKinley, in his last public address, characterized expositions as "time-keepers of progress." The displays in the palace of manufactures, liberal arts and varied industries, and in the machinery, electricity and transportation building at the Lewis and Clark exposition are a most convincing evidence of the truth of the popular saying, that "the world moves."

NO NEW TRIAL FOR G.A. POTTER

Court Says He Must Pay Sarah Ham $20,000.

George A. Potter, against whom a verdict of $20,000 was rendered about a year ago, in favor of Sarah Ham of Dubuque, Iowa, for alleged breach of promise to marry, is denied his motion for a new trial.

The order denying the motion for a new trial, although not yet filed, was made yesterday by Judge Engstrom, who presided at the Ham-Potter trial, one of the most sensational suits that the district court of this county has had for many years.

The claim for a new trial was based mainly on the claim by Potter of new evidence.

P. J. Neff, attorney for Potter, says that he will take immediate steps to appeal to the state supreme court for a reversal of the order of the lower court.

Miss Ham brought suit for $100,000, alleging that Potter's courtship lasted for a term of over twenty years.

Hibbing Man's Temper Gets Him Ticket to Pittsburg.

Pleading guilty on information to the charge of assault in the second degree, Sam Mastriani of Hibbing, appeared in district court this morning for sentence. After hearing the circumstances in the case the court decided to continue the case until his further order. Some persons on Hibbing leads furnished Mastriani with a ticket to Pittsburg and it is the understanding that he will make use of it in which event no further consideration of the state's action may be necessary.

Mastriani was arrested at the instance of G. H. Thompson, who claimed that he drew two revolvers and would have shot him had he not been restrained. Mastriani, who is a cripple, having lost one leg, claims to have been very much aggravated. He admitted having a temper that sometimes got the better of him. In view of the circumstances surrounding the case, and although Mastriani pleaded guilty, it did not seem to the court that he would get out of the country. It being feared that other occasions might arise when he would bring trouble upon himself.

NEW EMPLOYMENT AFFORDED BY THE REVIVED HANDICRAFTS

Well Trained Men and Women Are Finding a Livelihood in the Vogue of Arts and Crafts—Professional Workers Supplanting the Bungling Amateur—The Importance to the Craftsman of Thorough Education in the Arts of Design.

Boston, Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not so long ago, when Mollie, whose name used to be a rich and no longer is, wanted to get a little money which she was too proud to earn by going to work in an office or factory, she used to try her hand at hammered brass work, china painting or decorating fans. There was always the likelihood that well-to-do friends would help by buying the things she made; and whatever remained unsold would be more or less ornamental. If not so useful, it might be sold for a trifle, and the history of the thing, from the standpoint of the artist, would be a story of the kind of work which she had done. This, however, is an age of specialization, and the sort of work which Mollie used to do is coming to be looked upon as a thing of the past. A great many people, who are now finding a livelihood in the arts and crafts, are finding it more and more difficult to get a living out of their work. The arts and crafts, in fact, are becoming more and more a thing of the past. The arts and crafts, in fact, are becoming more and more a thing of the past. The arts and crafts, in fact, are becoming more and more a thing of the past.

To give the facts and figures regarding the handicraft societies that have sprung up since the appearance of the last issue of the subject, issued about a year ago by the National Handicrafts Association, would be well-nigh impossible. A new one is born every day. Some are composed of people who are not at all interested in the arts and crafts, but who are interested in the money that can be made out of them. Others, however, are of a different kind. They are composed of people who are interested in the arts and crafts for their own sake. They are interested in the work itself, and in the satisfaction that comes from it. They are interested in the work itself, and in the satisfaction that comes from it.

A very general idea of the rapidly with which the arts and crafts movement is growing appears from the statement made by the National Handicrafts Association, which is the largest of the kind in the United States. It has a membership of over 100 members, and has won all over the country, who by submitting their names to the league, are entitled to the honor of being members of the league.

THE MANUFACTURES DISPLAY AT PORTLAND

Occupies Space of 90,000 Square Feet and Is For the Most Part Striking and Original in Conception.

Portland, Or., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Visitors from east of the Rocky Mountains to the Lewis and Clark exposition, who have aggregated since the opening of the fair more than 50,000, express surprise at the extensiveness of the showing made by manufacturers in the palace of manufactures, liberal arts and varied industries and transportation building. Hardly a firm whose name is popularly known has failed to participate in the exposition, and a vast majority of the exhibits are well conceived and of general interest.

The palace of manufactures, liberal arts and varied industries, which almost equals in size the agricultural building, the largest structure on the main grounds, was constructed as a supplementary structure after it became evident that the space originally intended for exhibitors was entirely inadequate. It is a great, flat, white structure, built on practical lines, but not without architectural merit; and every available foot of space of the 90,000 square feet in the building is occupied.

The displays are for the most part striking and original in conception, and they interest every one, but especially the people of the Northwest, the vast majority of whom, because of the prohibitive distance of previous big fairs, are gaining their first exposition experience in attending the World's Fair. These people are particularly delighted with the various displays.

When David H. Francis, who was president of the Louisiana purchase exposition held last year at St. Louis, visited the Lewis and Clark fair a few days ago, he found much to be considered good, and he did not hesitate to say so. Among other things he called the building devoted to machinery, electricity and transportation contains exhibits which equal, if they do not surpass, any ever presented at previous expositions.

The management of the Western World's fair felt that this was a good deal for a trip in Mr. Francis' position to admit, but that it was only due the aggregation of displays in the building devoted to showing the progress of the world in transportation and electrical invention.

ARGUMENT CLOSES

Virginia Silver Case Submitted to Judge Dibell For Decision.

W. W. Billson Makes Able Argument Upholding the Lease Law.

A vast wilderness has been turned into a thriving industrial community, where thousands of men are employed, where the resources of the county are being developed and prosperity insured, the state at large through the prosperity of St. Louis county, a reason of its iron regions.

For the state, Judge Douglas claimed that the state, in leasing the leases, sold the state's lands, and that this practically amounted to a disposal of the land, a violation of the constitutional provision for a public sale of lands.

A lease, Judge Douglas contended, carried with it the right to use a property, and to return it unimpaired at the termination of the time for which it was granted. He also reviewed the evidence concerning the alleged efforts of P. H. Smith to obtain a lease to the property before the state entered its contract with Mabel Evans.

All the evidence, the oral arguments and the briefs have been submitted to Judge Dibell for his decision.

INFLECTS DAMAGE

Big Steamer P. P. Miller Collides With Interstate Bridge.

Repairs Will Take Two Weeks—Draw Is Not Injured.

amount to has not yet even been roughly estimated, but it will take about two weeks to repair the bridge and put that side of it in condition for use again. The damage is confined to a space about fifty feet square, and will in no wise affect the strength of the bridge, or extend more than the fifty-foot limit in any direction. The foundation of the structure is not injured to any extent.

The Miller had unloaded a cargo of coal at the Northwestern No. 1 dock and was on her way, unaided by a tug, to the Mississippi river, when she struck the bridge. She blew for the bridge and started to take the starboard drive at the Minnesota end, but as she approached, swung too far to the starboard and collided with the bridge. Had she been loaded the chances are that she would have grounded before she reached the bridge, for the junction point of the approach and the bridge proper is a considerable distance from the main channel, almost directly over the Alger-Smith boom logs, in fact. The bow of the steamer struck through the railing and sidewalk, and did not even stop for the street car tracks, but ran on and badly twisted the steel rails. A mass of torn and twisted iron and wood resulted.

The work of repair was started today. The engineers say it will not be finished in less than two weeks time. It will be necessary to take the damaged steel girders out and have them straightened or the large works. Because of the nature of the work, and the position of the bridge, very little can be done during the night, except for the work on the girders at the large works. The steamer's bow was badly damaged in the collision, and Capt. Weirheimer, instead of continuing to the dock, put in at the shipyard for repairs. The steamer has a good sailing record and the accident is considered to have been unavoidable.

All street cars, as well as all other kinds of traffic, are now passing over the west side of the bridge, occasioning some slight delay. They are passing over the street car tracks, which were delayed for more than an hour yesterday as a result of the accident. The collision did not injure the draw in the least.

MEETING QUIET

Much Routine Business Disposed of By School Board.

Boat Built By Manual Training Students, Ordered Sold.

But few matters of interest were taken up at the meeting of the board of education last evening, and a long session of nearly three hours was devoted entirely to disposing of the numerous questions of a routine nature that were brought up. The board on which manual training pupils have been broken in for the last ten or twelve years was ordered sold to the highest bidder, on a motion by Director Washburn last evening. The boat has become more or less of a joke, as year after year has passed and no disposition was made of it. The committee on maintenance was instructed to dispose of it in the best way possible. The board made arrangements for the division of the third floor of the Washburn school into two temporary rooms, to be used until the new grade school building for the center of the city can be completed. H. C. Withrow was reappointed trustee for the ensuing year. The American Exchange bank was again designated as the depository of the funds of the board. The board of the treasurer and clerk of the board were received and accepted. Residents of Hunter's Park were granted permission, in response to a petition signed by a number of prominent citizens, to open the new Washburn school with appropriate ceremonies. The board approved the purchase made by the committee of new desks for the Washburn school. In accordance with a petition from the parents of a number of children in the Ontario school, James Potter was reappointed as janitor of the school, although his name was left out of a former list of appointments, as it was feared that he was too old to attend to his duties. The committee, however, reported that he was in better health than last spring, and could probably fill the position. The following teachers' resignations were accepted: Florence V. Ely, Iverna M. Smith, Edna Emendorfer, C. Hortense Larsen, Georgia Evert, Rose Sullivan, Anna Waugh, Amy Hoag, Lottie De Tros, Mary A. Rahm, Katherine T. McCourt, Josephine M. Roche. The committee on schools and teachers was empowered to fill any vacancies from the following list of names: Mrs. Emily Resanen, Millie Monahan, Ethel M. Green, Edith Greenberg, Helen Jorstad, Gertrude Schiller, Irene Sietles, Nanna Emerson, Elizabeth Day, Alice Conklin, Mable Edmunds, Irene Reau, Elizabeth M. Dick, Madge Hickins, Lottie Dwyer, Katherine Gross and Mabel Deers. Miss Amy Bronski was appointed to assist Principal Foster in the high school work in the Irving school.

THE MAYOR CONDEMNED

Atlanta Council Censures Executive For Getting Drunk at Toledo.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 2.—The city council in executive session last evening adopted stringent resolutions condemning Mayor James G. Woodward for his conduct at the recent meeting of the league of American Municipalities at Toledo. The resolutions were passed by a vote of 19 affirmative and two negative. The resolutions declared that while Mayor Woodward was attending the convention in the floor of the convention in a state of intoxication; that he made a spectacle of himself, bringing discredit upon the city and out-raaging the feelings and sentiments of the people; that his conduct is not typical of Atlanta and that it is most severely censured and condemned. Mayor Woodward appeared before the council and declared that he had been greatly wronged; that he had no apologies to make to Mayor Dunne for his attacks upon him in his talks at Toledo. While admitting that he drank a little beer, he declared he was not intoxicated.

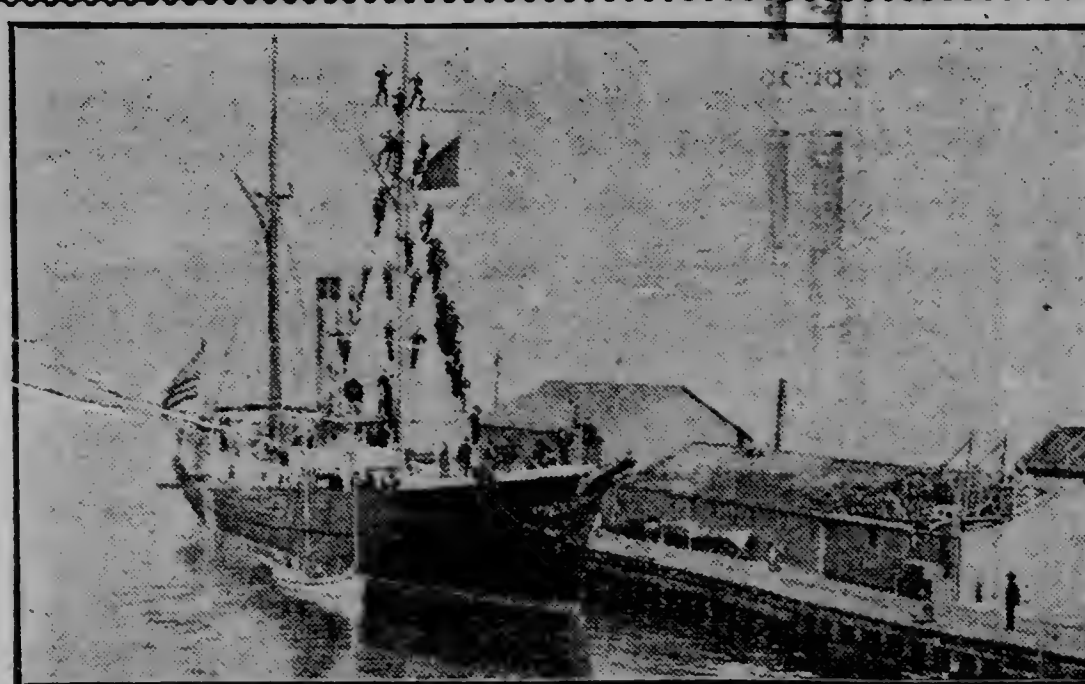

AT GRAVE OF MOTHER

A Chicago Man Ends His Life By Shooting.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Kneeling at the side of his mother's grave in Rose Hill cemetery, Harry L. Hoffman, who recently arrived in Chicago from St. Louis, yesterday afternoon shot himself in the temple, dying two hours later at the Aloxian brothers' hospital. The suicide was witnessed by a throng of mourners returning from a funeral. Many rushed to the grave across which Hoffman lay. He was hastily sent to the hospital, but died without regaining consciousness. The suicide left three letters and a will. Two letters were sealed and were addressed to George Hoffman, a brother, and Fuller McLean of Sawyer, Mich.; the third was addressed to the officials of the cemetery. In this the suicide expressed his sorrow for causing them so much trouble and begged that he be buried at the side of his parents. The writer said the reason he ended his life in the cemetery was because he believed it would fall lighter on the cemetery company than anyone else.

Unnecessary Expense. Acute attacks of colic and diarrhoea come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's service in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it. SOUVENIR OF THE TRIP OF THE FERN

IN THE RIGGING AT BAYFIELD.

MAUD, THE MASCOT, AND HER ADMIRERS.

MESS IN THE OFFICERS' CABIN.

PAINTING THE FERN AT POINT AUX PINES.

ALL HANDS FORWARD.

THE SHIP'S LADDER.

The officers and members of the Minnesota Naval militia that brought the training ship Fern through to Duluth from the Soo, will remember with pleasure their Lake Superior cruise. A pleasing souvenir of this trip is a large collection of pictures taken by Ensign Paul J. Clarkson, several of which are herewith reproduced, through the courtesy of Mr. Clarkson. After the Fern was locked through at the Sault, Monday, Aug. 14, she proceeded to the Canadian side of the lake, to a place called Point aux Pins, where she was laid up until evening of the following day, while the midgets donned their working clothes and proceeded to scrape the boat from stem to stern, cleaning off the old paint that has covered her since the old paint that has covered her since the Spanish-American war, and gave her the new coat which enabled the boat to make so presentable an appearance when she entered the harbor. In the picture showing the reserves painting the boat, one of the boys can be seen assisting in the removal of a surplus of the coloring matter from the face of a comrade, by means of a piece of board. Another picture shows all hands forward with the officers on the quarter deck overboard. The method of the sailors in getting to and from the deck and the small boats is shown in another picture with one of the boys standing on the yard arm and another part way down the ladder on his way to the boat underneath. This picture was taken while the boat lay at anchor at Bayfield. Another Bayfield picture shows the Fern at the dock with the members of the naval militia mounted in the forward rigging. An important feature aboard the Fern on her Lake Superior trip was "Maud," the mascot, a pet goat belonging to one of the boys. She was taken to the rendezvous in the baggage car. Maud enjoyed the trip very much, and showed no signs of seasickness even when on a Thursday night, during a stormy passage of Passage light, many of her admirers were victims of a boat appy. Maud said to have been a very well behaved goat and furnished much amusement for the sailors. Another picture shows a mess in the officers' cabin, the officers gathered about the board being Commander Guy A. Eaton, Lieutenant S. S. Williamson, Lieutenant Lawrence, Lieutenant Meloy, Lieutenant George Seely and Navigator Benjamin F. Howard.

Alum baking powders are detrimental to health. In most foreign countries their sale is prohibited. In many states in this country the law requires that alum and alum-phosphate powders shall be branded to warn consumers that they contain an unhealthy ingredient, while in the District of Columbia, Congress has forbidden absolutely the sale of food that contains alum. Alum baking powders may be distinguished by their price—one cent an ounce or from ten to twenty-five cents a pound.

KILLED BY DUMP CARS.

Paul Standhoar Meets Death at Adams Mine. Eveleth, Minn. Sept. 2.—Paul Standhoar, 74 years of age, was killed yesterday at the Adams mine by a loaded train of dump cars which backed down upon him. He was employed to clean off tracks near the mouth of Adams No. 4 open pit. The train had pulled out of the pit and after switching was being backed upon the dump when the old man was seen on the track. Efforts were made by Jack McDonald, engineer, to stop the train in time, but as it was backing up this could not be done and Standhoar did not hear the whistle. His head was torn off his body and his left leg almost severed below the knee. In Calumet, Mich., and a telegram has been sent to him. Ray Buckley's right foot was crushed while on the night shift at the Fayal stripping and it was necessary to amputate at the ankle. The accident occurred while he was boarding one of the small pit engines. Just a year ago Buckley was in the More hospital with his back full of bird shot, the result of a hunting accident beyond Ely lake.

shapes pressure for prompt shipment. Hides are maintained at full quotations, although receipts of range cattle continue to expand and the market shows sign of artificiality. RURAL FREE DELIVERY.

D. F. Dolan, a special agent of the postoffice department at Washington, arrived in Duluth yesterday with the intention of, if found practicable, establishing a rural free delivery route back of Duluth, touching at Canonsville, Huron and Pike Lake and also the settlers along that route. Some time ago Congressman Bode introduced a petition into the department asking for such a route and Mr. Dolan is here to look it over. He is going over the route today and if he finds the settlement sufficient for a route, will so report to Washington. There is at present a star route running from Duluth to Pike Lake and back over the Maple Grove road, but as this does not serve a sufficient number of people, it is quite likely that it will be abolished and absorbed in the rural free delivery route. Mr. Dolan expects to get through with this work today and will spend tomorrow seeing the city, after which he will go to the state fair in the Twin Cities.

Mr. S. T. Baker of 402 Fisher Ave., West Superior, Wis., says: "My wife, doctor, with fourteen doctors for female weakness. Finally she told her an operation was the only thing that would cure her. Dr. Mitchell cured her in a course of treatment. My daughter was also cured of deafness."

STEENERSON

Holds Conference With the Red Lake Chippewas.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman Steensson of this city while at Tenstrike attending the old settlers' reunion, held a conference with the Red Lake Chippewas in regard to their grievance against the interior department on account of the withholding of payments due minor Indians. The old men of the tribe want their children paid now as the payments become due, in order that their own fund of resources may be swelled, whereas the secretary of the interior rules that the payments must be made exclusively for the young Indians themselves and should be held by the government until such time as they are of age.

Congressman Steensson, after listening to the grievances, through Nyanke-wa-ne, one of the aged men of the tribe, promised relief by saying that he would see "the great White Father" as he arrived at Washington. Grunts and exclamations of approval and satisfaction at this method of procedure were the result.

MYSTERIOUS WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD IN ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—After having lived alone and been a mystery in the neighborhood for twelve years, the body of Miss Marie DeAmaze was found in her apartments at 800 Franklin avenue today. She never revealed her history other than to drop a hint which led

Mr. Carl Stackmeyer, of Tower, Minn., who had rheumatism and paralysis and had not walked for eleven and a half years. Was 82 years old and had given up all hope. Cured by Dr. Mitchell.

Mrs. Frederick Hallquist, of 2826 Haron street, says: "When I went to Dr. Mitchell I was in a hopeless, helpless condition. I had kidney and heart trouble and my friends all thought I would die; medicine did me no good. When Dr. Mitchell took my case I weighed 212 pounds; I am now enjoying good health. While treating at the office I saw many that came as a last resort to Dr. Mitchell and they were all convalescing; several of my friends are treating with him and they are being restored to health. I will be glad to substantiate this statement to anyone."

Anthony Johnson, of 6324 Cody street, says: "I was about to have an operation performed for an abscess in my side; I had been in bed for weeks, and all run down and so weak I did not think I could stand the operation, and I decided to call Dr. Mitchell. He examined me and said I was in bad condition, but he would cure me. I recommend his treatment to anyone suffering as I did, for I am now built up strong and healthy."

Mrs. Edith Gordon of Forman, N. D., cured of kidney and stomach trouble.

Mr. A. Johnson of Tower, Minn., cured of chronic appendicitis. Was all run down. Gained 30 pounds under Dr. Mitchell's treatment.

THE CITY'S CASH

General Fund Will Show Balance at End of Year.

All the Department Funds Are In Good Condition.

In spite of the depleted condition at the present time, the general fund will show a balance of about $9,000, or practically the same amount as last year at the close of the year, according to the statement of City Treasurer Yoss this morning.

There was a balance of but $294.25 in the fund on Sept. 1, but the money from the sale of the bridge bonds will be received next Tuesday and the $50,000 advanced on the bridge will then be refunded. This will enable the treasurer to pay the order in favor of F. McDonald for $50,000 for the resurfacing of London road and also some other outstanding bills, and leave a comfortable balance in the fund at the close of the year.

The other funds will not show any balance to speak of at the end of the year. They are all in good shape now, but the departments are run on a cash basis and their appropriations are generally just about sufficient to cover their necessary expenditures.

DANCING IN STREET

While People Waited For Execution of Two Murderers.

Remarkable Scenes at a Public Guillotining in France.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Remarkable scenes characterized the public guillotining of two murderers at Dunkirk recently. There have not been many such executions recently because the authorities have considered the resulting exhibitions demoralizing. For this reason French murderers are usually reprieved.

The men who suffered the extreme penalty were the two Belgian burglars, Van den Bogaert and Zwartkruis, who murdered and robbed Mme. Knockaert. The woman was the wife of a lighterman, and while he was on the boat alone at Dunkirk the prisoners went on board, strangled her, cut her throat and then plunged into the cabin. They were tried at Douay last May and condemned to death. They had been given a commutation of their sentence, and President Loubet received the appeal at Roubaix.

M. Loubet did not see his way to granting a commutation, so the guillotine was sent to Dunkirk. Deiller and his assistants reached the port the same day.

For once they were popular, and were actually received with enthusiasm by the two Belgian murderers.

The execution took place in front of the prison in the Rue de la Prison. The would be public attracted an enormous number of people to the town, and high prices were paid in advance for seats at windows looking on the prison.

The adjacent streets were filled from the previous night with animated crowds of men, women and children waiting to gratify their morbid curiosity.

It was a very unusual sight to see the men, women and children waiting to gratify their morbid curiosity.

RESIDENCE SALES ONLY BUSINESS

Realty Market Quiet But For Them Dealers Predict Lively Market During the Fall and Winter—Money Is Plenty and Borrowers Object to Paying Six Per Cent.

Outside of a few good residences the realty movement this week has been chiefly of unimproved lots that are intended for improvement the coming year. While the market may be said to show a little more activity than it did a week or ten days ago, not much space is needed to tell the business men that the demand for lots is not at all brisk. For this reason local money at 6 per cent is said to find very few takers, while practically all that is being placed comes from the outside, and brings from 5 to 1 1/2 per cent. With the Northwest this year the mortgage loan interests are predicting plenty of money in this part of the country next season.

The sale of the Walter Ayers' residence in the East end, which was referred to by The Herald last week, is reported closed this week. The buyer, J. J. Stephenson, representing the seller and Pulford & How, representing the buyer, Thomas Hammond. The purchase price is said to have been $12,000.

Another residence sale of interest made this week was that of George Ruppel's house, at 313 West Third street, to a local man, who expects in the near future, to make it his home. The sale involves a consideration of about $7,000, and was made through the offices of J. A. Stephenson and W. M. Prindle & Co. Besides the house, the purchase includes a 10 by 140-foot lot and a barn. The purchase is generally regarded as a good one at the price paid.

Mr. Newton of W. M. Prindle & Co. reports the sale of a lot on London road and Fifteenth avenue east for $1,375, cash, and a property on the lower side of Lake street, near 3rd street, for $4,200, cash. He says inquiry for money on mortgage loans has been fairly brisk in the past few days, but that there is practically no local money to be had for loans at 6 per cent.

Also comments on the fact that the building of the new Bijou theater, and the other important improvements in the city, are being made in the past few months. He says, the business movement eastward in the past few months. There are a few new stores being built on Lake avenue, was almost a drug on the market, there is now a good inquiry.

Richardson & Day report for the week the following sales of lots: One to Gertrude M. Harlow, for $800, a lot in Norton's division to the west of the Sixth division, to M. Kameron, for $200; a lot in the same division to the west of the Sixth division, to the board of education, for $2,500.

The farm land business has taken another good start for the fall season and a number of sales are being made. The Boston & Duluth Farm Land company reports the sale of 200 acres near Pine station, to Nelson, for $200. The farm land business has taken another good start for the fall season and a number of sales are being made. The Boston & Duluth Farm Land company reports the sale of 200 acres near Pine station, to Nelson, for $200.

The report of the building inspector for the city of Duluth shows that the greatest amount of building for any one month during the past two years was in the month of August, this year. There were issued eighty-eight permits for improvements to cost $135,000. In August, last year, there were only thirty-five permits issued for a total of $137,500, making the increase for this year about 40 per cent. It is expected that September will show a still larger increase, as permits are pending for several important improvements, including the new residence of C. A. Congdon. To Sept. 1, the permits aggregated $1,062,952.50 as compared with $844,050 to the same date last year.

Construction began this week on the new dormitory at the Duluth Normal school. The contract has been awarded to L. D. Campbell & Co., of this city. The building will cost $40,000 complete and the designs were drawn by State Architect Clarence H. Johnston.

A Roberts has the contract for putting two additional stories on the E. M. Fowler estate building. The plans were made by German & Lignell.

Plans have been drawn for the addition that is to be built on the Duluth Boat Club's house on Park Point.

A. Terryberry, who has been planning for a store and some flats in the Albany building for J. D. Howard & Co.

Following is the record of the transfers for August, 1905:

Aug. 1.....	$12,673.00
Aug. 2.....	44,362.25
Aug. 3.....	8,356.00
Aug. 4.....	4,129.00
Aug. 5.....	3,081.25
Aug. 7.....	13,664.00
Aug. 8.....	8,429.00
Aug. 9.....	25,460.00
Aug. 10.....	5,127.20

Among the deeds that have been recorded this week conveying outside land in the county, two involve large considerations. A. L. Ordean and other trustees have conveyed to Thomas H. incoming train while crossing the tracks.
The coroner held an inquest Friday

LAKE SUPERIOR COPPER DISTRICT

More Exploratory and Development Work Than Ever Before in History of This Field—Present Output Largely From Mines Made During the Past Decade.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The amount of exploratory and development work now under way in the Lake Superior copper district is greater than ever before in the history of mining in this field. The low-water mark was reached about 1895, when there were but seven active properties in Houghton county, and one in Keweenaw county, with every mine idle in Ontonagon county. There came a turn in the tide in 1897, with a marked improvement in 1898, and the greatest "boom" in the history of the district in 1899. The work of making new mines has not ceased, even in the depression which followed, and in the price of copper that came late in 1901. Of the present production of metal by the mines of the district, a very respectable proportion comes from mines that have been made during the past decade. The Copper Range Consolidated, which stands second only to the Calumet & Hecla mine among the producers of the district, in point of output, is making from three mines about 40,000,000 pounds of fine copper yearly, and all three mines are absolutely new. The Calumet & Hecla mine, which produces about 100,000,000 pounds of fine copper yearly, and is getting in line to increase its output to about 160,000,000 pounds yearly. The Almahurst, Algonquin and Centennial all produce, and are all entirely new mines. The Centennial is an old company, the Copper Range Consolidated, which stands second only to the Calumet & Hecla mine, work on which was begun late in 1899. The Centennial, by the way, is getting much better rock than formerly, and its local friends are much encouraged by the improvement. The fight started on the Centennial management some months ago was in the East exclusively, as the people on the ground had a better understanding of the difficulties under which the property was laboring, and were not disposed to blame the management. The unfortunate fact that there was less copper in the rock at a given point than had been anticipated. Luckily for the mine and management both, a very marked change for the better has set in, and the present returns are as much above as the first were below the average expected by good judges. The management, both at the mine and in the East, has lost nothing in the eyes of conservative investors by having taken the bull by the horns and giving the gold facts to the shareholders. The Almahurst is sending a small amount of rock to the mill by the new big in progress, and is securing about forty pounds of mineral per ton, or about the same as the Wolcott mine. It is a question whether the Almahurst will gain anything in particular by starting milling so soon, as the present high price of copper is an inducement that tempts any new mine to get into the ranks of the producers at the earliest possible moment. The Atlantic and Baltic are to make an exchange of ground, similar to the trades that have been made between a number of the mines just north of Calumet. This exchange will rectify the boundary lines between the Atlantic and the section 16 tract of the Atlantic so that the surface lines will run parallel with the dip of any shaft that may be sunk on the plane of the lode at right angles to the strike of the Baltic. The present movement in the price of Teumseh is decided by certain conservative Easterners, some of whom remember that Teumseh has lagged up and down more than once previously. It is but fair to state, however, that while the present price of Teumseh is based upon a drill core only, the little

THE MAAS MINE ON THE FAMOUS POTATO PATCH

Not Likely to Ship Ore For a Year—Third Shaft For Cleveland-Cliffs Negaunee Mine Property.

Negaunee, Mich., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Maas mine, operated by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, on the famous "potato patch," is now down 150 feet. Drilling has been going on for the past six months and at present twenty-eight men are employed at this work. From all indications no ore will be hoisted for at least a year. It is then understood that a new hoisting plant will be installed, which will be the finest in the Upper Peninsula, it being made in every respect superior. This mine has a very bright future. The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company have just installed at their Negaunee mine property a 750-horsepower dynamo, operated by an ideal engine, which will furnish power for the underground haulage system and also light for all parts of the mine. The installation of the electric haulage system marks the exit of the mule service underground, which in time will become general throughout this district. For the present the hoisting of ore has been confined to shaft No. 2, no ore being shipped from shaft No. 1 since the cave in three years ago. This latter shaft is now being retimbered and will be in use shortly. Three drills are now in operation on this property for the purpose of locating a suitable point to sink a third shaft. One of the drills is being operated by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company and is down 150 feet, while the other two are contract drills, being operated by Longyear & Hodge and have just started.

The Richmond property, operated by the Consumers' Ore company, is at

NORTH BUTTE COMPANY WILL SOON RANK THIRD

Among the Producers of the Butte Camp—Output Will Soon Be Increased Fifty Per Cent New Process of Producing Ore.

Butte, Mont., September 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extensive improvements are being made in the properties of the North Butte Copper company with a view of increasing the productive capacity of the mines comprising this group. The 1600-foot shaft in the Speculator is being retimbered and the engine new in use to be replaced with a more modern hoist. The work is being pushed with all possible haste and operations will be completed within a few weeks. Meanwhile the ore extraction continues without cessation. The lower workings are connected with some of the mines owned by the Amalgamated Copper company and the ore is being hoisted to the surface through the shaft of the High Ore mine. When the improvements now under way shall have been completed, it is estimated that the productive capacity of the North Butte company's properties will have been increased 50 per cent. Mining experts predict that the North Butte Mining company will rank third among the producers of this camp this year, taking precedence over the properties of W. A. Clark and F. Aug. Heinze, and ranking next to the mines of the Pittsburgh and Montana company. On account of the "freezing" of one of the blast furnaces in the smelter of the Pittsburgh and Montana company this week the plant was temporarily closed down. The ores in the fiery pit, which are supposed to keep at an excessive temperature by oxidation, became chilled, necessitating a shut-down. A large force of men is engaged

Lake people are at a loss to understand why nothing is done by the National management. The Michigan is making a success, and the National, lying next to it, and west, has the continuation of all of the lodes and veins opened, or likely to be opened, on the Michigan property. A little work is under way at the Miskwabik property, but the company has not been floated yet, and until that is done, and several hundred thousand dollars in cash placed in the treasury, development work on a considerable scale need not be looked for. THE MAAS MINE ON THE FAMOUS POTATO PATCH

Not Likely to Ship Ore For a Year—Third Shaft For Cleveland-Cliffs Negaunee Mine Property.

The work of the Maas mine, operated by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, is at present confined to stripping the deposit. The force now as large as was employed earlier in the season, when it was thought that the company would be able to handle the ore. However, the management is preparing the slopes for a large output when there is a demand for the product. The mine is well equipped with machinery and tracks leading to the open pits. The Moore ore is crushed at the Escanaba plant. The Oliver company ceased shipping ore from the Volunteer mine stockpile last week, but resumed again Tuesday for another cargo. The Volunteer pits will not be cleaned out until about the middle of the month, when they will have gone forward. Favorable Reports of Development in the Bonanza Circle—More Ore Strikes Expected at Early Date—Shipments to the Smelters.

Bisbee, Ariz., Sept. 2.—No new strikes of ore have been made in the mines here during the past week, but there are indications of a new strike being made from one of the upper drifts to the surface, to improve the circulation of air. When this is completed the management will go after ore, and nothing but ore, for such is the logical proceeding at the present time. Ore shipments still continue to be made from the Lake Superior & Pittsburgh, all of it coming from the Pittsburgh & Duluth, and being practically all taken out through development work. The new steel gallowa frame will shortly be in place, and upon its completion the two mines will be ready to make regular shipments. The force will also be largely increased. This will occur in the early part of October. Several new buildings are under way for the accommodation of the employees. Both the Lake Superior & Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh & Duluth have immense quantities of good smelting ore blocked out, and the output of the two properties will very likely about equal that of the Calumet & Hecla mines. Sinking was resumed at the Shattuck-Arizona on Aug. 10, and the shaft is now down 70 feet. A station will be set at once and at the same time sinking will proceed until a depth of 825 feet is reached, the lower twenty-five feet to be used as a sump. The pump is now discharging about 175 gallons per minute, and the volume of water is keeping a steady flow at that rate. Upon the completion of the station on the 800 level and the sump development work on later levels will commence on a large scale. Sinking still continues at the Denison, Arizona, the shaft being down close to 370 feet. No change has as yet occurred in the formation, and none is expected until further depth is reached. Last week the Bisbee Lumber company received orders on the Arizona and Shattuck-Arizona for considerable deliveries of lumber. The most of it goes to Denison-Arizona. All of it is for use in surface improvements at the properties. The Copper Queen properties are operating with full force, as usual, and are only awaiting the completion of the shaft, and with excellent results. The new railroad spur to the Czar shaft is still in the hands of the contractor, but will be finished this week. At the Spray the new change house is nearing completion, and will be ready for use by the first of the month. Ore shipments are normal and the ore of good grade.

Report has been current recently that the water supply for the smelters at Douglas was diminishing at an alarming rate and that the Artesian wells got at the smelter had practically failed. This report is without foundation for a basis. The water supply at the smelter has not suffered in the least. Little doubt is entertained that the necessary water could be secured by sinking to lower strata than have yet been entered. The Junction is still engaged in exploring the two ore bodies disclosed in the shaft, and with excellent results. Work has not been as rapid as expected, however, due to the intense heat generated by the pumping, which the company is doing all in its power to alleviate, and which it will soon, doubtless abate. Men working at the station say that the thermometer usually registers from one day's end to the other about 138 deg. above zero, and

HIBBING DISTRICT OF THE MESABA ACTIVE

Rains Have Interfered With Work at Open Pit Mines, But All Nearly Ready to Resume Normal Output.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is much activity among the mines on this end of the Mesaba range, though the rains of the past three weeks have interfered with work at the open pit mines. Nearly all of the mines are now getting in shape to resume the normal output. There are four steam shovels at work at the Burt-Pool mine, but they are so arranged at present that the normal output of ore is not being shipped. This mine has been badly flooded at times this season, which has reduced the output some. Porter Bros. are stripping on the north end of this property on that part which belongs to the state, so the income to the state will be enlarged considerably by another season. This firm has also done considerable stripping at the Burt-Pool mine in addition to the removing of the overburden on the ore by excavating a new ore yard for the mine at the foot of Pine street, which will be ready for use next season. The output from this mine will reach nearly the million mark now, and it is likely the tonnage will exceed that of last season about a million and a quarter tons. The Burt-Pool mine is stripping at the Morris mine. This as yet, is a comparatively small open pit mine, though the output so far this season is about a half million tons. The pit is small and as a result has been flooded several times this season. The Albany mine does not seem to have been troubled as much with water as the other open pit mines have. This is a milling property, and in addition to mining from the underground and three dump cars have been placed in this mine, and ore is being dumped into the underground cars from the regular dump cars and taken to the shaft and hoisted to the surface in the skips. The Laura mine is being operated in a small way. This is an underground mine and about thirty-five miners are employed. The present output of this mine is about 300 tons of ore per day. It is owned by Mayor Fay of Virginia, M. Chisholm of Duluth, and others. The stockpile at the Sellers mine will be cleaned up in a few days. This is the only mine in this immediate vicinity with a stockpile to ship this season, and about 150 men have been employed the past year. The Oliver Mining com-

On the lease of Pickands, Mather & Co., the shaft has been unwatered after nearly two weeks' delay, and by this time, sinking has been resumed. A very heavy flow of water was encountered just two weeks ago, and not only overflowed the pump, but also filled the shaft. Strong rumors are going around to the effect that the Pickands-Mather people are not at all excited over this property and that, in fact, they are not even enthusiastic. Some of their representatives are reported as saying that they cannot swear to what there is there; that the drills showed very low-grade stuff, indeed, and that the character of the ore body was such that the drills could not give as clear an idea of it as was desired. At the same time the ore body seemed to be of such width that encouragement was taken from that fact. To get exact facts and satisfy the leaseholders beyond all doubt, one way or another, the big, strong, fat treasury of Pickands, Mather & Co. was drawn on, and the company has run a crew out and then, it conditions warranted, take out ore for actual sale. As stated, this is gossip and given for what it is worth. All the drills on the four Northern Pacific lands are supposed to be working steadily, but, this week no definite word has been received as to the results. It is stated that the drill on section 2, 4-29 is down over 100 feet and that none of the assays have fallen below 50 per cent in iron. Some, in fact, have gone as high as 82 per cent.

LAKE SUPERIOR
COPPER DISTRICTMore Exploratory and Development Work Than Ever Before In History of This Field—Present Output Largely From Mines Made During the Past Decade.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The amount of exploratory and development work now under way in the Lake Superior copper district is greater than ever before in the history of mining in this field. The low-water mark was reached about 1895, when there were but seven active properties in Houghton county, and one in Keweenaw county, with every mine idle in Ontonagon county. There came a turn in the tide in 1897, with a marked improvement in 1898 and the greatest "boom" in the history of the district in 1899. The work of making new mines has not ceased, even in the depression following the break in the price of copper that came late in 1901. Of the present production of metal by the mines of the Lake Superior district, a very respectable proportion comes from mines that have been made during the past decade. The Copper Range Consolidated, which stands second only to the Calumet & Hecla mine among the producers of the district, in point of output, is making from three mines about 40,000,000 pounds of fine copper yearly, and all three mines are absolutely new properties. The big end of the output of the Oseola Consolidated comes from the two Kearsarge mines, one of which is entirely new, while the other was but a small producer ten years ago. The Mohawk made nearly 10,000,000 pounds of fine copper last year, and is getting in line to increase its output to about 16,000,000 pounds yearly. The Calumet & Hecla and Oseola are all producers, and all are entirely new mines. The Centennial is an old company, but its output is entirely new, the mine being worked on which was begun late in 1899. The Centennial, by the way, is getting much better rock than formerly, and its local friends are much encouraged by the improvement. The light started on the Centennial management some months ago was in the East exclusively, as the people on the ground had a better understanding of the difficulties under which the property was laboring, and were not disposed to blame the management. The unfortunate fact that there was less copper in the rock at a given point than had been anticipated, led to the change in management, both at the mine and in the East, has not been a very marked change for the better has set in, and the present returns are as much above as the first were below the average expected by good judges. The management, both at the mine and in the East, has not been a very marked change for the better has set in, and the present returns are as much above as the first were below the average expected by good judges. The management, both at the mine and in the East, has not been a very marked change for the better has set in, and the present returns are as much above as the first were below the average expected by good judges.

The Erie-Ontario exploration is making good progress, and the showing is a satisfactory one. The same can be said of the Challenge shaft being sunk by St. Mary's Mineral Land company. Both of these new enterprises are in the hitherto little known district between the Champion and Winona mines. The results secured to date are of such a nature that further work in the district is almost certain to be started, in case nothing better happens to the very satisfactory copper situation of the present moment. The Mitchell Development company is the latest of the Michigan-Arizona corporations to go by the board. The Mitchell was organized nearly three years ago, in the height of the copper boom, and its shares sold at a fabulous premium shortly after organization. A considerable sum of money was expended in exploratory work, which was conducted with vigor for two years. The principal shareholders became discouraged and dropped out, with few exceptions, and the reorganization, which was effected to secure sufficient cash to do more than go through the motions of breathing and appearing alive. The Mitchell was reorganized, and the new company was prepared to advance considerable money secured an expert report, which was not favorable, and the company has ceased to exist. A permanent rock house is being built at "D" shaft of the Mass mine. The limit production is being secured from this shaft has been handled under considerable disadvantages, but even a permanent shaft house and rail connections, "D" should be able to give considerable aid to the elder mine. The Mass, by the way, is one of the newer properties that is benefiting to the full by the high price of copper. A large amount of money is being expended underground, and this in a few months will be in the line of being in shape to begin and maintain a much larger output than ever before.

Efforts are being made to secure funds for resumption of work on the property of the Bohemian range syndicate. Expert opinion regarding the property was of a rather unfavorable nature, but the showing of metal was decidedly good, and it is probable that something further will be done there. Lake people are at a loss to understand the boundary lines between the National management. The Michigan, lying to the south and west, have the continuation of all of the lodes and veins opened, or likely to be opened, on the Michigan property. A little work is under way at the Miskwabik property, but the company has not been floated yet, and until such time as it is done, several hundred thousand dollars in cash placed in the treasury, development work on a considerable scale need not be looked for. The present movement in the price of copper is decided by certain conservative Easterners, some of whom remember that Tecumseh has played up and down more than once previously. It is but fair to state, however, that while the present price of copper is based upon a drill core only, the little

The Atlantic and Baltic are to make an exchange of ground, similar to the trade that has been made between a number of the mines just north of Calumet. This exchange will rectify the boundary lines between the Baltic and the section 16 tract of the Atlantic so that the surface lines will run parallel with the dip of the strata, and that the mine will be sunk on the plane of the lode at right angles to the strike of the Baltic vein.

NORTH BUTTE COMPANY
WILL SOON RANK THIRDAmong the Producers of the Butte Camp—Output

New Process of Producing Ore.

Butte, Mont., September 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Extensive improvements are being made in the properties of the North Butte Copper company with a view of increasing the productive capacity of the mines comprising this group. The 1600-foot shaft in the Speculator is being retimbered and the engine now in use to be replaced with a more modern hoist. The work is being pushed with all possible haste and operations will be completed within a few weeks.

Meanwhile the ore extraction continues without cessation. The lower workings are connected with some of the mines owned by the Amalgamated Copper company and the ore is being hoisted to the surface through the shaft of the High Ore mine. When the improvements now under way shall have been completed, it is estimated that the producing capacity of the North Butte company's properties will have been increased 50 per cent. Mining experts predict that the North Butte Mining company will rank third among the producers of this camp this year, taking precedence over the properties of W. A. Clark and F. Aug. Heinze, and ranking next to the mines of the Anaconda company and the Boston and Montana company.

On account of the "freezing" of one of the blast furnaces in the smelter of the Pittsburgh and Montana company, this week, the plant was temporarily closed down. The ores in the fiery pit, which are supposed to keep at an excessive temperature by oxidation, became chilled, necessitating a shut-down. A large force of men is engaged in making the repairs, and the management announces that operations will be resumed shortly.

The Pittsburgh and Montana company is reducing ore by a secret process, the invention of Ralph Bageley. If the process is a success it will revolutionize copper smelting throughout the world. Information regarding the ground development is hard to secure, for every man employed in the works is required to give a solemn oath that he will not divulge anything seen by him.

The smelter has only been in operation for a few weeks and during this time has been closed down frequently for repairs and improvements. The men in charge are doing considerable experimental work and it is not expected that the plant will run steadily for several weeks yet.

The "Fitzsimons" plant is one of the most elaborately equipped properties in the west. Among the surface improvements are a billiard room, library, and other accommodations for the employees. In the underground workings of the Pittsburgh and Montana company there is said to be blocked out 5,000,000 tons of copper ore.

At the Leonard mine, owned by the Boston and Montana company, a vast precipitating plant is in the course of construction. When completed the plant will have a capacity of 500 gallons per minute and will have cost $12,000. The tanks are situated nearly 1,500 feet below the shaft, the copper water being conveyed from the mine by a large dune.

The new hoist of the Combination mine, owned by the Reina Copper company, is in place and will be in commission shortly. The big pump, which

Bisbee, Ariz., Sept. 2.—No new strikes of ore have been made in the mines here during the past week, but there are indications in two of the Bonanza circle properties, and it is probable it will soon be announced that ore has been struck in at least one of these two. Shipments to the smelters at Douglas are about the same as usual, and no marked increase is looked for until about Oct. 1. Preparations for placing three more ships on the list are being rapidly completed, and it is expected the output of this part of the district will be almost doubled within the next six days.

At the Calumet & Arizona properties the greatest amount of improvement work being done is still confined to the Oliver shaft, where the new shaft is being rapidly completed. Several new buildings are under way for the accommodation of the employees. Both the Lake Superior & Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh & Duluth have immense quantities of good smelting ore blocked out, and the output of the two properties will probably about equal that of the Calumet & Arizona mines.

The pumps are now discharging about 175 gallons per minute, and the volume of water is keeping a steady flow at that rate. On the completion of the station on the 800 level and the sump development on laterals will commence on a large scale.

Sinking still continues at the Denn-Arizona, the shaft being down close to 370 feet. No change has as yet occurred in the rate of sinking, and it is expected until further notice is reached. Last week the Bisbee Lumber company received a body of ore from the Arizona and Shattuck-Arizona for considerable deliveries of lumber. The most of it goes to the Arizona, and it is for use in surface improvements at the properties.

The Copper Queen properties are operating with full force, as usual, and are only awaiting the completion of the shaft, and with excellent results. The Laura mine is being operated in a small way. This is an underground mine and about thirty-five miners are employed. The present output of this mine is about 300 tons of ore per day. It is owned by Mayor Fay of Virginia, and is being operated by Mr. C. W. O'Brien of Duluth, and others.

The stockpile at the Sellers mine will be cleaned up in a few days. This is the only mine in this immediate vicinity with a stockpile to ship this season, and about 150 men have been employed in the past year. The Oliver Mining company has made a large amount of improvements at this mine the past season, among them being an independent system of water works. New tracks connecting with the yard tracks have been put in and not the least is the large machine shop in course of construction, which, when completed, will be the largest and most complete on the range.

The new laboratory at the Monro-Tonner mine is about completed. It is one of the largest on the range and is fitted to be used as the latest paraphernalia for such work.

ON PINE ISLAND.
Exploration Work on Kito Property to Start.

The Tower News says: After almost three years of uncertainty and regular journalistic reports to the effect that the Albert Kito property on Pine Island was to be explored, it begins to look as though something along that line was really going to be done now. Alfred Merritt, who holds a lease on the property, is said to have succeeded it to a Michigan man who has organized a company for the purpose of beginning exploration and development work. Harry Legge, a representative of the diamond drill firm of Cole & McDonald, was here Tuesday and looked over the land thoroughly for the purpose of determining the cost of drilling, as his firm expects to be awarded a contract for that part of the work.

In conversation with Mr. Kito the gentleman stated that the Pine Island property was by far the most promising he had ever seen and gave it as his opinion that a big body of iron ore would be found there. If exploration work was intelligently carried on, Mr. Legge also stated that he saw no reason why his firm of the Cole & McDonald should not be the company to do the drilling and test pitting and if they did a crew of men would be put to work at once sinking pits in order to more accurately determine the trend of the vein before bringing in the drills.

The commencement of work on Pine Island will be hailed with delight by everyone as the showing there is said to be the best on the Vermilion range.

TWENTY-THREE AT WORK
ON THE CUYUNA RANGEAnd the Number Will Be Increased Soon—No Ore Yet Found on Brainerd Race Track—Shenango People Are Getting Busy, and Others Are Hustling.

Affairs in connection with the Cuyuna iron range are jogging along smoothly so far as can be learned in Duluth. The hotel at Deerwood is packed with investigators and those looking after interests of various kinds. The heavy supply is not only Indians and the men who will put in a few good rides or even an automobile, but also a number of men who are looking for a good place to set a trap line, and the animal moved so securely that a swift-footed chap leaped across lots and cut him out of a mighty fine skin.

Close to twenty drills are now busily engaged probing the secrets concealed by the bosom of old Mother Earth out in the Cuyuna range. A few more will be added at an early date. Just what the week's record and results have been, is not exactly known in Duluth. For some reason, the people who have drills at work have grown very secretive and mysterious. That the Indians are doing a considerable business in operations of a considerable magnitude, after a visit out there of several days, a man back in Duluth, a goodly communitarian manner, and even had the name of a man who was disappointed in the way things were going.

Another man who has been in the impression that he brought in a lot of drill cores in his red handkerchiefs, which he carried very carefully and utterly refused to permit anyone to see, when he was asked of the results of his work on the Mesaba range, he refused to say.

Some of the wise ones maintain that this sudden silence and frowning up at the fact that the Indians are so busy and are increasing rather than lessening, and that silence and mystery will "bear" the situation by keeping out the outsiders and lowering the morale of the honest farmers out on the range. As stated, this is gossip and given for what it is worth.

Out on the driving track at Brainerd, Messrs. Lum, Hartley and associates have been at it for some time, and they encourage them to buy champagne for the crowd. After starting work the drill 102 feet, after which the diamond bit had to be employed. Ten days spent in drilling green schist convinced them that brown hematite ore did not exist there and the drill was moved 20 feet farther north where it now is working on a second hole.

Brainerd people are remembering the lack of the enterprise is worthy fellows, struggling along to make an honest penny and because they think an iron mine would be more of a success than the race course.

Messrs. Lum, Hartley and associates have a lease on 120 acres on a 15-cent royalty. The tract is an inverted "L" and comprises the north half of the northeast quarter, and the southeast of the northeast quarter, section 30, 45-20, adjoining a portion of the Brainerd townsite.

Cuyler Adams and others own the southeast quarter of section 30, 45-20, and believe that a better chance for ore exists on their land, but, of course, in default of drilling, it simply is a matter of opinion. Mr. Adams' forty acres a nice potato patch this year and the multi-tracked wagon road runs right by it on the south side.

The Shenango people are right on deck and propose to find out what is in the ground leased from the Adams and Cuyler Adams. The lease was taken outright, and not under an option. The fee holders are very jealous and feel that the transaction was very significant in securing the lease. Upon the whole, it is considered a very good deal for the Adams.

Mr. Pearce left Duluth for the ground last Wednesday to select the spot for putting down the first drill hole. Boring was started at 100 feet and the results will be eagerly awaited.

This lease, as previously published, embraces eighty acres, the south half of the northwest quarter of section 27, 45-20.

On the lease of Pickands, Mather & Co., the shaft has been watered after nearly two weeks' delay, and by this time, sinking has been resumed. A very heavy flow of water was encountered just two weeks ago, and not only overtaxed the pumping facilities at the mine, but literally filled the shaft.

Strong rumors are going around to the effect that the Pickands-Mather people are not at all excited over this property and that, in fact, they are not even enthusiastic. Some of their representatives are reported as saying that they cannot swear to what there is there; that the character of the ore is not clear, and that the drills could not give as clear an idea of it as was required.

As stated, this is gossip and given for what it is worth.

All the drills on the four Northern Pacific leases are supposed to be working steadily, but this week no definite word has been received from the Federal building that the drill on section 3, 45-20 is down over 100 feet in ore and that none of the assays have fallen below 60 per cent in iron. Some, in fact, have gone as high as 82 per cent.

The fee-holders are keeping silent as to the exact nature of the ore, and the results are very meager and unsatisfactory, or so very, very good that they would excite the public and loan prices, is merely a matter of conjecture.

Both the N. P. drill in section 10 and the drill on land of the Mineral Range Development company, in the same section are working, but no reports as to results are at hand.

George H. Crosby and associates have five drills working near Big Rabbit lake, one of the five drills is working on a property held by Judge James J. Hale and Mr. Crosby. Drilling has not proceeded far enough to demonstrate anything there.

Mr. Crosby holds an option on a state lease in the northwest quarter of section 30, 45-20. It was taken out by Richard Long, a custodian of the Federal building in Duluth. If the option is taken up, Mr. Long will pocket $1000 of Mr. Crosby's cash.

A drill was started there some weeks ago but encountered hard rock and a diamond bit had to be secured. After the hole went into the barren rock, and the other day, the drill was moved to another spot where the barren rock, encountering ore are thought to be much better.

Mr. Crosby also holds the south half of section 30, 45-20.

Duluth's Style Store.

Giddings

In the heart of the Shopping District.

New Autumn Apparel.

Fashion has been generous in her ordinances this season, positively every style of garment being "the thing." For this reason the feminine contingency may one and all be congratulated, seeing that each may, without misgivings, wear that particular style of suit she looks best in.

THE PARTICULAR SUIT THAT YOU WILL LOOK BEST IN IS AWAITING YOUR INSPECTION AT GIDDINGS'S.

Should that particular suit be one of those cute and natty short bolero styles, these are to be seen in all the season's favorite colors, strapped, stitched and diversely trimmed, according to the best taste dictates. Also a varied assortment of those long and graceful fitted coat suits which must, perhaps, be awarded the "palm of precedence" this season.

These smart costumes are shown in shades of gray, blue, red, tan, green, brown, purple and black; and last, but not least, come those mannish styles in Paddock and box suits, whose rough and heathery aspect are their chief claims.

Prices from $25.00 to $125.00.

CRAVENETTE COATS—Many new ideas have arrived. These practical coats, which are really a dress coat as well as one suitable for rough weather, are more in demand every day. The Giddings models combine these two desirable requisites in the most satisfactory manner—$12.50 to $50.00.

WHAT HAPPENED AT THE PRESIDIO

By L. O'Connell.

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.) A glorious day for the athletic tournament at the military post of the Presidio. The grandstand was filled with spectators and quivers with nodding plumes. A rich race in dash horsesmen, snatching successfully from each the diseste, snatched to imply death or victory on some distant battlefield. In the staidness of duty, golden-haired girl, all children and roses, leans over the rail, and whippers the handsome, coarse man in captain's uniform.

"Will you be at the ship tonight?" I must speak to you. He glances boldly at the earnest face.

"Your asking a favor is so unexpected."

"Oh, Capt. Cadman," broke in the girl, "Pray don't refuse, you must know what I want."

"Certainly, Miss Everett, if you can ask a favor of me, I grant it."

"My eyes have been steadily upon her face, and she has been looking at me with a steady gaze."

"I have been looking at you with a steady gaze, and she has been looking at me with a steady gaze."

Deep Breathing Essential to Health—Most People Too Lazy to Breathe—Heart Failure Often Due to Overloaded Stomach—Fill the Lungs More, the Stomach Less—Those With Weak Hearts Should Avoid Running—To Hold the Breath Is Injurious—Don't Breathe Through the Mouth.

BY EDWARD B. WARMAN.
(Author of "Scientific Physical Training," etc. Contributor to "Keep Well" club.)

We may live days slowly for a few moments without air. When God made man, the finishing touch was "The Breath of Life." When man "shuffles off this mortal coil," the last thing he gives up is his breath. Breathing is a paragon of things as it may seem, all the way from the cradle to the grave, there is no one thing which man so economizes as his breath. It is shut out from the home, the office, the workshop, the church, the school, the theater, etc., as though it were a veritable foe.

Deep, diaphragmatic breathing is essential to health. The upper chest should be raised and fixed muscularly; that is, widely independent of the breathing. The diaphragm is one of the strongest muscles of the body, extending through the body from side to side (attached to the lower ribs) and from front to back (attached to the sternum—breastbone—in front, and along the sides of the lower part of the spinal column in the back). It arches in the center and separates the chest from the abdomen. It is a floor for the lungs and a roof to the abdomen—the heart and lungs above, the liver, stomach, etc., beneath. Correct breathing means a strong action of the waist muscles (front, side and back) at, not below, the waist line. So-called abdominal breathing (moving the lower wall of the abdomen) is not abdominal at all. It is a heavy load on the lungs and a heavy load on the stomach. It is a bad habit, and often results in injury. If you wish to secure correct abdominal breathing, lie flat upon your back, raise a heavy book, or other object (or have some one sit upon you) about over the pit of the stomach. Breathe slowly and deeply enough to raise the object while the upper chest, if in correct position, remains immovable.

DEEP BREATHING ESSENTIAL TO HEALTH.

Full use of the lungs always means strength. Through the nose, the creature, from the mouse which breathes 150 times a minute, to the elephant which breathes 15 times a minute, are, one rule holds good: the larger and stronger the animal the more slowly and deeply it breathes.

The same applies with equal force to man. The greatest men of all times and countries—Napoleon, Luther, Cromwell, Webster, Gladstone, Lincoln, and many more were big-chested, deep-breathing men. The great statesmen, Bismarck, the great preachers, Beecher, Brooks, Spurgeon, etc.; the great actors, Salvini, Forrest, McCullough, etc., these are but types of men with one thing in common—the fully developed lungs and lungs with the resultant vitality.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

The blood makes the entire circuit of the body about three times every minute, leaving the heart a red and returning almost black with its impurities, and then passed on again through the lungs for the purpose of purification. Throughout the body the lungs should receive their full medium of pure air.

When you have heart contractions and forces out the blood; when you exhale, the heart expands and receives the blood. The heart is a pump, and in the open air is the greatest blood purifier in the world, for we are drawn ing upon the great universal reservoir of life. But do not delude yourself with the thought that merely being in the fresh air will suffice. Some men are in the fresh air all day, but never take a deep breath unless a sudden gust of wind is such as to compel them to do so.

Any movement that we perform that requires more than the customary muscular action calls, of course, for more blood. The blood is the food of the muscles. Inasmuch as the amount of blood in the body is more or less limited, this extra quantity can be supplied only by passing more of it through the muscles in an equal time. Therefore the heart must beat more quickly; but the rapid flow of blood over the lungs over the body and naturally the lungs participate in it. It will be seen that if the blood-flow through the lungs is increased the air supply must also be increased if the blood is to be purified. To secure this, the amount of air entering the lungs must be increased which can be accomplished only by fuller breathing.

BREATHING EXERCISES.

As a rule, I do not believe in them—as exercises—except for an invalid. If you are able-bodied especially able-bodied, instead of "standing up" or "sitting down" and "going through" a series of exercises, "twice far better to walk briskly or take some form of vigorous exercise that will compel the breathing to "go through" you. In vigorous respiration, not forced, but aimed for forced respiration (as in running) breathing exercises defeat the purpose. They get along with the increase in the circulation of the blood, the overstimulated air cells occlude the blood vessels and force the blood back so the oxygen cannot reach it and the imprisoned gas cannot escape. This causes a heavy load on the lungs and a heavy load on the stomach. The desired end is obtained when both air and blood circulate freely in the lungs. This is a hard work. I have said, is best accomplished through some vigorous action.

But the majority of people are too lazy to breathe; too lazy to take the kind of exercise that requires the deep, full inhalations. They get along with just as little air as possible, go blocks out of the way to avoid climbing a hill, in so doing, never experience the exhilarating influence and buoyancy of diaphragmatic breathing. If they do which breathes to a point a distance for a street car, they blow and wheeze like a wind-broken horse.

HEART FAILURE.

There's many a case of so-called heart failure that is nothing more than an over-loaded, distended stomach crowding upon and thus interfering with the functions of the heart. My advice is—fill the lungs more and the stomach less.

Is your heart weak? If so, seek the cause, but do not let up in exercise. If you do not exercise your lungs, they will not exercise your stomach, but, instead, ignore its functions by forcing the blood back upon the poor heart. Do less thing, it may fall when you need most; if you do not exercise your muscles they will atrophy by non-use. Your heart is a muscle. It needs a certain amount of exercise to increase its strength. It is a hard work organ. The only rest it ever gets all through life is the thrilling interval of purification through the lungs.

I would suggest that your work be vigorous, not violent. Take a brisk walk (preferably on an empty stomach—your own). Increase the rate of speed compatible with safety. Each day keep the blood through the vessels at a higher pressure. A heart which is strong and healthy responds just one yell of rage, then a knife switched between cloth and flesh and Capt. Cadman, dropping his victim, staggered against the wall and dragged a sharp blade from his shoulder.

Deep sighs heaved his wounded breast. He lay in amazement at death, emboldened for the moment in the woman's eyes glared savagely in his face.

"What a man in a wild hurry of excitement to Grace, who covered speechless against the wall."

"This man is my husband. The priest told me so. I married him two years ago, and when Capt. Cadman came here, this man was a Jew with the common soldier's wives. He wouldn't own up, though I've cried on his shoulder, I saw him riding after you tonight and came here to tell you. I've come here to tell you that he is a Jew, and he calls himself an officer and a gentleman. I've never seen him since."

A flood of blood was growing at Cadman's feet. His immobility enraged the woman.

"What's that paper," she screamed, suddenly, "the sheet of the white scrap in his hand."

"Is that that poor thing's marriage license? Have you cheated her and stolen her money? Give it here!" She thrust the paper in Grace's hand.

"What's the meaning of this?" Lieut. Vaughan's tone grew sterner with each discovery.

"Grace, this isn't your husband's marriage license. It's a Jew's. I saw him riding after you tonight and came here to tell you. I've come here to tell you that he is a Jew, and he calls himself an officer and a gentleman. I've never seen him since."

BOTH REALISTIC AND ROMANTIC

Is the Spectacle of "Ben-Hur," Soon to Be Presented at Lyceum
—The Action of the Play. 28 28 28

The dramatic spectacle of "Ben-Hur" is a novelty in story and locale, and a wide departure from anything ever before seen in America in artistic innovations and deviations from stage traditions. The usual overture by the orchestra is omitted and in its stead what is really a pictorial overture is presented. In this prelude to the play "The Wise Men in the Desert" is sketched the keynote of the drama. The music is both orchestral and choral.

As the first strains of the great orchestra are heard the curtain rises, disclosing a symbolic drop, which depicts the opulent power of Rome in contrast to the spiritual peace of Jerusalem. For the choral music were selected passages from the prophetic of Isaiah concerning the coming of the Messiah, where Christ is referred to as the "light to lighten the darkness of the people." The music of this number begins with the theme of the prophecy, trumpets and trombones predominating, and is built upon the ancient musical scale peculiar to the Semite people—Arabs and Hebrews—upon which the interval of the augmented second is prominent. This melody is taken up by the invisible male chorus, announcing the coming of the Messiah.

Following is heard a suggestion of "The Star of Bethlehem" for the glory of the Lord has risen upon thee. After a passage, "For behold, the darkness shall cover the earth," the orchestra takes up the theme of the star, which is the key-note of the play. "The Lord shall rise upon thee, and His glory shall be seen upon thee, and the gentiles shall come to thy light and kings to the brightness of the rising." The symbolic music, which is closing the tableau of "The Wise Men in the Desert" beside their kneeling camels, leading across the arid waste of the desert, and watching with wonder and awe the apparition of the "Star of Bethlehem." Mysteriously it flutters, at first a mere luminous point, increasing rapidly in size and brilliancy, shooting forth rays of light until the entire horizon is illumined. As the light grows brighter, the scene becomes visible suggestions of the celestial fullness as the light increases in intensity.

As this incident of the play closes, the tread of the camel is simulated by the orchestra, suggesting the journey of the wise men over the desert to the city of David, where the child is to be born whom they seek and would worship. This melody is composed in an ancient scale common to the Egyptians and Greeks 2,000 years ago.

The action of the play opens years later in a scene which shows the roof terrace of the palace of Hur, from which a view of the Holy City is presented. This melody is in a key of majesty and impresses the audience with the grandeur of the scene which realizes the atmosphere of the situation. The youthful Ben Hur, his mother and sister, Arris, the faithful maid, and Simionides, the merchant of Antioch, are introduced.

Messiah, a type of the current intolerance and arrogance of Rome, returning to Jerusalem after a long absence, visits Ben Hur, the friend of his boyhood, and is warmly greeted. He rebukes his wife for an insult, which is resented, and takes his leave in anger.

A tender, domestic scene between Ben Hur, his mother and sister is interrupted by the approach of the procurator, Gratus. Far and the old Ben Hur, who has been banished to their household to witness the entry of their new master.

Then follows the catastrophe of the falling of the described in the novel. Ben Hur, to see the legion as it passes, runs upon the parapet. It crumbles and falls, and Ben Hur is hurled to the street.

"Help! Treason!" the procurator has been murdered. The procurator, accused by the soldiers, is seized and bound. The slave women are dragged away to watch his meeting with Messala for the information of Simionides.

The scene changes. The Temple of Apollo passes and the Fountain of Castalia is revealed. The revelers respire and are enforced by the devoted, who whirl in their voluptuous dances.

The next scene in the Orchard of Palms, shows Ben Hur and Arris, the Egyptian. When the curtain is raised the two are seated beneath the trees, while a short distance away is the lake, its water silencing the rays of a midsummer moon.

At the edge of the lake stands a gigantic Egyptian on guard over a magnificent pleasure boat. The Egyptian plays the harp and sings. Ben Hur lured on by her beauty and the spell of the music tells her of his love, and together they softly glide away. Simionides and Esther, the latter being secretly in love with Ben Hur, come on the scene just as the boat moves off, and Simionides hides the sight from Esther.

The next scene of the play presents the famous race course of Antioch. There is a moment of preparation at the gateway of the circus and then bursts into view the environment of the harbor race, and a blood inspiring scene, and which to many is the climax of the play, but to the scene and tender incidents on the Mount of Olives in the last act renders even this apparent anticlimax of no consequence. It is the divine and greatest event of the play, the play horizon carries the play to a climax of greatness far beyond and above any spectacular incident that precedes it. From this last impressive scene growing out of the greatest event of the play, the play horizon carries the play to a climax of greatness far beyond and above any spectacular incident that precedes it.

The music of this last act is again the theme of the prophetic trumpets and trombones again predominant. Great admiration has been expressed for Edwin Sullivan Kelly's, embellishing choruses and instrumental and vocal interpretations, which go beyond all bounds of the unusual, in adding a suitable musical frame to the pageantry, pomp and grandeur of the whole production.

New York, Aug. 26.—"Why did I go into vaudeville? And why have I stayed there? Singers abandoned comic opera for the same reason."

"You know, I was actually on my way to the Metropolitan opera house to see dear Herr Corried when I made up my mind to leave before I had to."

"The remotest idea of doing so. You never can tell, as Arnold Daly says."

"It was my marriage with Mr. Morgan—Edward Morgan, you know—that changed my mind about Herr Corried and the glories of the Metropolitan Grand."

"This is the secret of our lives, we promised ourselves after the event. So it was with mine."

"We were just sitting down to a little late-tea supper in our room at the hotel when my husband came in."

MOTOR COURSE

Has a Hairpin Turn Like the One In France.

By some drivers, it is believed that the course is a dangerous one, although men who have a great deal of experience in the speeding of motor cars declare it to be not half as bad as it is painted. To be sure, there are many places in the road, and there for the vnderpoint cup race, is an comparatively good road with an ideal stretch from Hyde Park to Jericho. Some of the other parts are narrow and in some places it is a little rough. The grades are of no account, and it will be a poor car indeed that cannot

Chauffeurs Maimed or Killed at Almost Every Meet.

These accidents occurred in sight of thousands of people and sent a thrill of horror through their veins. Women fainted and men's faces blanched. Public sentiment against the sport was aroused to such an extent that the races were called off. The auto car as a pleasure machine is recognized, but as a racer it is doomed.

Barney Oldfield is going on the stage in the winter. He will race his "green dragon" on a roller machine against the shadow of Earl Kiser, thrown by a biograph machine. This is not apt to make Barney's "shadow grow less," nor that of his bank roll. It's parlous business, though. Athlete-actors are usually classed as has-beens.

Is the Toronto Feather-Weight Backed By Tom O'Rourke.

New York, Sept. 2.—Tom O'Rourke has a new featherweight, named Artie Edmunds. He hails from Toronto, weighs around 126-128, and, if reports of his prowess can be believed, he is a very likely youngster. Good judges who have seen him go say he is one of the best of the new ones, and that he can make any boy in the class step some. He has beaten pretty nearly everybody of his weight in Canada, and has been quietly tipped by the Canadian sports as the one best bet.

"I had heard of Edmunds several times," said O'Rourke, "and everybody touted him to be such a wonder that I decided to import him and try him out. I don't take much stock in these phenoms, as a rule, and, as I belong to the Missouri clan, I like to have them exhibit for me. We tried Edmunds out with a couple of boys of fair caliber, and he made good in fine shape, so I decided to send him against

Let your somewhat enterprising sportsmen endeavor to get plans into shape for the kind of a rink wanted, but they were late in starting the work, and it took them through the winter. The hockey players in the city are anxiously waiting for a start to be made this year, and if the rink is to be ready for the coming season, there is not much time to be lost.

The driver, wearing a white shirt, a dark bow tie, and a cap, is seated in the sulky, holding the reins. The sulky has large spoked wheels. In the background, a large, multi-tiered grandstand is visible, filled with spectators. Other horses and drivers can be seen in the distance on the track. The entire scene is framed within an oval border.

Featherstone, earned a number of brilliant victories in the Western States and Metropolitan tracks. Miltie Young, the owner of these youngsters, did not fancy them highly, as First Mate's stud success had been none too glorious up to that time. But the winter proved young First Mate to be a winner. One day, A. Logan Denny, young member of a family famous for its horse raising, was introduced to the stud with a notion of following the steps of T. C. McDowell, Woodford Clay and

The closest thing The Cloyed tastes to New York restaurants may be content with the season after season of the same old same old, but not with the repetition of last winter's spring chicken served on a hotbed of butter.

"Oz?" we had Annie McLaughlin tell us three years ago. Lella McIntyre is the Mother Goose of the Oz world. She has been in "Babes in Toyland" a year ago, and we snacked our lips over each other but she was too good for us. She was a gift for an odor of staleness in place of the aroma of freshness. Such is the nature of Oz. The Oz world is a place where, then, didn't we know that Annie, Lella and Mabel were gathered from mankind's best and worst, and that we were to see each of them in each of bad and bloom?

As a quarter of a dollar is to two dollars so is "Papa's Boy" to a show like the one I have described. In this commercial end of the drama may we not take the price of a play into consideration? Thus at Monday bargain prices, the audience, with its high expectation to the cut rate and thereby contrived to feel that I was making a good purchase. I found it to be a free translation of a French four door farce, with men and women playing good and bad, hidden and seek. To be had a prim mother, a roughish father, a pandering tutor, a misleading clum as some siren acquaintances. I need not give the scandalous particulars.

The comedian, the one whom I never heard of, was Charles Bowser, but played

M. F. Kalmback, one of the pioneers, secured the claim, picked up some iron ore, and secured his share of good property and making more than his share of good deals.

Mrs. Bros. have taken an option on some very promising property, and there are others who have committed themselves to the same.

Several times The Herald has given Cuyler Adams credit for what he has done on the Cuyuna range. A young fellow with a few fast friends, and a few fast friends, has insinuated that the articles printed by The Herald had some and then interested his friends in them. Through him, the late John P. Morrow went into state leases out there extensively.

Mr. Hammel, however, was about a year too soon, and his load was so heavy and the demand so slow in coming that he lost most of his leases. He kept at it, however, talking, urging, persuading and convincing. To date, he has not received the returns to which he is entitled, but his work and enthusiasm and faithfulness to the range means much to the general results to date, and if he does not make a fortune, he deserves to do so.

Woman's Health

Every woman may be attractive. Bright eyes, pink cheeks and red lips are her nature-given right. A sallow skin, lack of animation, low spirits and weak nerves may be avoided by the use of Beecham's Pills, a remedy that will deserve the confidence of every woman. Again and again they have proved to be invaluable at those recurring times when so many women feel debilitated and suffer from nervousness, headache and depression. It is wonderful the way these pills assist Nature and relieve the suffering.

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING AT PROCTOR, HOME OF ONE OF LARGEST RAILROAD Y. M. C. A. ORGANIZATIONS IN WEST.

READING ROOM OF Y. M. C. A. AT PROCTOR.

POOL TABLE AND GENERAL AMUSEMENT ROOM AT PROCTOR Y. M. C. A.

With 400 members out of the 500 to 600 railroad men in town, the Proctor railroad Y. M. C. A. comes pretty close to being the railroad man's club, which it aims to be.

The Proctor Y. M. C. A., which was established only two years ago, is one of the most successful organizations of its kind in the country, and it speaks well not only for the officers in charge of it, but for the railroad which backed the movement to establish it, and is giving it every support needed.

A little more than two years ago all the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road officials offered to erect a building to be used by the men as a Y. M. C. A. house, if the men would furnish it. The offer was accepted, and the building was immediately constructed. It is a handsome frame structure, two stories in height, with a large basement, and cost about $11,000. It was completed and opened with appropriate ceremonies, on Nov. 15, 1903.

W. A. McGonagle, general manager of the road, who is actively interested in the work of the Duluth Y. M. C. A., was largely instrumental in establishing the Proctor association.

E. S. Davis was chosen as secretary of the new association, and he still holds the position.

Under his direction the Proctor association has boomed. It has proved to be the most popular meeting place for the men in the village, and it now has an active membership of 400. As there are not more than 500 to 600 railroad men in the village, connected with the road, making their headquarters at Proctor, it will be seen that this membership list includes the great majority of the men in the village, connected with the road.

The membership fee is $5 a year, and for this sum the men are given the privileges of the building, which include reading rooms, game rooms, baths, and the gymnasium.

As is customary with all railroad Y. M. C. A. buildings, smoking in the club rooms is allowed, cigarettes alone being barred. In the city associations with a mixed membership, smoking is barred for the most part, but the railroad men have little time for smoking while on duty, and while they are off duty there are few of them who do not enjoy a quiet pipe, and the association is in a very prosperous condition, and already plans for enlargement are being considered.

The building is sold for, and the furniture is also free from debt. A handsome new $20 piano has just been donated to the association by W. A. McGonagle, and Supt. J. W. Kreiter has been instructed

CHAS. H. FLETCHER, New York City.

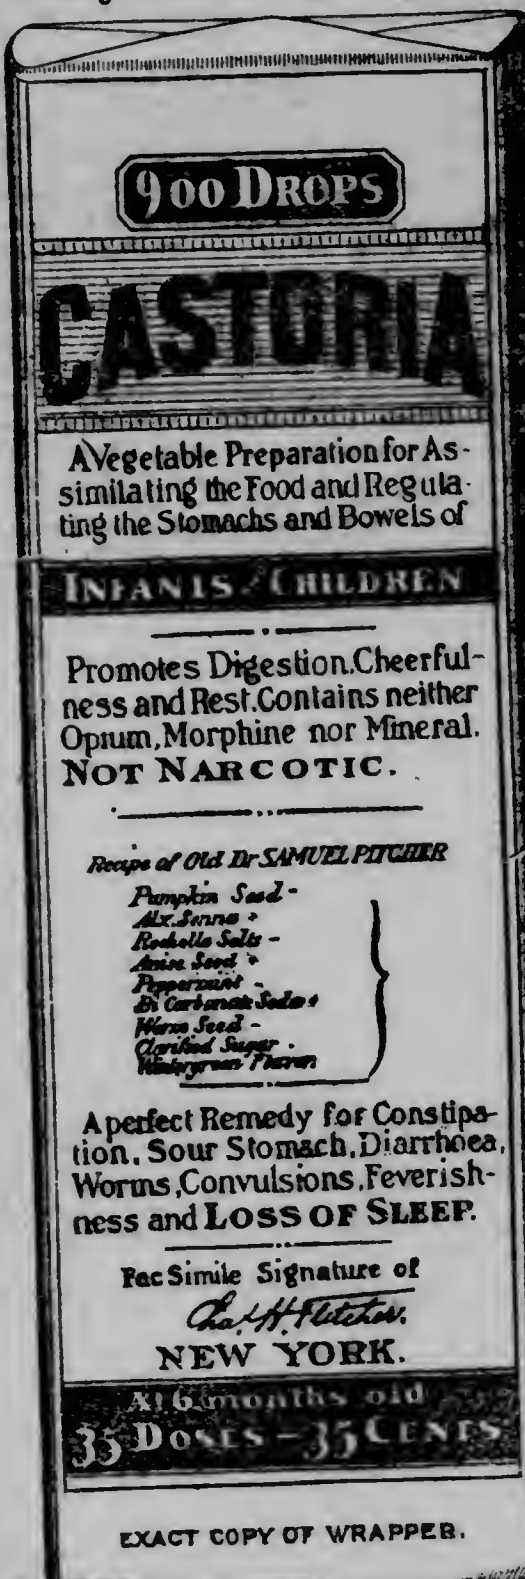

Dear Mr. Fletcher:—I wish to congratulate you on your numerous victories over counterfeiters and imitators of Castoria, and trust the time is not far distant when these inferior and dangerous mixtures will be entirely suppressed.

You are right when you say in your advertisements that it is "Experience against Experiment."

I feel it to be an outrage, and an imposition upon the parents of little children that my name should be associated with imitations of Castoria, dangerous to the health and life of these little ones who too often fight their battles for life in vain.

Let me again commend you for the high standard you have maintained in the preparation of my prescription, and I confidently believe it is due to this scrupulous integrity you are indebted for the wonderful sale of Castoria to-day, and the steady growth it has had since I gave you the details of its manufacture in my laboratory thirty-three years ago.

Charles H. Fletcher, M.D.

mental in raising the money for a new table. A billiard table will also be added later, the members donating what they can afford toward its cost.

Outfits have been secured on five lots adjoining the building, and they will probably be purchased. On two of these lots an additional building will be erected, and the other three lots will be used for tennis courts and other outdoor sports during the summer months.

The building is already provided with a number of stationary tubs in the basement, and a contract has just been let for three shower baths, which will give the association a very complete equipment in this respect.

More than $200 has also been recently expended in new apparatus for the gymnasium.

The greatest need of the building at present is more rooms for renting, and the new addition will be erected largely to provide these. The sleeping rooms are rented to members for 12 cents a night, and to non-members for 25 cents. Owing to the fact that many of the railroad men are kept traveling up and down the line of road, there is a constant and increasing demand for rooms for one or two nights only. In order to provide comfortable and sanitary quarters at a moderate price, the association divided off the building into sleeping rooms, and this is one of the most important features of the work.

The men are assured a comfortable bed with clean sheets, for a moderate sum, and this has done much to make the association as popular as it is.

The game rooms and the reading rooms are also a popular feature, and the baths fill a long-felt want among the railroad men. With their irregular hours, it is very difficult to find time or a proper place to get a good bath, and the association building is generally the first place they head for after leaving their engines or their cabs.

This fall educational classes will be started for those who care to attend them, and instruction will be given along practical lines most useful to the men in railroad work.

There are only two other railroad association buildings in this part of the country. One is located at Brainerd and the other at Two Harbors.

WEALTHY BLIND BEGGAR Found to Own Fine Residence at Pittston, Pa.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 1.—Having a bank account, estimated at $50,000, and owning a magnificent residence at Pittston, a blind beggar, whose name the police refuse to disclose, was arrested on the charge of "professional mendicancy and sanitary quarters at a pan-handling." He arrived in Altoona and impudently begged the police officials for permission to beg on the city streets, alleging that he had a family to support. He wore a Grand Army button, and claimed that he had served four years in the Civil war. He presented to Chief of Police Tillard a begging card, related a tale of woe, and stated that his eyes were blown out by a premature explosion in a mine.

The city had stringent laws against begging on the streets; but the old man told such a pitiable story that Chief Tillard reluctantly gave him permission to solicit alms from the charitable disposed. The chief started him off with a dollar contribution.

After he had left police headquarters Chief of Police John Mullen and Special Officer M. R. Brandler of Johnstown, who were here on special work, ran across the old man on the street corner and recognized him. He had been in Johnstown, they said, and his record had been looked up.

Chief Tillard was informed that the "poor blind beggar" was none other than a wealthy resident of Pittston. So the chief at once decided that no wealthy old soldier had no right to beg any more money from Altoona people, and gave orders that he should be immediately arrested.

BRAVE MARINERS STAY BY SINKING SHIP THAT OTHERS MAY BE SAVED

Steel Steamer Sevona Wrecked on Sand Island Reef.

Eleven of Those on Board
Drowned; Eleven Saved.

Seven Sacrificed Lives to Avoid Overcrowding Small Boats.

Bayfield, Wis., Sept. 4.—Eleven of the crew of the steamer Sevona were drowned by the wreck of the steel steamer on Sand Island reef on Lake Superior late Friday night. Eleven others were rescued, including the remainder of the crew and four women. The story of the disaster is a thrilling tale of shipwreck on the Great Lakes, such as has seldom been told.

Seven of the dead offered their lives as a sacrifice for the rest of the twenty-two on board the ill-fated ship. Of those for whom they gave their lives four are dead. The rest reached shore after a night of buffeting by the waves in an open boat, and a trip of more than twenty-four hours cutting a road through the wilderness of Northern Wisconsin.

Those who gave their lives for their shipmates were:
CAPT. E. E. McDONALD, North-east, Pa.
FIRST MATE LOUIS DARWIN, Michigan.

SECON MATE (name unknown), shipped at Cleveland last trip.
WHEELMAN, (name unknown), shipped at Cleveland on last trip.
TWO WATCHMEN, (names unknown), shipped at Cleveland on last trip.
WHEELMAN, (name unknown), has brother named Henry at Buffalo dry dock, shipped at Cleveland.

Those who were probably drowned in the effort to reach shore were:
PHILIPMAN, (name unknown), shipped at Cleveland on Aug. 28.
YANK VLEDER, older, Erie, Pa.
OILER, (name unknown), shipped at Cleveland on last trip.
DECKHAND, (name unknown), from Northeast, Pa.

The Sevona, a big ten-hatch vessel, was bound from Alliance to Erie with ore. Four women were on board, including the captain's wife, C. H. Cluckey. The others were aboard as guests of the owners and were Mrs. S. F. Spencer and her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Spencer and her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Phillips of Buffalo. Friday the steamer ran into the teeth of the northwesterly gale, and was tossed about in a terrific sea. Captain McDonald tried to make headway against the heavy sea, but the ship became too heavy and he turned and ran for shelter. Sand Island is in the center of the path of dangerous reefs. One and a half miles east of the light on the island is the Sand Island light. When the Sand Island light was sighted, it was too late. Captain McDonald tried to put about and get out of the danger, but the ship was too late.

When the ship struck, a great hole was torn in the bow and in half an hour after the wreck, the pounding of the waves had hammered the stout ship in two. The vessel broke just aft of the fourth hatch. When the shock came the captain found that there was no chance for all to try and reach shore and called for volunteers to stay on the ship. More than half of the crew volunteered to stay aboard while the rest tried to reach shore and call for help for those who were to remain on the wreck. Finally the captain, the two mates and four others, sailormen who were under no obligation to stand by a sinking ship, were selected to risk their lives for the safety of the rest.

Engineer Phillips was the volunteer but Captain McDonald refused to allow him to remain on board, ordering him to take with him the women ashore. With Phillips went Adam Fiden, Nicholas Fiden, C. H. Cluckey, two firemen and one deckhand, all of Buffalo.

The storm had battered the third boat to pieces, but a small boat large enough to carry four took another party. The boat with the women tried to make Sand Island, but was swept past. Nothing could be done save to keep the craft afloat. When the boats left the Sevona, the seven left aboard were huddled in the wheelhouse, waiting for the rescue that was to come too late.

The trip ashore of the life boat was one of terror. All night the men fought with the elements in the effort to reach shore, which was only five miles away, but the wind was carrying the craft parallel with the beach, and it was daylight before the boat was washed up high and dry on shore. So worried were the men from their exertion that they were nearly swept back into the deep water by the surf. During the night while the men were trying to reach shore the women were alternately despairing and hopeful. At times they would pray for their lives, the men joining and at other times they would help the sailors, hailing the small craft of the spray which came aboard constantly.

Saturday morning the storm-tossed party was washed ashore at Little Sand bay. Here they found a homesteader, who led them to two farms two miles in the distance. The men were so exhausted they could hardly walk to the farmhouse, but were pressed on by the knowledge that the captain and others on board the wreck needed help.

Then while the rest of the party was cared for at the farms, the engineer and one of the farmers, Mr. Thibadeau,

PRAISES OIL KING; ROASTS LA FOLLETTE

Macarthur Says Attack on Rockefeller Was Positively Fierce.

New York, Sept. 4.—Defense of John D. Rockefeller and denunciation of Governor La Follette of Wisconsin, who criticized him, were the features of the sermon delivered last night, by the Rev. Dr. Robert Macarthur, who has just returned from a summer lecturing tour on the Chautauqua assembly platform. He made special reference to the speeches of Governor La Follette which related to the head of the Standard Oil company and declared them to be exag-gerations which only served to excite sympathy for the person against whom they were directed.

Governor La Follette's attack on Mr. Rockefeller, said Dr. Macarthur, "is positively fierce. His criticism of Mr. Rockefeller is cruel, coarse and severe to the utmost extreme; it deflected its own object, creating sympathy for Mr. Rockefeller. The governor was guilty of exaggeration which reacted against himself and in favor of the object of his denunciation. The pendulum is swinging toward favorable judgment of Mr. Rockefeller, largely because of the criticism in a monthly magazine article of members of his family. I hesitate not to affirm that the writing of these articles is creating a reaction in favor of Mr. Rockefeller. And I know whereof I affirm when I say that Governor La Follette shocked his audiences. There is a vast amount of ardent hypocrisy in public speakers' denunciations of millionaires. Probably all of these speakers would be millionaires if they could."

Dr. Macarthur paid a glowing tribute to William J. Bryan, speaking of him as "the foremost figure on the platform today."

"Mr. Bryan delivered a lecture, entitled 'The Prince of Peace,' which is one of the greatest lectures of our times," said Dr. Macarthur.

Dr. Macarthur characterized Governor La Follette's addresses as models of patriotism and the governor as a man of the noblest ideals.

Representatives of many large Japanese firms engaged in various sorts of enterprises, have been investigating the possibilities of the country, and are impressed by its wealth. It remains, however, to be seen how large a proportion of the Japanese population will take up a permanent residence there. PANIC ON A LAUNCH

Causes Drowning of Five People In River at Detroit.

Gasoline Explodes and Occupants of Boat Jump Overboard.

Detroit, Sept. 4.—Five people are believed to have been drowned during a panic last night on the gasoline launch Ben Hur at the St. Clair flats. The Ben Hur was taking a party of forty people home to hotels at San Souci from a dance at Joe Bedore's when gasoline began leaking from the engine and exploded. The curtains of the launch caught fire and the flames following on the heels of the gasoline explosion caused a panic among the forty passengers. Most of them jumped overboard. The fire and screams of the frightened people attracted other launches from nearby points and those who could be found were rescued. At 8 o'clock today all but five of the passengers had been accounted for uninjured. The missing are supposed to have been drowned.

ENVOYS HAGGLE OVER WORDING OF PROTOCOL OF THE PEACE TREATY

AARON T. BLISS,
Who Was Stricken on Saturday With Apoplexy, is Considered in a Serious Condition.

GREAT PARADE OF LABOR DAY OBSERVANCE

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Ideal weather conditions prevailed here for the observance of Labor day. The union labor parade, numbering several thousand marchers, was the chief attraction. Notwithstanding a ruling by the Federation of Musicians requiring a similarity of uniforms for bands, President Kennedy of the federation announced that the attempt to bar non-complying bands from the parade would not be enforced. Many local labor organizations decided to participate in the parade. The absence of these most conspicuous workers the carpenters and hod carriers, out for members and their families at a suburban park. The other building trade unions arranged for similar separate programs.

Boston, Sept. 4.—A parade of the labor unions of the city was a feature today of the observance of Labor day in Boston. Several thousand men participated in the parade, which was reviewed at the state house by Governor Douglas and at the city hall by Mayor Patrick A. Collins. There was a great variety of sports although clouds and mist interfered with some events. Among the outdoor attractions was the national automobile race at Readville under the auspices of the Bay State association. The annual regatta of the New England Amateur Rowing association was held on the Charles river and a large crowd watched the various events from the bridges and sea walls.

Philadelphia, Sept. 4.—The labor unions of this city celebrated Labor day with a combined parade. More than 10,000 men paraded. After touring the main streets the unionists held an outing at a Delaware river resort.

Pittsburg, Sept. 4.—Labor day was observed here today by a parade in the morning in which it is estimated several thousand men marched. Following luncheon at Luna park there was a large meeting at which Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, spoke on "Unionism, Its Purposes and Aim." W. D. Huber, president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters, also made an address.

Loaded With G. A. R. Veterans—General Hurt.

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 4.—The first section of the west-bound Atchafalpa, Topeka & Santa Fe passenger train No. 9, carrying hundreds of G. A. R. excursionists, was derailed one mile east of Boone late yesterday. Eight passengers were injured. The two most seriously hurt were Mrs. Mary E. Burley, Lawrence, Kas., head and spine hurt, and Mrs. Martha E. Woodward, Lawrence, Kas., head badly cut.

The wreck was caused by the tracks of the tender leaving the tracks. The train was going at such a rate of speed that it was impossible to stop the engines and five coaches were overturned.

MURDERED IN HIS BED.

PROCESS OF REGENERATION MAY BE CONTROLLED IN PLANT LIFE

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 4.—That the process of regeneration may be controlled in plant life is the discovery made by William Albert Setchell, head of the botany department of the University of California. The results of Prof. Setchell's experiments have been published in a bulletin. The expert says that from which so much of value to science will come were made on a sea weed known as kelp.

By controlling the direction of the flow of the nutrition in the plant, he made buds grow where they had not grown before, and made the buds at the end of the plant which had been the strongest under normal conditions dwindle away. This is the first investigation along this line in the history of botany and the results thus far obtained are of such widespread importance as to throw a new light on the regenerative process altogether. Prof. Setchell believes that the problem of polarization may be solved by experiments on the same line that his recent experiments has opened up.

Both Sides Consider It of the Greatest Importance.

Signing of the Treaty May Not Occur Until Tuesday.

Fifty Days to Be Allowed For Governments' Ratification.

Portsmouth, Sept. 4.—The indications this morning were that the "treaty of Portsmouth" would not be signed until tomorrow. The "protocol," or minutes of the "historic session" of Aug. 29, when peace was arranged, was still in issue, and the chances were against its completion and approval in time to sign the treaty at 5 o'clock, as had been provisionally arranged. Both sides regard the official record of the sitting of Aug. 29 as of the greatest importance. The agreement was reached in secret, but subsequently there was a "public rehearsal" in the presence of the secretaries at which the record was made, the Japanese offering their compromises, meeting with refusal, and finally accepting the ultimatum of the czar—namely, indemnity and the division of Sakhalin.

The Japanese, at 10:45 a. m., said that if the treaty is not signed this afternoon the delay will be due to the Russians, as their copies of the treaty and protocol were ready, and Baron Komura had the necessary authority to sign. "We are ready," said Mr. Denison, and we expect to sign the treaty this afternoon, although the hour has not been fixed."

The Japanese say they have no information of the reported revolutionary outbreak in Japan. Cable communication, which is via Formosa, is Portsmouth, Sept. 4.—The seventeenth and concluding article of the treaty provides for the exchange of ratifications. The Russian ratification will be communicated to the Japanese government by the French minister at Tokio and Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador at St. Petersburg, will communicate the Japanese ratification to the Russian government. If the Russians are ready the treaty will be signed this afternoon at 5 o'clock, this date having been suggested by Baron Komura. Otherwise the treaty will be signed tomorrow morning. The plenipotentiaries have invited Governor McLean to witness the signing of the treaty and he has been telegraphed for.

The Japanese hope to get away Tuesday and the Russians Tuesday or Wednesday.

THANKS OF MIKADO Sent to President For Efforts For Peace.

Oyster Bay, Sept. 4.—President Roosevelt yesterday received from the emperor of Japan the following message of thanks and appreciation for the part played by the president in the negotiations which have resulted in a cessation of hostilities in the Far East:

Tokio, Sept. 3, 1905.—The President: I have received with gratification your message of congratulation conveyed through our plenipotentiaries and thank you warmly for it. FROST IN NEBRASKA.
Omaha, Sept. 4.—Several points in western Nebraska report a light frost last night. It is believed the extent of the damage is not great. There was a low temperature over the entire state, but no serious results are anticipated. Very little corn is grown over the district reporting frost, but small vegetation suffered considerably.

PARDON IS GRANTED

To a Murderer Who Was a Boy When Convicted.

Released From Colorado Prison After Eleven Years' Confinement.

Denver, Col., Sept. 4.—Antone Wood, the boy murderer after eleven years in Canon City prison, has been released on a pardon granted by the governor. Mrs. James B. F. Reynolds, who has stood by him for years, prevailed at last and won his pardon. He was 11 years old when he was committed to prison and he is nearly 22 now.

He was a boy and he is a man—a man of brains, too, and of unusual talent, Mrs. Reynolds says.

He who has not seen a growing plant for years points flowers so that they seem nodding in the summer wind. He writes a letter such as not one man in a thousand can write, and he reads books that few men read or care to read. Mrs. Reynolds, the woman who has had him from his boyhood, on her heart day and night for years.

I cannot forget that when she called the day before his release, "I often dream of him, and I wish he could work so hard to learn what he never had any chance to learn outside."

He wrote to me week after week. No matter how busy I was, I never let my letters to Antone, and he always answered them.

"I have cried over his pitiful boyish letters, and I have seen his handwriting makes my head sick at some painful memory."

"And now it's all over, all over; the long, long waiting and hoping against hope."

"Once before they promised to pardon him, and then at the last minute some one interfered, and he had to stay in his narrow cell."

"Now, I shall go and get him."

"Yes, he will stay at my house till he starts East. He is going East to complete his education. I shall pray for Governor McDonald every night as long as I live."

Antone Wood is one of the most noted prisoners in Canon City, and he has attracted wide attention from psychological criminologists and others interested in the ability of a lad who committed murder when a mere child.

When a man child, Wood was a good musician, and artist of exceptional ability, and a clever writer.

He was committed to prison on the night of Jan. 22, 1895, with three other convicts, he escaped from the penitentiary. During the escape Night Captain Thomas C. Rooney, who was in charge of the escape, was killed.

Wood admitted that he had done the shooting, and he was sentenced to life imprisonment. He was 11 years old at the time.

The father and mother of Antone Wood were Polish peasants before they came to this country and occupied a ranch, twelve miles north of Denver. The Woods had five children, Antone being the youngest.

On the morning of Nov. 5, 1894, a hunter called at the ranch for a guide, and Antone was pressed into service. During the morning he permitted the hunter to go ahead once for a few yards, then taking quick aim, shot him with the out-fitted shotgun.

He noticed the man's bright watch and waited it, and this he secured by rolling the body over. He took it home and hid it in the cellar.

The boy was discovered the next morning, and suspicion immediately fastened on the code kid. When questioned at the jail he was very cool, and said simply: "I shot at a rabbit."

He was sentenced to twenty-five years in the penitentiary. He displayed surprising talent in the penitentiary, and was given tuition, under which he developed into a good violinist, especially shining as leader of the chapel orchestra, and in his work in oil and crayons.

There have been numerous attempts to secure his parole or pardon. His application was under consideration by the governor, and the lad had every reason to feel encouraged over the efforts being made to secure his release on parole.

He was aware of this when he went into the plot with Thomas Reynolds, a burglar, C. F. Wagner, a notorious hold-up man from Denver, and "Kid" Wallace, a train robber near Victor, to secure and, if possible, effect a wholesale delivery of the convicts.

The murder of Night Capt. Thomas C. Rooney was particularly cold-blooded. He was overpowered by the four prisoners were passing out of the dining room, and the first shot was fired. He could utter a word. Although the four ringleaders carried their guns, they gave quick enough to prevent any other escape.

Wallace and Wood were captured next day. Reynolds was lynched by an angry mob after his capture near Florence.

The most celebrated psychologist living, Prof. Lombroso of Turin, in 1895 made a study of the boy's character from specimens of his handwriting and from photographs taken at various stages of his young life. He pronounced Wood's case one of morbid criminality.

On account of the precocity of the criminal and the nature of the crime—murder and larceny—he must be put in the class of born criminals, who are usually incorrigible, said the psychologist who has been studying the lad.

Antone the criminal characteristics are to be noted exaggerated vanity, the attempt to conceal his crime and several peculiarities of his handwriting, including the formation of the "y," which are tall and looks as though they were written by a nervous hand. It has been held by was congenitally cursed and that the ordinary criminal would not have risked his life in attempting to escape under the encouraging circumstances surrounding the movement for his release on parole.

NEW BLACKMAIL SCHEME. Woman Has Novel Plan to Secure Damages.

Atlantic City, Sept. 4.—A brand-new form of blackmail has been discovered here within the last week, but owing to a lack of complaints to the police, nothing official has been done toward heading off what may become more than an annoyance. The game is always worked by a woman, and from descriptions given it appears that in three or four cases it has been the same woman.

She wears a light dress, one easily soiled by a little grease. Then she picks out a rolling chair pushed by someone other than an employee of the owners of the vehicles. The chair is generally selected with a view of having an occupant who appears to have money and be desirous of avoiding a fuss. The next move is to allow the chair to run down the woman sufficiently to get some grease on her dress. A scene follows, in which payment is demanded for the ruined garment, and rather than be followed by the angry individual, several persons have settled. Some few have seen the game, refused any money and smiled at the row that ensued. But the possibilities of the scheme have been seen by enough persons to make it a threatening danger.

GIRL SAVED From a Horrible Death in a Quagmire.

New York, Sept. 4.—Miss Maude Stevens of Jamaica was saved from a horrible death by a stranger, who declined to give his name. She was gathering wild grapes, when her foot slipped and she sank up to her neck in soft, oozy mud that threatened to overwhelm her. Her cries were heard by a young man driving in a buggy, who rescued her.

Between Jamaica and Flushing there is a dense growth of ferns and vines above a deep morass. There are grape vines there, and many people visit the place yearly to gather the fruit, which is said to make better preserves than cultivated grapes.

When Miss Stevens was rescued her clothing was steeped in the black mud. Surrounding newspapers on the seat of his buggy, her rescuer took the girl home.

GREAT FUTURE For American Railways Predicted by Authority.

St. Paul, Sept. 4.—Sir Charles Evelyn Smith of London, England, president of the Marconi telegraph system and of street railways in many countries, and an international authority on transportation, who passed through St. Paul yesterday, predicted a great future for American railways as a result of the Russo-Japanese war and the proposed peace settlement.

"Yes, the war between Japan and Russia, and the proposed peace settlement, is bound to have an important effect on the transportation question in America," said he. "Transportation should receive a great stimulus, especially between the United States and Japan. Japan should use more American wheat and flour. A period of great development for transportation companies should follow the development of the countries in the Far East."

"The development of transportation in America is simply marvelous. There is nothing in Great Britain or Europe that can be compared with it. I have heard people across the continent say that railway systems in America are not complete. I do not find this to be the case. The main lines are in excellent condition, and the branch lines are bound to reach the same state of perfection."

Sir Charles Smith came to America to attend the International Conference on Transportation, and to visit other countries to the South, and has spent some time in the West, visiting El Paso, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle.

He was sentenced to twenty-five years in the penitentiary. He displayed surprising talent in the penitentiary, and was given tuition, under which he developed into a good violinist, especially shining as leader of the chapel orchestra, and in his work in oil and crayons.

There have been numerous attempts to secure his parole or pardon. His application was under consideration by the governor, and the lad had every reason to feel encouraged over the efforts being made to secure his release on parole.

He was aware of this when he went into the plot with Thomas Reynolds, a burglar, C. F. Wagner, a notorious hold-up man from Denver, and "Kid" Wallace, a train robber near Victor, to secure and, if possible, effect a wholesale delivery of the convicts.

The murder of Night Capt. Thomas C. Rooney was particularly cold-blooded. He was overpowered by the four prisoners were passing out of the dining room, and the first shot was fired. He could utter a word. Although the four ringleaders carried their guns, they gave quick enough to prevent any other escape.

Wallace and Wood were captured next day. Reynolds was lynched by an angry mob after his capture near Florence.

The most celebrated psychologist living, Prof. Lombroso of Turin, in 1895 made a study of the boy's character from specimens of his handwriting and from photographs taken at various stages of his young life. He pronounced Wood's case one of morbid criminality.

On account of the precocity of the criminal and the nature of the crime—murder and larceny—he must be put in the class of born criminals, who are usually incorrigible, said the psychologist who has been studying the lad.

Antone the criminal characteristics are to be noted exaggerated vanity, the attempt to conceal his crime and several peculiarities of his handwriting, including the formation of the "y," which are tall and looks as though they were written by a nervous hand. It has been held by was congenitally cursed and that the ordinary criminal would not have risked his life in attempting to escape under the encouraging circumstances surrounding the movement for his release on parole.

WILL IT BE BUILT?

Prediction That New Courthouse Will Be Indefinitely Delayed.

Commissioners Might Refuse to Serve on Special Commission.

"Do you want to bet on a sure thing? Gamble any amount of money you care to that the new courthouse for St. Louis county will not be started this year or the next, and you will win in a walk," declared one of Duluth's prominent citizens and taxpayers a few days ago.

This was hardly a mere guess in the light of recent events and the attitude of the members of the board of county commissioners, if there is such a thing as arriving at their attitude.

The records of the last meeting of the county board show that a decision of the judges of the district court, turning down the application of the board for a new courthouse, was the cause of the delay.

After more than a year of almost constant agitation for a new county courthouse, which no taxpayer in the county has yet had the temerity to come forward and say is not needed, the project is practically no further toward fulfillment than when the question was first broached. The courthouse building fund is steadily growing, and the county board has settled on a site for the new building, but so far as any definite conclusion has been reached as to when building operations will actually begin, the prospect of getting a courthouse is said to be even farther off than another eclipse of the sun by the moon, visible at this point.

The county board has expressed itself as willing to go ahead with condemnation proceedings to acquire the site, but it has balked at the legislative act which requires the commissioners to divide the work and honors with a special commission to be appointed by the three judges of the district court.

The board has passed certain suitable resolutions declaring there is a necessity for a new courthouse and a county jail building.

All that is necessary for the county board to set in motion the legislative act which requires the commissioners to divide the work and honors with a special commission to be appointed by the three judges of the district court.

Interested Man Inquires About New Forestry Reserve.

Gen. Andrews' Explanation Does Not Explain—Some Statements.

In another column will be found a communication from Gen. C. C. Andrews, chief forester of the state, concerning the forestry reserve on the northern boundary of this county which he is beginning negotiations to secure.

He denies the Washington dispatches and The Herald's statement to the effect that there are about 200,000 acres in the tract concerned. He says there are only about 70,000 acres; that they have been in the market from ten to twenty years; and that the field notes classify them as third or fourth rate in respect to soil and not suitable for agricultural purposes.

As to his statements concerning this land those who have become interested in the matter cannot pass upon them yet, but will be able to in a few days. In the tract withdrawn for forestry purposes are thirteen townships, most of them fractional as to area. As to the rest of it, one man interested in the development of the county's agricultural features has this to say:

"Gen. Andrews asserts that the soil is rated as third or fourth class and is unfit for agricultural purposes; also that he would never recommend the appropriation of land for forestry purposes that is good for agriculture. Well, as to the rating of the soil, let me remind Gen. Andrews and others that the soil of Pine and Carlton counties is rated as third and fourth grade, and yet it has been found good for agricultural purposes and in addition to this there is a navigable river frontage along most of the land which he has caused to be withdrawn."

"How does the general know so much about the 70,000 acres he so sweepingly condemns? A short time ago he took a trip in a canoe through a part of the tract withdrawn, and possibly saw 5,000 acres thereof. Is it just for him to take incomplete field notes as final evidence for the rest? Is it reasonable to suppose that in this admittedly rocky and sandy tract there are 70,000 acres of land all unfit for cultivation? And because some of it, or considerable of it is rocky or sandy, is it reasonable to suppose that the whole tract should be barred from taking advantage of what good land there is in the tract and making themselves homes? Gen. Andrews says in his letter to The Herald: 'There is considerable land which, on account of being rocky or sandy, is unfit for cultivation, and which should be utilized for forestry.' Well, let him use this kind of land for forestry if he wants to, but why take all of the 70,000 acres out of the market?"

"He says, further, that this land has been in the market for from ten to twenty years. What of it? Parts of St. Louis and other counties in the state have been in the market for a longer time than that. It is only recently that land in the north has been sought at all; and homesteaders are going farther north every day. If in fact there are settlers in and about that place now, because land has been in the market for a number of years in a practically unsettled county carries nothing of condemnation with it."

A VICIOUS ASSAULT

Rose Peppin, Prisoner In City Jail, Runs Amuck.

Claimed to Have Committed Murderous Attack on Cripple.

What is said by the police to have been one of the most vicious and murderous assaults that have come to their notice in a long time, is claimed to have been committed by Rose Peppin, on Edward Clark, a cripple, and a juvenile of Peppin's in the city lockup, last evening.

The police believe that the assault was committed in a fit of temporary insanity. Peppin was in jail for vagrancy, and Clark, a cripple, was in for begging on the streets.

Peppin is claimed to have suddenly grabbed Clark by the throat, and after throwing him to the floor, to have stamped on his head, and beaten him cruelly about the face and breast with his fists and feet.

James Austin, another prisoner, ran to Clark's assistance, and the police believe that if it had not been for his aid, Clark would have been killed by the assailant in his fit of homicidal madness.

The crime of the three men attracted the notice of Officers Rogers and Nelson, and they rushed into the jail corridor and separated the prisoners, locking Peppin up in a cell by herself.

Peppin is a short but muscular man, and has the appearance of a French-Canadian. When arraigned to court this morning on the charge of assault in the second degree, he answered to his name, and did not leave the appearance of a demoralized man.

His hearing was set for Sept. 11 and his bond fixed at $250, but the grand jury will hold its regular session tomorrow evening. The meeting is for minutes, Sunday school superintendents and teachers. This is the first gathering of the kind to follow the summer vacation, and a large attendance is expected.

The program of the evening will open at 7:30 o'clock with a song service, which will be led by Prof. Deeks and the choir of St. Luke's church. This will be followed by a reading of the scripture and prayer. Roy Prytz will render a vocal selection. Rev. Frederick J. Mooney, pastor of the church, will deliver the address of welcome. Next on the program will be a duet by Miss Clara Richardson and Roy Prytz.

Rev. Harry Johnson, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, will deliver an address on "Sunday School Organization." There will be other solos by Roy Prytz and Miss Clara Richardson, and Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First M. E. church, will address the meeting.

The last of the sessions of the cooking school which has been maintained during the summer by the Women's Council were held last week, and Mrs. Hugh McCurdy, who was instructor, returned Saturday to Chicago. The school has been held during July and August, and the members of the Council are most pleased with their effort in this direction. One hundred and twenty young girls have attended the classes, which were held at the Adams school, and a most interesting exhibit of the cookery of the pupils was held a week ago last Saturday. The Council hopes to again maintain the school next summer.

Much interest has been shown in the summer gardens, which were also an enterprise backed by the Council, and which were worked by the young school boys who were unemployed during the summer. Five lots of ground were secured near as many schools, and twenty boys at each school were given small garden plots and care for during the summer. The gardens on the lot at First avenue east and Second street, being the most central, have been watched with interest by a large number of citizens, and many of the plants of ground have been brought to a triumphant conclusion, as delicious "messes" of beans and peas and other small garden stuffs have been prepared. The boys were under the direction of a competent gardener, and although some of them proved faithless, after the enthusiasm of a new scheme were out, the majority were true to their gardens and weeded and cared for them carefully throughout the summer.

The summer meeting of the Council will be held Friday morning at the library, and the reports of both the cooking school committee and the garden committee will be presented at that time.

Y. W. C. A. CLASSES.

Board of Directors Arrange For Fall Work.

The regular meeting of the board of directors of the Young Women's Christian association was held Saturday afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Ella F. Roe. The meeting was an important one, as the work of the association in the educational classes was discussed at length. The gymnasium and educational classes will begin work the first week in October, and during the coming month active preparations will be under way to provide good teachers, and arrangements made for instruction in any line which may be desired by the members.

Classes in sewing, cooking, stenography and bookkeeping, such as in former years, will be formed, as in former years, and as a number of requests have been received for study in German and French, such classes will undoubtedly be formed. In the cooking classes a membership of eight is necessary before a class can be organized.

The physical instruction will be under the direction of Miss Ruth Roberts, who has been in charge of the classes fully last year, and the association is planning for the most prosperous and helpful year of its work.

No Difficulty For Her.
The working woman who emigrates to America need fear neither difficulty nor desperation, says Jane H. Findlater, an English woman, in the National Review. Judged by our standards, her life is a very easy one. The ordinary "general" servant, with only the very superficial accomplishments of her class, can command $1 each week, while well-trained tablemaids get $25, and the price of a well-trained cook seems to be above rubles. The work which they are expected to do for these wages is, in the case of housemaids, much lighter than the work they would have to do in the same situation at home. All the "open fire" system of heating in England entails a great amount of work, both in keeping up the fires and in dusting; there is also, in most English houses, a great deal of labor for the housemaids in filling and emptying baths—labor which is quite done away with by the splendid bathing arrangements in all American homes.

Cooks, it must be frankly admitted, have plenty to do; for our American cousins eat a great deal, and are fond of variety of bill of fare; but few cooks seem to hold such a position of happy dominion in most households that it must almost make up for hard work.

It is strange that in spite of these conditions, domestic service should be so unpopular in the states. Very few American-born women care to enter it, most servants being Irish, English or Swedish, and in the South, of course, negro.

SCHOOL TO OPEN

Board Planning to Accommodate Increased Number of Pupils.

Appropriate Ceremonies Will Mark Opening of Washburn Building.

Next Monday the city's educational machinery will be set in motion once more, and the 12,000 children, and the 250 school teachers in the city, will once more commence their winter work after the long summer vacation.

The schools are a week later in opening this fall than usual, owing to the late date set for closing, and the fact that the school board has changed back from a year of nine and one-half months' duration, to one of nine months.

The enrollment in the schools last year, which was between 11,000 and 12,000 will probably pass the 12,000 mark, and the members of the board and the superintendent, are planning their plans to provide accommodation for the increased number of pupils.

The most overcrowding is in the Washington district, in the central part of the city. The Washington school overfilled into the high school building several years ago, and this year the addition of two new teachers to the high school staff forces two of the grade school rooms out of the high school building. The pupils of these rooms have to be accommodated in some manner, and the school board has decided to provide temporary quarters in the upper story of the Washington building into two grade school rooms. The rooms are not well adapted to the requirements, but they will answer as temporary expedients.

The new J. L. Washburn building is now completed and the contractor has been allowed his final estimate, with the exception of $100, which is withheld to insure the completion of some minor changes in the interior finishing. The school will be in position this week, and the beautiful new structure will be ready for use next Monday.

The residents of Hunter's Park are planning to open the new building with some ceremonies befitting the occasion, permission having been granted by the board at the last meeting.

Some changes have also been made in the West Duluth schools, and the first year high school work is now taught in the Irving school building, allowing all the pupils who graduated from the three West Duluth schools last year to continue their education without the necessity of coming up town every day.

The work taught in the Irving school covers practically the same ground as is covered in the Central high school, and if the experiment proves a success this year, the second year work may be introduced next year.

All of the school buildings have been thoroughly overhauled and repaired during the summer months by Chief Engineer Larson and the assistant engineers, and nearly $4,000 has been expended on the thirty-two buildings, repainting, varnishing and repairing the buildings and equipment.

LABOR DAY.

In a country where labor signifies so much; where, indeed, everybody who is worth while is a laborer, either with hands or head; it is peculiarly fitting that there should be a day set apart every year as labor's own particular holiday. It is fitting, too, that all of us, laborers with hands and laborers with head, should pause on that day and participate in its celebration. It is significant that we still hold our respect and admiration for honest labor, sentiments that we cannot lose with safety to our republic and its institutions.

Marvelous indeed is the story of labor and its advance, every step of which was wrested by its own efforts. It has not yet reached its goal, but it has made long steps toward it, and every step has been maintained; there has been no backsliding in the history of labor. In the beginning labor was a vast, disorganized, heterogeneous mass of humanity. Like the earth, it was "without form and void." And darkness, indeed, was upon the face of the field of labor, the victim as it was of the whims of employers, with nothing to give back for oppression and injustice but individual resentment.

Slowly it crept into the minds of this great body of men that their interests were common; that they could accomplish nothing as they were, but that by organization, and by uniting their incoherent masses into a coherent whole and presenting a solid front, they would be able to face capital, representing the employing classes, or something like equal terms. This was the beginning of organization. Some of the older organizations are almost prehistoric, but these had little in common with the modern idea of organization. Today, though the idea is far from accomplishment, the object is to cement all labor into one common mass whose united efforts shall be put forth for the betterment of its units. "United we stand, divided we fall" is as true of labor as of all the states.

Though the ultimate object of complete organization is still far away, many trades and entire classes of trades are fully organized, and considering the handicaps that have existed from the beginning, the reforms accomplished have been marvelous indeed. Labor has more than kept abreast of the progress of the times. Better hours, better working conditions, better wages have resulted. Labor has had its mishaps; it has made its mistakes because it is made up of humanity and human nature is prone to err; it has had its defeats as well as its victories.

But the most encouraging sign of all is that labor has shown a capacity to learn by these mishaps, errors and defeats. They have become valuable because they helped to chart the true course.

The cause of labor should be the cause of humanity. If humanity ever forgets this, it will soon see its mistake. If labor ever forgets it, which is not likely, it will be quick to remember, and to return to the right path.

On this, labor's own holiday, let all humanity remember that labor is the foundation of civilization, and that the permanence of the structure depends upon the stability of the foundation. If, fed, ill-fed, ill-considered labor will make a poor foundation. Peaceful, prosperous, contented labor can be obtained by universal fair treatment, and only in such conditions is there perfect social safety.

THE FOREST RESERVES.

On another page The Herald publishes a communication from Gen. C. C. Andrews, chief fire warden of Minnesota, in reference to statements made by this paper in reference to the reported withdrawal of 20,000 acres of land on the northern boundary of St. Louis county by the general land office. It was stated in previous references to the matter that Gen. Andrews was suspected of having procured this withdrawal.

In his letter Gen. Andrews substantially admits this charge, but attempts to justify his action, and states further that the amount of land withdrawn was only 70,000 acres, not 20,000. As to this point the information that there were 20,000 acres came from Washington by wire, and was confirmed by an estimate made by the local land office. There is an apparent difference of 130,000 acres between the two authorities, which is material only in the way of aggravating or diminishing the offense.

As to Gen. Andrews' statement that these lands are unfitted for agriculture, there is also a difference of opinion. Duluth people who know the territory affected say that there are many acres well suited to agriculture, that part of the lands is available for water-power purposes, and that some of it is good for neither of these purposes would make good grazing land. Gen. Andrews states that the lands have been on the market ten to twenty years, but this is no argument. They are located beyond the reach of settlement at present, but if they are suitable for settlement the time will come when they will be needed.

Minnesota has no quarrel with the forestry cause, and so long as land which is not suitable for agriculture is taken no harm can come from reforestation experiments. But in the case of the Cass Lake forest reserve, and in part of the lands affected by this order, lands that are available for agriculture are being tied up, to the detriment of the state. Lands so well suited for agriculture are not especially valuable for forestry purposes, as a rule, so the cause of forestry is but little advanced by this ruthless blow at the progress of agriculture and settlement.

Public sentiment is never consulted on this subject. Just at a time when Northern Minnesota is trying to attract settlers and fill her vacant areas with home-builders along comes the news that the state fire warden has succeeded in having the government withdraw from settlement an immense area of land. The fire warden says the land is not fit for agriculture; others say much of it is fit for farming. But the land is tied up, and the fire warden states that subsequently, at some day or date dependent upon the good will of congress and the complacency of Northern Minnesota, he expects to have the federal government turn this land over to the state for forestry purposes.

What is the state doing with the land it now has for forestry purposes? What is the state doing with the swamp lands turned over to it years ago on the state's agreement to drain them and make them fit for settlement?

INTERNATIONAL ROWDIES.

Japan and Russia haggle, now that peace is agreed upon, over which got the worst of it. But the terms, except as a matter of curiosity, matter little to the rest of the world so its own interests are not infringed upon. It is peace that the world wanted, peace at any price. It wanted an end to blood-spilling; it wanted an end to the horrible human sacrifices to the war god; it wanted a return to the pursuits of peace.

Germany claims interests in Morocco, say. France claims interests in Morocco, too. They fuss about it, argue, get angry, fight. A continent is drenched with blood, a host of wives are made widows and children are made orphans. In the end might, not justice, prevails.

John Jones claims Robert Smith owes him a laundry bill. Smith claims he paid it. They argue, get angry, fight. The results are not so serious as in the national fight, because the police come along and land Smith and Jones both in jail, and the next day they answer to the court for disturbing the peace.

What is the difference? Simply that there is no policeman to arrest France and Germany for fighting, no court before which to hale them for breaking the world's peace. Yet they are just as guilty as Smith and Jones, and their resort to war is just as silly and as barbarous and as behind the times as is the resort to blows of Smith and Jones.

There are very few people that will question the analogy, yet war still continues. The public sentiment against it is of comparatively recent birth, however, and a reform so great as the abolition of war takes time. Besides, there is the lack of that international policeman and international police court, which should award warring nations as much as warring individuals. Possibly if there were no policemen, men would still fight in spite of public sentiment against it. In fact they do fight, but fisticuffs are no longer a common or popular method of settling disputes, having descended to be the sole possession of toughs and rowdies. The time will come when war will be thought of only by the toughs and rowdies among nations.

THE RAILWAY Y. M. C. A.

A notable gathering will be the biennial conference of the Railway Young Men's Christian association, which will take place at Detroit Sept. 28 to Oct. 1, inclusive.

Like its parent body, the general Young Men's Christian association, the Railway Y. M. C. A. is a very useful institution, and one that accomplishes great good. Its objects are so worthy and its accomplishments so great that the railways are always willing and even anxious to help it along. Two Harbors and Proctor Knott both have active branches of the association, and indeed there is hardly an important railway town in the country that has not a live branch with its own home.

The conference of 1903 was held in Topeka, Kan., and it was attended by more than 1,500 railway employees. It was addressed by President Roosevelt as well as by many prominent railway men.

The interest of railway officials in the movement is commendable, and quite natural, too. That which makes for the uplifting of the employees makes also for the uplifting of the railway service. Sober and Christian employees are what every railway wants, and it is the work of the Railway Y. M. C. A. to produce such employees. Therefore the movement has been fostered by the railway officials of the country and those of other nations have also taken an active interest in the movement.

An illustration of how the association brings the rank and file of the railway service in touch with the higher officials is furnished in a circular sent out by the international committee of the organization in issuing the call for the conference. At the annual banquet of the association, held last April, more than 150 men were present, representing practically every department of the railway service. At the guest table were seated President W. H. Truesdale, first Vice President Loomis, Second Vice President Caldwell, Chief Engineer Bush, General Supt. Clarke and Division Supt. Ketcham. President Truesdale, in his remarks, spoke of the association in terms of warmest praise as a platform on which employer and employee could meet on terms of cordial fellowship.

The Young Men's Christian association is a great and valuable institution, and in no way does it accomplish more good than through its railway branch.

THE FIELD SURVEY.

The discontended in Russia and Japan should be reminded that there never was a bad peace.

A meddler is a person who fails in his attempt. The meddler who succeeds is no meddler, but a hero.

Linevitch can always say that he could have wiped the earth up with Oyma. He is the only unwiped Russian commander of the war.

The eagle made a first rate dove of peace.

Roosevelt is now "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen," as the first occupant of his position was before him.

There are 73,156 males to 44,347 females in St. Louis county, nearly two to one. This is unfair. Let's advertise.

One way of making the law against suicide effective would be to prohibit circular track motor car racing.

Maybe when the Japanese get a little more civilized they will not be polite enough to let the vanquished suggest the peace terms to them.

Hotel Gossip.

"Is this the kind of weather Duluth always dishes up for the entertainment of the guests?" asked S. E. Highfield, Baltimore, Md., at the Spaulding Saturday. "This is my third day in the city, and I must say the weather has not been of the variety friends have told me to expect in Duluth. I suppose all towns must have their bad days, and their bad weeks, however."

"I haven't had much of an opportunity as yet to get around and see the sights. I am much interested in the ice docks and the grain elevators. Baltimore used to be a good deal more of a grain center than it is now. For the first time in sixteen months, a vessel entirely loaded with grain this month left Baltimore for a foreign port. The time was when such a return of the former local grain shipment of the present rate differentials the flow of grain to Europe has been through other channels than the Chesapeake. An unusually good prospect for the season is now before us. The rise of an early adjustment of the railroad rates has led to a feeling here that the coming season will see, in a small way, a return of the former local grain trade. Each year, however, this same crop of grain is followed by disappointment."

"I needed not the services of wreck damage on the lakes to tell Duluth people that it was an extraordinary storm in which the city and its vicinity were deluged by four days of rain. The wind which had persisted so aggressively for four days had vanished with the rain, and in its place came a cold, dry wind, a vigorously shining sun and a blue sky. The weather was made good."

The Weather.

It was different this morning. The rain and the clouds and the northeast wind which had persisted so aggressively for four days had vanished with the rain, and in its place came a cold, dry wind, a vigorously shining sun and a blue sky. The weather was made good.

SPORT OF COWBOYS

Prohibited in Texas and Also Doomed in Territories.

No More Roping Contests Are to Be Permitted.

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 5.—The form of sport known as "roping contests" is no longer fashionable in the state of Texas. In fact, this relic of wild western days has been relegated to the things that were by legislative enactment, and hereafter the tenderfoot and newcomer to this state can only be regaled with the stories of how cattle were roped, thrown and tied in a few seconds back in the good old days when such exhibitions were permitted as adjuncts of county fairs and wild west carnivals.

The rope contest is the father of the so-called wild west shows that are now touring many sections of the country. They were evolved in Texas many years ago as tests of skill between aspiring cowboys, each of whom desired to hold the world's record for the fastest time that could be made in roping, throwing and tying a wild steer.

and some of the records made are but little short of marvelous.

Big purses have been hung up for the man who could do this work in the quickest time, and all over the western portion of this state the roping contest has been a great annual event, often sufficient to draw thousands of admiring spectators.

The best time made in these contests has been a fraction of a second. It is fairly made the blood of the cowboy to watch the wild steer come out of the inclosure in which he has been confined and start on a dead run across the open space provided for the roping. As the wild steer makes his play, the cowboy, seated on his wily little cow pony, is after him in a perfect cloud of dust.

Whirling the rope over and over above his head the cowboy projects himself after the flying steer with almost the force of a cannon, and when he sends the flying rope over the horns or feet of the steer the trained cow pony immediately performs the part that has been assigned him.

He comes to a dead halt so quickly and braces himself at a hard angle so readily that the flying steer is hurled to the ground with great force.

Before the dazed animal can recover its wits, the cowboy is upon him and has his legs tied in a jiffy. He raises his hand as a signal to the judges of the contest, time is then made.

The popular interest taken in this sport was such as to encourage a new form of roping contests in a new territory. The cowboy is upon him and has his legs tied in a jiffy. He raises his hand as a signal to the judges of the contest, time is then made.

placed in the hands of Attorneys Lambert and Baker, and promises to be an unusual one.

"I will show that Osburn was incapacitated while discharging his duties, and in that way was injured," said Mr. Lambert, who proposes to ask for damages for the time Osburn lost from his post of duty, and the salary he was compelled to lose to reimburse him for the money he had to expend to meet his hospital, medical and drug bills, and for the damage to his person and the amount of suffering and agony he went through and still is subject to. I shall have no difficulty in proving that my client's suit for $10,000 is just."

The suit will be a test case in regard to the laws governing and protecting crossing policemen appointed under an act of congress. In these men are vested the power of regular policemen, which subjects them to the rules and regulations of the Metropolitan police.

It is provided that "if any emergency call may be made upon them for police service within a reasonable distance from their posts they shall respond to the same." A great deal in connection with Osburn's suit will be based upon this section, as it was while doing police duty in attempting to catch a robber who had escaped from a jail that Osburn was injured.

Although these men are not supposed to be policemen, said Mr. Lambert, "they are really doing the police work, and are required to act in the place of a policeman, and, if such duty is placed upon them, to place their lives in jeopardy."

On Nov. 13, 1902, a negro stole $25 from the cash register in a luncheon room on New York avenue, near Fifteenth street. Osburn, who was standing at his crossing, heard the cries of "Stop thief!" and started in pursuit. He was about to arrest the fugitive, when the latter turned and fired three shots at Osburn's left leg, above the knee.

Osburn was taken to the Emergency hospital. The bullet had pierced the leg, shattering a portion of the knee bone and inflicting a serious wound. He was slow to heal and the injured man was not able to be on duty again before May 3, 1904. According to the regulations respecting crossing policemen, he was not allowed any pay during his absence.

Osburn is still doing duty at his old post, but he is crippled. Since he was shot he has not been in condition to work steadily and has lost considerable time.

Commissioner Kilby Says He Will Investigate Conditions.

Commander of Western Division of Salvation Army Talks.

"If there is need in Duluth of a workingmen's hotel and similar institutions, which the Salvation Army conducts all over the country, you may be sure that they will be built," said Commissioner George R. Kilby of Chicago, at the Spaulding, this morning. He is in charge of all the army's work west of the Mississippi river and in Illinois and is inspecting the branches at the head of the Lakes for the first time. "I have not had the opportunity yet," said the commissioner, "of becoming familiar with the local conditions but I should think that a workingmen's hotel might be established here without interfering with any of the excellent organizations which are devising into the work at present."

"There is always room for much work of this sort. It would be hard to over-

ARRESTS SON AS A RIOTER

Marshal Sustains Broken Rib In Suppressing Joint Smashers.

Oakland City, Ind., Sept. 5.—As a saloon smasher Carrie Nation has been distanced several blocks by four young men here.

This dry town had no saloons for over two years. Recently several joints were opened for the sale of the mild beer, which, it is claimed, contain less than 2 per cent of alcohol. The trouble was in a joint conducted by Tom Brown, who recently served in the reformatory for stealing clover seed.

When payment was demanded the men commenced "smashing things with beer bottles and other convenient implements. Brown and his assistant, Albert Young, were soon driven from the joint. During the riot coat had worn off but the hands cleaned walk whiter if possible than where the fresh paint has been put on.

Throughout the interior of the building fresh paint has been unsparsely used, with the result that the walls have a fresh look. There has also been a general overhauling in other directions, and considerable money has been spent out of the fund appropriated by congress for the care and maintenance of the building.

The appropriation for the present fiscal year amounts to $35,000, and in the last fiscal year the appropriation was $30,000. After the enlargement of the building it was necessary to increase the allowance for the president's home, the appropriations in McKinley's time having been about $20,000 each year.

The appropriation is exclusively for the White House and its care and help. From this appropriation all repairs are made, painting, cone, plumbing attended to, refurnishing paid for, together with the wages of the help. So far as known the president is not compelled to pay out of his pocket any wages for help.

Two cooks, laundry attendants, steward and his assistants and other servants are paid from the appropriation made by congress. The ushers are paid from a separate appropriation, which cares for the foremen, clerks and employees in the executive office.

The policeman on the grounds and inside the White House and executive offices are paid on the police rolls of the city, being merely detailed to their present work. The squad of laborers in the grounds engaged in cutting grass, trimming trees and shrubs, looking after the fountains, keeping the grounds clean, is paid from the appropriation made for the superintendent of public buildings.

These are eight or ten of these men and they are kept busy. Clerks in the office buildings and grounds say that the only way an estimate could be made of how much the White House has cost, including the furnishings and wages of the servants employed there, would be to follow the appropriations since the erection of the building.

They have no total in this direction. A historian who has followed the story of the building since 1792, when the plans of the building were selected, estimated the total cost at $2,000,000, including the $100,000 Virginia and the $72,000 Maryland cost. A trip from New York by automobile, said H. Hoban superintendent of the erection of the first building, and also its restoration after it was burned by the British in 1814. Brown, after leaving the place, armed himself with a revolver and attempted to subdue the disturbance. He was also battered about the head by a citizen who tried to end the trouble. Two or three bystanders were injured by flying glass and missiles. One coal miner was seriously hurt.

Thomas Wallace is a son of Town Marshal Lewis Wallace but the father did not let this prevent him from doing his duty. He deputized several citizens and arrested his son and the Cook gang, sustaining a broken rib in the operation, the blow being delivered by his son.

The rioters were arraigned and bound over to the circuit court. They went to jail in default of bail. The sheriff came over from Princeton to assist in removing order and closed several places, including a drug store run by Warwick Mason, who was arrested earlier in the day on fourteen grand jury indictments for illegal liquor selling.

SPOTLESS HOUSE

House Cleaning and Repairing at White House Completed.

No Part of the Cost Falls Upon the President.

Washington, Sept. 5.—The White House has been undergoing house-cleaning and repairing and is ready for the president and his family. When they return they will find the exterior of the building looking spotless, and the interior as clean as the hands of man can make it.

A large force of men has been at work a number of weeks all over the building. The outer walls were cleaned by hand this year, and fresh paint put on where the last coat had worn off but the hands cleaned walk whiter if possible than where the fresh paint has been put on.

Throughout the interior of the building fresh paint has been unsparsely used, with the result that the walls have a fresh look. those furnished by Maryland and Virginia, were derived from the sale of lots in Washington.

The first presidential family to enter the building was that of President and Mrs. John Adams. This was in November, 1800. In April of that year congress had made the first appropriation for furnishing the building. This sum was $15,000, and at the time there was much complaint as to the large sum of money to be thus spent.

Mrs. Adams, the first wife of a president to go into the building, found it splendidly furnished with the money appropriated. The appropriation, however, lasted for a long time, as there is no record that another was made for three or four years. No appropriation for repairs was made by congress until seven years later, in March, 1807, when $15,000 was put at the disposal of those in charge of the building.

There is no record that the servants were furnished to presidents at the inception, and it is generally understood that it was not until comparatively recent years that congress felt called upon to supplement the salary of a president in this manner. In the early years, and for many years afterward, presidents brought their own servants to Washington or employed them here, paying for them out of their own pockets. The number of servants needed, however, was comparatively small, the increase coming with the increase of the social duties imposed upon presidents.

Following the burning of the White House in 1814 congress was slow in making suitable appropriations for immediate restoration. The present appropriation of $35,000, but the cost room was not finished subsequent to 1825 at a cost of $10,000. The appropriation for the present year amounts to $35,000, and in the last fiscal year the appropriation was $30,000. CRUISE IS HELD Annual Event Enjoyed By Sixty Yacht Club Members.

Cruise to Allouez Bay Is Followed By a Picnic Dinner.

The annual cruise and picnic of the Duluth Yacht club was held yesterday. The members of the club and their friends, in about twenty sail boats and launches, started from the club house on Park point at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, leaving the picnic grounds at Allouez bay on the return trip at 4:30 o'clock.

The course of the boats was direct to the docks in Allouez bay, and then across to the club lodge. There was a contest on between the yachts as to which should arrive first, the crews of the winning boats to be awarded club emblems. The first to arrive was the Seagull, owned by W. L. Estrango. George Holland's Seagull, one of the 25-footers, came in second. Pins were awarded to the crews of each boat. Good time was made by the winner. It took the Seagull just one hour and fifteen minutes to go the eight and one-half miles.

A picnic dinner was served at the lodge house. Some of the sixty persons present had their own luncheons with them, while others depended upon the club stewardess to furnish them with something to eat.

The stewardess accompanied the fleet. On arriving at the club house on the return trip, at 4:30 o'clock in the evening, supper was served the party, which broke up soon afterwards. The event was a fine success. Other cruises will be held from time to time.

GIRL OF FOURTEEN Saves the Lives of Two Little Children.

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 5.—Though stunned by lightning, 14-year-old Minnie Kather, daughter of Levi Kather, a farmer residing near La Crosse, Minn., saved the lives of two little children in a burning barn and also rescued four horses.

The barn on the Kather farm was struck by lightning, and the children were at play in the building when the bolt struck it. Ten stacks of grain were burned. The total loss is about $2,000.

GROCER'S CLERK WANTED. Said to Have Juggled His Employer's Accounts.

Evelth, Minn., Sept. 5.—Isadore Dorf, a grocery clerk, who left Evelth Saturday afternoon on the Duluth & Iron Range road, is wanted by his former employers, Johnson & Noel, since Mr. Dorf's departure the grocery firm has discovered that grocery bills which they have been posting in the ledger were marked paid by Mr. Dorf. One customer alone, Frank Miller, has paid Dorf over $100 during the past three months, while the money has never reached the proprietors. It is not known how extensive his dealings were, but it will be no surprise if more accounts turn up as Dorf has been going a hot pace for some time. In the case of Mr. Miller, a large running account was kept, while it was often his custom to pay cash. This incident in Mr. Dorf's career is linked with another that occurred about a year ago. At that time peculiar from the cash register led Johnson & Noel to set Dorf to watch it one Sunday afternoon. In spite of his vigilance $24 was missing when the proprietors opened up next morning, and, not suspicious, they accepted Dorf's story that he had fallen asleep.

GREAT CROWD AT STATE FAIR

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—Minnesota State fair broke all records for opening days yesterday, when more than 65,000 people passed through the gates. This is by far the largest attendance on the opening day of the history of the fair.

The people of Minnesota should be congratulated on the success of the first day of the fair, said Secretary Randall. "With ordinary weather from now on the fair will prove the biggest in the history of the state. In spite of the large crowds it has been a very successful day. Everything went off smoothly."

The only accident of any importance was the tramping under foot of Thomas Caulfield, son of T. H. Caulfield of St. Paul. Young Caulfield was knocked down by a team on the railroad track, and stamped on near his heart. He was taken to the emergency hospital, where it was stated that unless serious internal complications develop he will recover. Every hotel and lodging house in St. Paul is crowded, and many were obliged to sleep out of doors last night. It is estimated that 30,000 people came to the city by train yesterday and Sunday. Every state in the Northwest is represented.

The feature of the day was the attempt of Dan Patch, 1:56, to beat his own record. With a running horse as pacemaker he made the circuit in 1:59 1/4, a very creditable showing in view of the track conditions. The time by quarters was: First quarter, 39; half, 1:00 1/4; three-quarters, 1:24 1/4; mile, 1:59 1/4. Results of other races: 2:30 class pacing, purse, $2,500; Ed Patch won second, third and fourth heats and race in 2:12, 2:12 1/4 and 2:13; Ed C won first heat in 2:12 1/4. Leslie Waterman, Norvalis, Custer, Uncle Jim, Dr. C. the medium, also started. Pat Ford won in straight heats, Times, 2:12 1/4, 2:12 1/4, Hall Fry, Etta L. Bonner and Olive also started.

HAVRE, MONT., HAS A BAD CONFLAGRATION.

Havre, Mont., Sept. 5.—A fire which began last night and for a time threatened the destruction of the business section of this city is believed to be the work of an incendiary, who evidently meant to destroy Judd's restaurant, in which the fire originated, or the St. Paul hotel adjoining. Both buildings were burned together with a saloon, a barber shop, the general store of Tung Lung We company and several other business buildings. The loss is believed to reach $150,000.

When Tommy Robinson, the four-by-four catcher of the old West Duluth team, went out to the ball grounds yesterday, he carried with him the fate desired him to be the stellar attraction of the final games of the Northern league season, but Tommy will wake up this morning to find himself famous.

The postponed benefit and Labor day games drew about 2,200 people out to Athletic park yesterday afternoon, and about 300 of them stayed for the second game giving the management about 3,000 paid admissions.

Ronsch, the Superior catcher, made things interesting in the first game by appearing on the field about a minute after the game had begun. He was running under, with his feet firmly planted to maintain his position on the base. He was the first ball, and by choosing the middle of the three he saw coming toward him, he managed to stop two or three of Hanson's shots. But then his troubles commenced. He moved with the ball instead of three, and it was a toss-up whether to choose the right one or the left one. When he made a mistake in his guess the ball went to the grand stand, and when he guessed right he was a runner trying to steal a base, and when he guessed right he was a runner trying to steal a base, and when he guessed right he was a runner trying to steal a base.

By the time the second inning was over seven runs had been scored by the Champs, and the little twenty-three-year-old catcher was beginning to feel the pull on the fans, who howled to have Mr. Ronsch consigned to a Turkish bath or some other quiet spot, where the nerves can get settled.

Here was a quiet spot. Little Tommy proved himself Tommy-on-the-spot. He leaped into the breach, or rather into the other players' line, and from his place as a cushion seller at the grand stand, and from his place as a cushion seller at the grand stand, and from his place as a cushion seller at the grand stand.

Meanwhile the protesting Ronsch had been led off the field and Sorenson had to don his uniform to pitch the second game, the puzzle for the first day of the fair, said Secretary Randall. "With ordinary weather from now on the fair will prove the biggest in the history of the state. In spite of the large crowds it has been a very successful day. Everything went off smoothly."

PITTSBURGH WINS TWO.
Pittsburgh, Sept. 5.—Pittsburgh won the second game yesterday by outplaying Chicago at every point. Attendance, 12,500. Scores:
First game: Pittsburgh, 10; Chicago, 4.
Second game: Pittsburgh, 10; Chicago, 4.

FARGO WINS TWO.
Fargo, N. D., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 1905 baseball season in the Northern league passed to its early grave yesterday afternoon and Fargo celebrated the final obsequies by winning both the games in the double-header with Grand Forks.

The first game was all Finnigan till the ninth, when he let up and a questionable decision by Umpire Quigg saved the visitors from an out. Donovan's only chance was a sensational stop of a hot grounder, retiring the runner at first, and Mehl made a catch on the circus orbit. In the second game, Finnigan pitched his men till only two were playing in regular positions. The visitors won the game by a score of 10 to 3.

CONVICTS ATERATS

And One Committed Suicide to Avoid Cruel Treatment.
Released Marquette Prison Convict Makes Many Serious Charges.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 5.—Alleging among other things that he had been dogged of prisoners in Marquette prison had led to several attempts at suicide, some of them successful; that prisoners have been confined and fed on bread and water longer than the law allows, until in some cases they have actually caught rats that ran about in cells and eaten them; that he actually had been dogged by a convict named Eugene Hampton, who just completed a sentence for burglary in that institution, is on his way to see Governor Warren to make a statement before him and to present affidavits embodying the statements which he has sworn to.

Hampton charges that Emil Waltz, sent from Detroit for murder, took his own life to escape a dogging, having been subjected previously to unbearable severity. He charges that A. E. Peverett, known as "Whitey Black" and sent from Kalamazoo for participation in the Richmond bank robbery, to escape dogging attempted in presence of the prison guards, to take his life by severing his hand with a knife, and that he actually inflicted such wounds that the surgeons had to amputate the hand.

Hampton exhibited what he said was a duplicate of the instrument with which the dogging was done. It was a piece of harness leather, perhaps an eighth of an inch thick, oblong shaped, about ten inches long by eight inches wide, perforated with small holes and attached to a strong handle. Hampton says this instrument was administered by a man weighing 200 pounds. He says prisoners would be extended over a barrel and at times beaten until the blood ran down their legs. He says he himself was given seventy-five blows with this paddle on one occasion.

Hampton alleges that prisoners have no chance to make known their wrongs to the Marquette prison board of control. In regard to the case of Peverett, Hampton says in his affidavit.

"When they locked me up in the punishment cell officers went around to Peverett's cell. I heard them unlock the door and I heard Peverett push the table up in front of his door to stop the officers from pulling him out of his cell. Then Peverett took a knife and attempted to cut off his hand. Officer Sayles struck Peverett over the head with a loaded cane. After Peverett had cut his own hand so that it hung useless by his side they took him out of the cell, brought him around and sat him on the bench in the hall almost in front of the cell which I was locked in.

"I saw Peverett's hand swinging like the broken limb of a tree, and blood pouring out all over the floor. The officers seemed to be so excited and rattled they did not seem to know what to do.

"Two officers held Peverett on the bench for a number of minutes, while the blood was flowing from the gashes in his wrist, and was also flowing from a wound on his forehead down his face, and the blood of his shirt was covered with blood. One officer held him while another went after the doctor. Then they brought him to the hospital, where Dr. Hornbrogue dressed his hand. They brought him back an hour or two later and put him in the punishment cell. Peverett told me that Dr. Hornbrogue would be down next morning to amputate his hand. They took him out to the hospital on the 15th of May and the doctor amputated his hand.

"I was put in punishment cell on April 13, 1905. After the officers went away, Peverett told me he had been in there eating bread and water, and he said about fifteen or eighteen days. I was in there nearly a week with him. On the morning of April 21 he killed a rat, took its intestines out and skinned it with a pocket knife which he had smuggled in with him. On the morning of April 21 Charles Devonshire, hallmaster, unlocked his door and handed in his bread and cup of water. Peverett stood up in front of his cell door with the dressed rat.

"I saw Peverett take the bread, Peverett proceeded to make a meal of bread and rat, taking a bite of each alternately. This is what Hampton says about the Emil Waltz case. On July 13, 1905, Joseph Wrinkle, a prisoner of unusual mind, was dogged. Convict Emil Waltz, also of unusual mind, was dogged on Jan. 7, 1905, and twice between the 7th and 15th of May, 1905, heard Joseph Wrinkle begging for his life. After Convict Wrinkle had been dogged the officers went to Emil Waltz's cell, and the warden ordered his deputy and Officer Marshall to take Waltz to the bathroom for punishment. When the officers arrived that they were going to dog him, Waltz said he would commit suicide rather than submit to it.

"They unlocked Waltz's door with the intention of taking him out, and Waltz told them he would rather kill himself than go to the bathroom for another dogging. When the officers attempted to take Waltz from the cell he stabbed himself over the heart and fell upon the floor insensible. They then carried Waltz to the hospital, where he died, July 22.

"Hampton swears he himself attempted to commit suicide on May 16, Hampton, in his affidavit, gives a list with dates of prisoners who have been dogged.

"Hampton says in his affidavit that he is representing 250 inmates of Marquette. He has a list of thirty witnesses who, he says, will swear to the facts, and he declares that men who were formerly connected with the prison management are ready to swear to mismanagement and brutalities, which he alleges have been in vogue under the administration of Warden James Russell. He has notes, giving the times of numerous of these occurrences, which he took down in cipher and then transferred, smuggling them out. When he left, by cutting a slit in one of the new shoes given him.

Hampton is well dressed for a man just out of prison, and says that money has been given him by men who will help him make the fight. He was sent from Saginaw in September, 1904, on a charge of burglary for fifteen years. After spending nine months in Jackson he was transferred to Marquette in June, 1905.

"I have spent three years in hell," said Hampton, in reference to his incarceration under the management of Warden Russell. "and I want the governor and people of the state of Michigan to know about it."

Hampton made four years' good time and was released Aug. 13. The affidavit was sworn to Aug. 28.

TOOTHLESS AND HELPLESS, But En Route For Her Seventh Marriage.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 5.—Without a tooth in her mouth and scarcely a hair on her head, Susan Johnson, a negress, who says she is 120 years old, is resting in the matron's department at police headquarters before resuming her trip to San Francisco, where she says she is to be married for the seventh time.

"Our only salvation lies in the Big Belt, the great highway of the Baltic. No foreign ships can navigate the same without Danish pilots—it's too dangerous. Now the government proposes to forbid Danes to take service on foreign vessels for plotting purposes. At the same time Denmark proposes to put out the lights and remove signals to the coast. I saw fresh evidence of European sea powers get into trouble with each other."

DANISH NEUTRALITY Could Not Be Upheld Twenty-Four Hours.

Copenhagen, Sept. 5.—A person in the confidence of the leading ministers of Denmark told your correspondent what follows:

"The talk about Danish neutrality is all very well, but King Christian and the leading parliamentarians are quite aware of the fact that neutrality could not be upheld twenty-four hours if it came to a war between Germany and Great Britain, or Great Britain and Russia, or if all these three powers got mixed up.

"Of course, Kaiser William's foolish plan of making the Baltic a closed basin, with Copenhagen being the key, is not to be considered. We remember what England did to us in 1907, when one-half of Copenhagen was sent tumbling down before British guns. Besides the Kaiser's plan would benefit Germany and no one else, and Denmark, small as she is, refuses to take the chestnuts out of the fire for her big sister.

"Our only salvation lies in the Big Belt, the great highway of the Baltic. No foreign ships can navigate the same without Danish pilots—it's too dangerous. Now the government proposes to forbid Danes to take service on foreign vessels for plotting purposes. At the same time Denmark proposes to put out the lights and remove signals to the coast. PARIS MILLIONAIRE Objects to Being Bled By Restaurant Keeper.

Paris, Sept. 5.—Casimire Perier, the banker, who is said to be worth $50,000,000 francs, and who for a year acted as president of the French republic, had a rare occasion to protest against an exorbitant restaurant bill without success, though. He dined the other day, with his wife and daughter, at a fashionable restaurant in the Bois de Boulogne. At the same time Denmark proposes to put out the lights and remove signals to the coast. I saw fresh evidence of European sea powers get into trouble with each other."

"What would it do for me but by degrees?" If your business has been crippled by poor advertising or by none at all, do not expect it to recover in a day.

THE TERRA NOVA. Is Now on the Way to Gothenburg.

Gothenburg, Sept. 5.—Director Ernst Andre is expecting the Terra Nova, commanded by Mr. Champ, the rescuer of Ziegler's North Pole expedition, to reach Gothenburg shortly. He says, according to telegrams he received from Capt. Champ, all are well on board, both the Americans and the Norwegian crew.

"Some uneasiness has been caused by Capt. Champ's neglect to state which member of the American's Norwegian crew succumbed to the horrors of the Arctic winter. The omission necessarily plunged the relatives of all the men into sorrowful expectation, all fearing the worst.

"The Norwegian government may lay arrest on your excellency's carriage and horses," replied mine host, still smiling and shrugging his shoulders.

Casimire Perier retorted: "Such measure would oblige me to pursue this distasteful controversy, and I would rather pay than do that. Here's your money; may it burn your pocket. As for myself and family, we will never set foot in this place again."

The restaurant keeper pocketed some 600 francs, and the former president walked out without giving a cent to the waiter. "Niggard!" hissed mine host after his guest. "I was president of all France and is unwilling to pay for a good breakfast. I prefer the president of an American railway, such as Mr. Morgan. He would pay more for a good potato salad than our former president for a fifteen-course dinner."

The Norwegian government is preparing a bill regulating North Pole expeditions as well as Norwegian seamen are among the crew. In all such cases the vessels are subject to government inspection, and only such will be allowed to proceed that came up to a certain standard, guaranteeing the life and health of the crew. It is hoped that the Swedish government will unite with the Christiania cabinet in enforcing the above.

CURSE ON A HOUSE

Series of Mysterious Fatalities Drives Away Virginia Natives.
Disappearance of Felix Romney and Household Now Explained.

New York, Sept. 5.—Residents of Amelia county, Virginia, took with disfavor on the plan recently proposed to convert the old Romney estate on the Appomattox river into a rifle range.

"Everyone down there looks on that special spot of Virginia as accursed," said Maj. Henry C. Appleby, who was in this city recently preparatory to his biennial trip to Europe. "For years none of the natives has ventured near the Romney place, and the darkies won't pass the old stone gate posts on the turnpike after twilight."

"I have not seen the old house in twenty-five years, but I understand it is rotting away fast. Superstition is the reason of it all."

"The Romneys were a fine old lot until just before the Mexican war. About then the family seemed to peter out and the property passed into the hands of one of the Boston branch of the family, an old duffer of the name of Felix Romney being the head of the family."

"Felix was as mean as a rocky Massachusetts farm can make a man, and he never caught on to the ways of Amelia county. He distrusted all the slaves and made their lot pretty hard. He got into rowing with all the gentry along the river, one way or another, until he was left pretty much all alone on the plantation."

"One May evening a nigger from our fields came to my father, the late Col. Andrew Appleby, and told him there was something queer over at the Romneys. It seems that not a light had been seen in any of the cabins in three days and there had been no smoke from the chimneys."

"My father didn't take much to Felix Romney, but he got on his horse just the same and a party of seven or eight of us went over to the place. I'll never forget it as long as I live, for it was like the old fairy story of the place where everyone went to sleep."

"All the doors and windows were open, but not a soul was in sight. We went through the house and found everything in order, but no Felix Romney. It was the same way at the stables and cabins. Everyone was gone, but nothing disturbingly so."

"That night a searching party, fifty strong, covered half the country, returning the following noon with never a clue to the mystery. The house was closed up a little while after."

"In 1866 the place was opened up again by Reuben Romney, and he was killed in a brawl with his superintendant the following year. It has been opened occasionally since then, but in each instance something unpleasant happened."

"One of these times witnessed the death of Eleanor Romney, who was drowned in the river near the house. She was a charming woman, one of the most so that I have been privileged to meet."

"The mystery about old Felix? Well, it was cleared up after a fashion. I had a hand in it, too."

"Col. George Dacre was one of the party that searched for Felix Romney. After 1865 he removed to the Middle West. In 1874 he visited me at my home and we chatted to discuss the Romney affair."

"Henry, the colonel said to me, 'there's a circumstance connected with that matter which I never mentioned at the time through boyish backwardness. I saw fresh earth back of the rear stable.'

"The force of the statement carried me away."

"Fresh earth!" I exclaimed. "Man, can you point out the spot?"

"He could, and with a couple of boys and spades we hastened over to the Romney place."

"In half an hour we were uncovered those of Felix Romney's bones were found, so that it was deduced that he had died a way."

"It was generally believed that Felix had been so cruel that his slaves rose up and killed him, fleeing after they had conspired the bodies. The strange part of the matter is that out of the sixty slaves on the Romney place at that time not one was ever seen again after that day. The superstition of today is largely due to that fact."

"The strange part in the history of the Romney estate occurred in the early '80's. A party of young men from a Northern city rented the house from the Romney family during a three weeks' shooting trip. The place was in bad repair, so they all camped out in the big ballroom on the third floor, sleeping on blankets. At one end of the room were the double doors leading to the stairs, while diagonally opposite was a little room where in the old days women might retire to repair damages made by the clumsy feet of some awkward dancer of the country-side."

"This room old Felix Romney had used to sleep in, and there it was supposed to be a haunted chamber to the superstitious."

"One of the party of shooters heard the story from one of the natives, and told it to his fellows. A Boston lad, whom I will call Landis, immediately announced that he would make his bed that night in the haunted chamber and meet the ghost."

"His companions tried to dissuade him, but it was of no avail. He had made up his mind. That night he retired to the room, leaving the door ajar into the main ball room, in which his companions were incamped."

"The double doors of the room were barred. On account of Landis' venture a lamp was lit and placed on the floor ten feet or so away from the sleeping place. According to the story that came out later one of the party was awakened in the night by hearing the stealthy footsteps going across the ball room from the big doors. The awakened one peered into the darkness, but the walker kept out of the range of the light thrown by the lamp on the floor."

"The silence of the steps continued until they seemed to cease at the door of the little room. The listener sat up, his heart beating wildly, and concluded that his ears had deceived him, and went to sleep once again. In

The morning young Landis was found dead, his throat cut from ear to ear. "Arrests were made immediately. Suspicion pointed to a fellow who can be called Watkins. He is living out West somewhere today."

"The hunting party had been gambling, as hunting parties will do, and Landis had won several hundred dollars from Watkins. It was thought that Watkins had been influenced by this indebtedness to commit the crime, but there was nothing further to hold him."

"Every man in the party was certain that no one could have risen and gone across the room without being missed or heard by his companions. The mysterious footsteps were taken into account also, though the doors were found safely barred on the inside in the morning. No trace of a weapon was found, either."

"The death of Landis remains a mystery yet. It was the finishing touch to the reputation of the house."

"Since that day the persons who have visited the Romney estate could be counted on your fingers and toes. The family deserted it, and it now looks as if a place that was one of the ornaments of colonial Virginia, would sink into a riverside jungle."

"I'm not superstitious, nor am I a coward, but I wouldn't go near that place after dark for the wealth of India. It reeks with the miasma of misfortune."

DELIGHTFUL DEATH, Says Professor Who Tumbled Over Alpine Cliff.

Geneva, Sept. 5.—Professor Albert Heim, the well known geologist and Alpinist of Zurich, described at a meeting of the Swiss Alpine club the sensations which he experienced while falling from a precipice on the Saentis Alps.

He was not troubled in his breathing, and felt none of the paralyzing terror which so often overwhelms men when face to face with some sudden and awful catastrophe. He felt tranquil, but endowed with an unusual mental activity; varied thoughts and ideas flashed rapidly through his brain and a thousand long-forgotten incidents of his past life came pleasantly to his memory.

Then came a sound of soft and soothing music and at the instant that he

HAS SPRING TAMMANY

Congressman Bede Holds Receivership as Club
Over Tammany.
Must Deliver the Goods In Mayoralty Contest First.

It was not like that in the old days. Which have gone beyond recall. In the old days, fair old golden days. It was not like that in the old days. Which have gone beyond recall. In the old days, fair old golden days. It was not like that in the old days. Which have gone beyond recall. In the old days, fair old golden days.

Congressman Bede is suspicious. Yes, he's very suspicious. And who do you suppose he is suspicious about? Why, nobody but gentle, harmless "Little Tammany." The wise guys are passing the word along that even J. Adam can't get on his feet and be a villain still. "They say" that he is playing tag with "Little Tammany" and that that renowned Little Tammany is the one who will deliver the goods before he will deliver the receivership to them.

Mr. Bede's action in withholding his decision on the land office receivership is causing much wonder and not a few have searched for understanding not hesitating to turn the matter over to the public. Last week day after day it was confidently given out by the press that Mr. Bede's decision on the receivership would be given within twenty-four hours. It was given out that Mr. Bede would go by and no decision. On Friday Mr. Bede told Mr. Stevens, St. P. & M. & O. R. Y. that he had decided upon it. Mr. Stevens, St. P. & M. & O. R. Y. is not going to give out the news until after he returns from his long stay at Pine City, Minn. Mr. Bede has returned from Pine City, Minn., and has come and went, but no announcement has been forthcoming.

The wonderings grow apace. Why does not the congressman announce his decision and settle matters here? Just as long as he does not announce it the struggle and the fight will continue. Now comes Dame Rumor. It is said, and said loudly, that Mr. Bede is determined to hold this receivership as a club over the heads of the Tammany party, and to keep them in line for the mayoralty fight.

It would be a good boy you can have this club.

It is said to be just about his attitude to "Little Tammany," the sure little boy of Tammany politics. When Mr. Bede was asked when he would announce his decision he said merely: "That is held up for the present." It is said to be understood that he is here this time on other business. Mr. Bede is the candidate of "Little Tammany," which is charged with having been the last time he was seen in the city. Mr. Bede is charged with having been the last time he was seen in the city. Mr. Bede is charged with having been the last time he was seen in the city. Mr. Bede is charged with having been the last time he was seen in the city.

Therefore it is assumed that Mr. Bede is here on other business. Mr. Bede is the candidate of "Little Tammany," which is charged with having been the last time he was seen in the city. Mr. Bede is charged with having been the last time he was seen in the city. Mr. Bede is charged with having been the last time he was seen in the city.

WORD TERMS. "Terms Used in Forestry and Logging." Just published in Bulletin No. 61 of the Bureau of Forestry, affords the reader an insight into a strange vocabulary.

Among the logging terms are some truly remarkable expressions. The uninitiated may wonder at the distinction between a "bull hooter" and a "boom rat," between a "cutting" and a "cuttyman," and find that none refers to any lesser animal than the logging hooter.

Among other creatures of the camp may be the "dog," a "pig," a "hog," and the "road donkey." The "dog" is a small animal, the "pig" is a large animal, and the "road donkey" is a small animal.

THE HOOBOO "IT." Room No. 12 is generally most carefully avoided by the traveling public who patronize the hotels, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The apartment of this number in the hotel has been vacant for the last three months. The last person who occupied it was a man who was not a believer in superstition on general principles.

The first night of his occupancy of the room he received a telegram from his home just as he was turning out for the night. He did not see it, but he cleared out in a hurry the following morning.

JURORS IN DOUBT

Erroneous Report Makes Them Think They Are Late.
Members of Tribunal Scared by Rumor of Session.

Owing to an erroneous report in the morning paper, nearly all of the grand jurors for the September term of court were given a nervous moment this morning. The September term does not begin until tomorrow, and when the jurors read in the morning paper that they were to meet today, there were a number of calls at the sheriff's office and the clerk of district court office by telephone and person for accurate information as to the date of the beginning of the term.

The grand jury will assemble tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, at which time it will be organized, and will be charged with the court as to their duties. As there are something over 25 or 26 criminal matters to come to the attention of the grand jury, that body is likely to be in session for the rest of this week, and possibly, part of next. Over a dozen cases that might have come before a grand jury have already been disposed of under the new law, which permits a person accused of a crime to enter a plea of guilty on information by the county attorney, and receive sentence.

Trin by jury does not begin until next Monday, when the petit jury will assemble.

The September calendar, which will be called in the morning in court room No. 1, will be a very large one, with 127 cases, not taking into consideration those which may be continued over to those which may be moved on the calendar.

The trial of the cases already noted, a large number of answers to complaints were filed this morning. Besides the trial of the cases already noted, a large number of answers to complaints were filed this morning.

Injury, a broken leg, through his own carelessness. Davis & Hollister represent the Brooks-Scanlon company and J. De La Motte represents Methy.

In his answer to the suit for recovery of a balance due by Frerker Bros. & Co., Delos Standon admits purchasing goods for which $457.50 was demanded by the wholesale liquor dealers, but which Standon alleges were of the value of more than $200.85. Standon says he paid $222.71 on account and that Frerker Bros. & Co. accepted a slot machine, for which they were to credit him $90 on account. He admits still owing $86.12 with interest of $3.50 in addition.

Standon admits further that he bought goods from the B. Heller Liquor company, for which there has been paid $208.60. He claims insufficient knowledge as to the balance still owing on this bill of goods and claims that he has no information as to the claim of the Heller company, was assigned to Frerker Bros. & Co. Company takes judgment for only $89.62.

The Golden Rule Store company has awarded the contract to install Fleming in a personal injury case, by admitting the employment of Miss Fleming, and that she was injured at the time and place that she claims. The company, however, denies the knowledge of her injury, through which the clerk fell, was left open by their direction, and that if the injury was caused by the company, it was her own carelessness, that of some co-employee, or to the carelessness of both. Davis & Hollister represent the store company and Alexander Marshall for Miss Fleming.

UNIQUE OPERATION. A surgical operation without the usual accessories of operating table, white-apprised operators, and nurses, and the glittering "layout" of cruet-looking instruments, was performed in Irvington, says the Indianapolis News. The operating room was the back yard of an Irvington home. The operator was a well-known Indian oculist, and the patient was a dog.

The Particular Suit That You Will Look Best In Is Awaiting Your Inspection at Gidding's!

Fashion has been generous in her ordinances this season, positively every style of garment being "the thing." For this reason, the feminine contingent may one and all be congratulated, seeing that each may, without misgivings, wear that particular style of suit she looks best in.

Should that particular suit be one of those cute and natty short bolero styles, these are to be seen in all the season's favorite colors, strapped, stitched and diversely trimmed, according to the best taste dictates. Also a varied assortment of these long and graceful fitted coat suits which must, perhaps, be awarded the "palm of precedence" this season.

These smart costumes are shown in shades of gray, blue, red, tan, green, brown, purple and black; and last, but not least, come those mannish styles in Paddock and box suits, whose rough and heathery aspect are their chief claims.

Prices from $25 to $125.

LAST OF PEACE ENVOYS LEAVE PORTSMOUTH EN ROUTE TO THEIR HOMES

A Large Crowd Says
"Adieu" to the Famous Men.

Baron Komura Is Spending the Day at Harvard.

Expert De Martens Expresses His Views on the Treaty.

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 6.—Life in this picturesque section of New England, which for the last four weeks has centered around proceedings of the peace conference, began slipping back into normal channels today with the departure of Mr. Witte and the Russian mission on a special train for New York, and the Japanese envoys, who did not go with Baron Komura, last night. Mr. Witte was up early this morning, and before he had taken breakfast a crowd had assembled in the hotel veranda to see him off. He shook hands with each of the persons gathered about him, and when he started he was given cheers and cries of "Adieu."

Mr. Takahira, who headed the Japanese party, also was heartily cheered. At the navy yard the work has already begun of restoring the general store to its former condition. The furniture will be shipped back to Washington, including the table on which the treaty was signed. The chairs in which the plenipotentiaries sat in perpetuation of the historic part which the navy yard has played in the last month, it has been suggested that a bronze tablet be placed on the walls of the peace building commemorating the "peace of Portsmouth," brought about within its walls.

NINETEEN MONTHS WAR Was Fought Almost Entirely In Neutral Territory.

Portsmouth, Sept. 6.—Mr. De Martens, having been requested by the Associated Press to express his views on the treaty just signed, said last night: "Your request for my personal opinion on the treaty is somewhat embarrassing on account of the part, although modest, which I took in the work of the peace conference. I am, however, in a small degree, enlightened by the situation and assist in a right and impartial appreciation of the treaty of Portsmouth. I am ready to say what I think. I have not the intention of condemning or praising anything, but will limit myself to some rudimentary elements, which may help in the formation of a just and enlightened public opinion.

"The last war between Russia and Japan has no precedent in the annals of international wars, it is unique and original in its exploits as well as in the conditions of the struggle. Russia sustained reverses and misfortunes which nobody expected. Japan obtained successes which surprised even the Japanese patriots.

"When it is asked: 'Where was the theater of war?' it is answered: 'It was in neutral territory.' It must be admitted that such a war during nineteen months on the territory of neutral states is an absolutely new condition in the annals of international relations. Considering these unique and extraordinary circumstances, it is only too natural that the clauses of the treaty of peace signed regard more the neutral status of Korea and China, than the territorial possessions of the two belligerent powers. It was only at the last moment, almost to the opening of the peace conference, that Russian territory, a part of the island of Sakhalin, was said to be ceded to Japan. On account of this situation the present treaty of peace between Russia and Japan will always attract the attention of jurists and diplomatists. They will be astonished in seeing that after a terrible struggle during eighteen months, between two great military powers, as having shed torrents of human blood, a treaty of peace was concluded, the clauses of which regard almost exclusively Korea and Manchuria. The surprise of the future impartial historian will increase with the knowledge that before the war the Japanese predominance in Korea was already formally recognized, and that Russia never intended to oppose the principle of the 'open door' in Manchuria, as solemnly proclaimed by the treaty of Portsmouth.

"That is why Russia could not admit the Japanese demand for a reduction in the cost of the war. A belligerent country, the territory of which is intact, and not occupied by the enemy, is not vanquished and cannot pay war tribute. That is why Russia, for love of peace, sacrificed the southern part of Sakhalin. However, all the other clauses of the treaty of peace regard Korea and Manchuria, and show the incontestable fact that Russia, for the moment, abandoned her grandiose and worldly policy in the direction of distant and uncertain fields of the Far East. Personally, I am convinced that after having known the clauses of the treaty of peace, the Russian nation will not fret, but will gather together all her forces for a new great struggle on the battle field, but on the field of productive work and of social and political progress. That is why, according to deep and unshakable conviction, all the recrimination and reciprocal ac-

JAPANESE ARE VERY ANGRY OVER PEACE

Hold Meetings and Declare Nation Has Been Humiliated.

Tokio, Sept. 5.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The first turbulence attendant on the popular anger over terms of peace arranged with Russia, took place today. A mass meeting to protest against the action of the government was called to take place at Hibuya park, but the Metropolitan police closed the gates and attempted to prevent the assembling of the people. The municipality protested against the action of the police and finally the gates were thrown open and a large crowd gathered and voted in favor of resolutions declaring the nation humiliated and denouncing the terms of the treaty of peace was arranged. The crowd was serious in its conduct, rather than angry, and the police handled it discreetly. The gathering eventually dispersed in an orderly manner.

Later on, however, a crowd attempted to hold a meeting in the Shintome theater and the police dispersed it. A portion of the crowd then proceeded to the office of the Kokoro in Shinjuku, the government organ, and began shouting. Three employees of the paper armed with swords appeared at the door of the place and checked the attack and the police again dispersed the crowd. It was thought that the trouble had passed when suddenly a portion of the crowd made a rush at the building, hurled stones and damaged some of the machinery.

Several persons were injured during the attack, but the police eventually cleared the streets of the crowd and arrested a number of the rioters. Disorder is not general and the situation is not serious.

Similar meetings have been held at Osaka and Nagasaki, which in round terms denounced the government and asked them to resign.

General sentiment throughout the country seems to favor reactionary measures, but it appears clear that the majority of the people will eventually accept the result of the peace conference however disappointing it may be. Possibly public opinion will become more definite when the government informs the people of the actual results of the Portsmouth conference. There has yet been no information given out regarding the final adjustment of the most serious issues.

Telegrams from Kobe, Nagasaki, Osaka, Sasebo, Kanazawa, Hiroshi, Kyoto and other places express the popular dissatisfaction and dejection over the result. The higher middle classes, including the minor radical papers have thrown off all restraint and pronounce the peace settlement the greatest humiliation the country has ever suffered. They even advise a refusal to ratify the treaty, through various expedients. Few flags are appearing in the capital. In some instances where enthusiastic citizens have displayed flags their neighbors have advised their removal. The higher middle classes, however, commercial and financial men, remain strangely silent, but their disappointment is evident. The general market is reflecting the attitude of depression and declining sharply at the opening today and trading was sluggish. The bulk of the people continue apathetic while the hostility of the radicals grows.

Nagasaki, Sept. 6.—(Tuesday noon.)—The peace news was received without enthusiasm in the chief centers of Kyushu province. There is a general feeling of chagrin that Japan has been deprived of the rightful fruits of victory and there is disappointment especially at the fact that permanent security from Russian aggression has not been secured. The diplomatic failure is considered to be due to the negotiations commencing prematurely.

Yokohama, Sept. 6.—The peace terms were not known exactly, but it is rumored that the abandonment of the indemnity will cause general and profound discontent. There have been no demonstrations. The people are quietly awaiting the official announcement of the text of the treaty.

CHOLERA BREAKS OUT IN CITY OF HAMBURG

U. S. Regulations In Relation to Emigrants Put In Force.

Hamburg, Sept. 6.—A case of cholera, the third up to date, was found today in the heart of the business and hotel districts here.

Past Assistant Surgeon McLaughlin of the United States marine hospital corps, who arrived here yesterday from Naples under orders to make a thorough investigation of the situation here and who has been working today. He visited the quarantine station and will go to Cuxhaven and examine the 1,000 emigrants there bound for New York, when they will be transferred to the Bulgaria to the Wandersee, on which they will sail for America.

Bromberg, Sept. 6.—One death from cholera has occurred here.

Posen, Sept. 6.—The wife of a ship owner, Karl Scheffer of Stettin, died here today of cholera.

Marlenwerder, West Prussia, Sept. 6.—Three fresh cholera cases and one death have been reported in this administrative district. The new cases are in the villages of Jagow, Agnewitz, Schripitz and Kuzenbrack. The death occurred at Niederausmaus.

Berlin, Sept. 6, 4:56 p. m.—An official bulletin just issued says that thirteen new cases of cholera and two deaths were reported during the twenty-four hours ending at noon today, making the total ninety cases and twenty-six deaths.

The infected area was sensibly widened today. The river Oder has become tainted. Three cases have been reported from the administrative district of Frankfurt-on-the-Oder. In three small places along the stream, among the rivermen.

Vrma expresses the opinion, that it is directed against German designs in the Far East while the Soviet declares that the treaty shuts out Russia from the Pacific and opens the sea anywhere in Asia. The Bourse Gazette takes a similar view.

CRUISER LENA, Interned at Valjeo Will Soon Sail For Vladivostok.

Valjeo, Cal., Sept. 6.—The Russian cruiser Lena, which has been interned at Mare Island navy yard for nearly a year, will leave for San Francisco next Saturday, where she will go into the dry dock. Permission has been received and orders are now awaited for the Lena to depart for Vladivostok, and it is expected that she will sail for that port about Sept. 20.

RUSSIAN PAPERS Do Not Think Treaty Conducive to Peace.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 6.—There is much comment in the morning papers on the Anglo-Japanese treaty which it is considered is not conducive to peace because it upsets the balance of power in the Far East and makes England and Japan predominant. The Novoe

KOMURA AT BOSTON. Japanese Envoy Pays Visit to Harvard University.

Boston, Sept. 6.—Baron Komura, the Japanese peace envoy and eight of his party who came here last night, were the guests at breakfast today at the Hotel Touraine of the Tokyo Dining club, an association of leading Japanese merchants of this city. After the breakfast, which was an informal affair, Baron Komura and his suite went to Harvard university of which institution he is an alumnus. The party expected to pass several hours at the university and leave for New York this afternoon.

A STRENUOUS LIFE.
Iowa Falls, Iowa, Sept. 6.—At least one of his manifold duties has been taken as a criterion. Clint E. Myers, editor and publisher of the Iowa Falls paper, in this country, finds time, in addition to editing the paper, to act as a justice of the peace, notary public, city clerk, superintendent of the city waterworks, secretary-treasurer and general manager of a telephone system and cundry other duties.

VETERANS PARADE

Feature of the Day at the G. A. R. Encampment.

Many of Aged Men Fell From Ranks Exhausted.

Denver, Sept. 6.—The main event of the Grand Army encampment speaking from the viewpoint of the rank and file was the grand-parade, which occurred today. To the veteran, the privilege of again tramping in step with comrades of the bivouac of '61, is one for which no hardship seems too great to undergo, no ordeal too severe to undertake. Many who marched the two miles, today, were exhausted when the end was reached and many others, weakened by age, fell out of line long before the journey was completed. These tottering old veterans, regretting their inability to remain in the parade and giving every evidence of their feelings, would be cured for the persons nearest at hand, led to a place where they could rest and recover from their exhaustion. It was a common sight to see a gray haired old soldier sitting on the curb gazing wistfully at his more sturdy comrades as they passed. They even advise a refusal to ratify the treaty, through various expedients. Few flags are appearing in the capital. In some instances where enthusiastic citizens have displayed flags their neighbors have advised their removal. The higher middle classes, however, commercial and financial men, remain strangely silent, but their disappointment is evident. The general market is reflecting the attitude of depression and declining sharply at the opening today and trading was sluggish. The bulk of the people continue apathetic while the hostility of the radicals grows.

FEELING OF HOPEFULNESS

In New Orleans Fever Situation; Not So Good Outside.

New Orleans, Sept. 6.—New cases of fever in New Orleans since 6 p. m., Tuesday, 7; total deaths, 22. The effect of the cool weather in the South on the yellow fever patients is shown to-day. The bulk of the cases are now in the city. There is a feeling of hopefulness in the city, but the plague is believed to have spent its force in New Orleans, but reports from infected parishes show that Louisiana are not so encouraging.

New Orleans, Sept. 6.—With the exception of Lake Providence and Tallulah, near each other in Northern Louisiana, yellow fever reports both from city and country are in a favorable character. Locally there are many evidences of the state of the mosquito theory, more conspicuous of which is the fact that in the list of new cases for the preceding twenty-four hours, there is not a single one from the original area. Infection, the forty-four squares in which the fever first appeared, though at one hundred and thirty-nine in the district. Superhuman work in the matter of disinfection and the eradication of mosquito breeding places in this district, and while the infection has not been entirely wiped out, a day's rest from the original area. There is some ground for hope that the disease has been born of much of its power.

NON-POLITICAL SUBJECTS Desired By Tower at Coming Dinner to Mason.

Berlin, Sept. 6.—Some German newspapers yesterday printed a statement to the effect that Chatteragne Tower, the American ambassador, had refused to preside at a farewell dinner to be given Sept. 15 to Frank H. Mason, who has just returned from his mission to the United States. The question of a reciprocity treaty between Germany and the United States was to be discussed at the dinner. What actually took place was that in discussing the having the arrangements for the dinner in charge, the ambassador suggested that the toast be limited to non-political subjects. He did not mention the matter of a reciprocity treaty.

MADAME WITTE'S NEPHEW Commits Suicide After Killing A Young Girl.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 6.—A sensation has been caused at Moscow by the suicide of Madame Witte's nephew, M. Khotinsky, who shot a girl through the heart and then turned the revolver on himself, inflicting a wound from which he died after he had been taken to the hospital. Khotinsky was a volunteer in a dragon regiment. Four of his brothers died under somewhat tragic circumstances.

MURDERED BY TARTARS.
Tiflis, Sept. 6.—A dispatch from Elizabetopol says that a village of Mikendi, in the district of Zangessur, has been murdered by Tartars. The village is situated in the district of Zangessur, and is surrounded by Tartars, and the government is sending for reinforcements.

FIRE IN CONVENT IN ROME.
Rome, Sept. 6.—A violent incendiary broke out today, in the convent attached to the basilica of Saint Cecilia in the Trastevere quarter. The roof fell in and a number of the nuns' cells were destroyed but there was no loss of life.

STATE INVESTIGATION OF INSURANCE METHODS BEGINS IN NEW YORK

FRANCE ALL READY TO ATTACK MOROCCO

Only Awaits Word From Fez as to the Sultan's Answer.

Paris, Sept. 6.—The government still awaits word from Fez regarding the Sultan's answer to the French ultimatum to Morocco, the time limit of which expired yesterday. It is the firm intention of the ministers to enforce redress without reference to outside influences. Unofficial intimations have been received that Germany does not sympathize with a French military demonstration against Morocco, as likely to complicate the general Moroccan question on the eve of the conference. Nevertheless there is a positive determination her to keep the

Ex-Governor Frank Black Represents the Equitable Society.

Object of Inquiry Is to Improve Laws of State.

New York, Sept. 6.—Former Governor Frank S. Black of this state appeared as counsel for the Equitable Life Assurance society before the joint legislative committee today, when the committee commenced its investigation of life insurance conditions in this state. Before the hearing opened Mr. Black said:

"We have nothing to conceal and no one to protect. We seek no legal technicalities to evade, answering any questions. We will aid in every way the progress of this inquiry." Paul D. Cravath was present in the interests of Thomas F. Ryan, and W. C. Guillian attended as counsel for James H. Hyde. Senator Armstrong in outlining the purposes of the investigation said: "Our object will not be to punish anybody for wrongdoing in the past, but to get at all of the salient features of the modern insurance business, so as to suggest to the next legislature an adequate law that will not only protect the policy holders in all life insurance companies but will likewise protect the insurance company management from abuse at the hands of designing persons. The most insurance companies are mutual in theory we shall endeavor to pass a law that will compel them to be subject in fact. Then the officers of the company will always be working for the interest of the policy holders, instead of working for themselves by the formation of subsidiary companies to divide the profits of the main company. A large number of such insurance laws are good. It will be our aim to make them better."

Several of the officers of the New York Life Insurance company, who had been subpoenaed appeared before the committee and also several officers of the Mutual Life Insurance company were not summoned. With them came the company's books covering the business of the past ten years. The officers present were John A. McCall, president; George W. Perkins, T. A. Buckner, D. P. Kingsley, vice presidents; Rufus W. Wether, secretary; E. H. Perkins, second vice president; John C. McCall, secretary; E. D. Randolph, treasurer; and Perkins and Randolph, vice presidents. It was stated that no legal counsel was present to represent the company and that none was needed.

James M. Beck represented the Mutual Life Insurance company, Lawyers Frank H. Lawrence and Frank H. Platt, the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company and Richard W. Lindbergh the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

In opening the hearing counsel for the committee stated that the first subject taken up would be the position of the policy holders in the administration of the companies. He quoted evidence once given by Henry B. Hyde, founder of the Equitable society, to show the position of the Equitable stockholders.

Robert A. Granis, first vice president of the Mutual company, stated that the first thing he testified that he was a director of the United States Mortgage & Trust company and of the Lawyers Trust company.

Mr. Hughes, counsel for the committee quoted from the charter of the Mutual company the clause giving rights to the policy holders in the elections of officers and other administrative rights and had the by-laws of the company identified and placed on the record.

DR. SALMON HANDS IN HIS RESIGNATION

Intimation That It Was Requested
By the President.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Dr. David E. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, department of agriculture, has tendered his resignation, to take effect immediately on the appointment of his successor. The resignation has been accepted, to take effect Oct. 1. The resignation was announced by Secretary Wilson at noon today, but he declined to state whether the severance is due to the charges filed recently against Dr. Salmon. These charges related to the connection which Dr. Salmon had had with George B. Howard, in the printing business, and which later resulted in the organization of the Howard Label company of Washington. This company holds the contract for supplying meat inspection tags to the government. The relations of Salmon and Howard were investigated by Solicitor McCabe of the department of agriculture, and the doctor was exonerated, it having been shown that he withdrew from the company soon after the first contract was received from the government. Charges were preferred against Dr. Salmon, also in connection with the meat inspection service, which is conducted under the direction of his bureau. He was exonerated also on these charges, but the report was not accepted as satisfactory by the packing concerns, whose applications for meat inspection had been denied.

While the announcement was that the resignation was purely voluntary, there is a well authenticated rumor that President Roosevelt was not satisfied with the conditions shown by the investigation. The report of Solicitor McCabe sets forth this year there have been twelve applications for meat inspection, and that none of these were denied.

EMPEROR WILLIAM EXPRESSES BELIEF IN THE "YELLOW PERIL"

New York, Sept. 6.—Congressman McNary of Massachusetts, who was a member of the American party received yesterday by Emperor William, is quoted in a Times dispatch from Berlin as follows:

"In our conversation, the emperor dwelt on the 'Yellow peril' and expressed the opinion that the Japanese would follow up their military successes by closing the 'open door' and, by their command of cheap labor, force Europe and America out of the Oriental markets."

"He went on to say that it was necessary for the white nations to stem the yellow peril by uniting. The only power that Japan feared in Asia and America and it was a good thing for the world that the United States was on one side of the Japanese empire."

"The emperor asked us what we thought of German railways. We said frankly that we believed the American lines were better. The Kaiser assented, but said he thought German cities were better paved than these in America."

HAWAIIAN VOLCANOES ARE SIMILAR TO THOSE ON MOON

San Francisco, Sept. 6.—Prof. W. H. Pickering of Harvard, the astronomer, is here on route home from a visit to the Hawaiian Islands. He makes the interesting statement that although he had never seen the volcanoes of the Hawaiian Islands previous to his recent trip there, he recognized in them old familiar friends. He says he met their ancestors from afar, as it were, through a telescope, and that they are similar to those of the moon—that is, those of the enigmistic variety.

While in Honolulu, Prof. Pickering delivered a lecture, in which he advanced the theory that the moon was originally a part of the earth, and was thrown off, and that the Hawaiian Islands were about in the center of those lunar regions. Since that time, the large volcanoes of Mauna Loa and Kilauea, on the island of Hawaii, and Haleakala, on Maui, were, Prof. Pickering stated, in many ways exactly like those he had observed through a telescope on the moon.

BAKU STILL BURNING. Loss Already Amounts to Million of Roubles.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 6.—Private advices from Baku, Caucasus, today say that the "Black town" district of that city is still burning and also the town works at Naikhan, Bibulat, Noman and Sabuto. The losses amount to millions of roubles. Baku is overhung with dense clouds of smoke and the flames of burning buildings illuminated the city all night long. It is alleged that the disorders were started by Armenians, who, disguised as soldiers, fired on Russians and Tartars. The Persian consul was asked to act as a pacifier but he replied that conciliation was impossible with the Armenians, who had killed 200 Persian subjects.

PAY OVER MONEY

Conference at Bank to Settle All Bridge Litigation.

Money For Bonds Will Be Paid Through New York.

At the American Exchange bank this afternoon, several matters of great importance to the city are being transacted, and litigation which threatened to involve the city, the Waukesha construction company, the owners of the old Canal & Bridge company's bonds and the owners of the patent rights on the ferry bridge, is being settled.

City Treasurer Voss and City Attorney Bert Posner will represent the city at the meeting, and Oscar Mitchell will represent the Modern Steel Structural company, Attorneys representing the bondholders, and the Commercial Investment company, which purchased the bonds, will also be present.

The money for the issue of $100,000 bridge bonds will be paid through New York. The bond buyers will place the money to the credit of the American Exchange bank in one of the New York city banks, and notify the bank officials here by telegram. When the message is received, the bond holders of the old Duluth Canal & Bridge company will surrender their bonds.

In return for the $100,000 to be paid by the city, the structural company, and C. A. P. Turner, the city treasurer will have checks made out to the Modern Steel Structural company for the amount claimed by the company, Turner and the owner of the patent rights on the bridge, and these will be cashed by the representatives of the company, ready to be paid over to them, as soon as the council has passed the order for the $100,000 due the company, from which amount the checks will be subtracted.

The $100,000 will be transferred to the city's credit at the bank, $50,000 of the amount going into the general fund, and the remaining $50,000 standing ready to be paid over to the bridge company as soon as the council shall order it done. In this manner the five law suits, which threatened to be dragged through the courts for years, will be ended. The city will have the money for the bonds, and the bridge company will be paid as soon as the council is satisfied that the bridge machinery is in good order.

For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, hemorrhoids, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases Dr. Williams' Sore has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for Dr. Williams'—the genuine. Sold by all druggists.

Recently however by way of celebrating his birthday, Mr. Highmark of West Duluth presented to the church the lots at Green and Fifty-ninth and the church will at once be moved to the new location.

Old People Just as Happy as Young.

Age cannot wither nor custom stale the infinite variety of life.

When the right food makes one new each day there seems as much simple happiness when one is old as when young, but bounding health is the requisite and right food produces that.

A happy woman of 77 tells her experience.
"For three years," she says, "I was greatly troubled with a nervous affection of the stomach, which at last brought me to such a condition that I could neither eat nor sleep with any sort of comfort. I grew very dependent and felt that my hold on life was very uncertain. It was difficult for me to find food that I could digest. My doctor kept me on a diet of rice for a long time, but it did not seem to give me any strength."

"I am glad that at last I decided to try Grape-Nuts food, for it has done a wonderful work for me. Before I had used the first package I began to take a new interest in life, and I rapidly increased in health and strength. My stomach has regained its normal tone and the two years that Grape-Nuts has been my only food, I have not had a sick day. I am 77 years old and Grape-Nuts has restored to me the pleasure of living. I am sorry I did not begin sooner to use it. I cannot praise it too highly." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

READY FOR WORK

Sunday School Association Holds First Session of Season.

Pastors Discuss Conditions and Needs—Business Meeting Held.

For the first time since the early part of the summer the Duluth Sunday School association held a session last evening in St. Luke's Episcopal church. The ladies served supper from 6:30 to 7:30, and a lengthy program was given later in the evening. The attendance was large.

A number of addresses touching upon Sunday school work in Duluth were given by local pastors. As Rev. Dr. Rice was obliged to leave early, his was the first address, and his topic was "The Relation of the Pastor to the Sunday School." He declared that pastors should pay much attention to this branch of their work, and that adult men, church members, should at all times show a lively interest in the schools.

Rev. R. J. Mooney delivered an address of welcome, in which he emphasized the need of a direct catechism. This point was discussed by the association members to some length, the sentiment being generally favorable.

Rev. Harry W. Johnson, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church in West Duluth, gave a talk on "Sunday School Organization." An interesting discussion followed this talk.

A song service was held. Mrs. H. A. Leidel was at the organ, and solos were given by Miss Clara Richardson and Roy Fritz. Devotional services were conducted by Rev. Arthur H. Wirtle.

In addition to the general session, an enthusiastic business meeting was held. It was decided to turn all the money collected in the Sunday schools, on the first Sunday in November, to the missionary department of the Sunday School union.

DISCUSS LEVY

Preliminary Meeting of Conference Commission Will Be Held.

Tax Rate Will Not Be Fixed at This Time.

Preliminary steps toward fixing the levy for 1909 will be taken at the meeting of the conference committee tomorrow afternoon.

The levy will not be definitely decided upon tomorrow, but the different heads of the departments will be given a hearing in regard to their needs for the coming year.

The final settlement of the question will not be made until the meeting of Sept. 16.

There is such a strong sentiment against any raise in the tax, that it is not likely that the committee will fix any higher for the city than last year, although there is small chance for a reduction, owing to the expenditures to which the city is already pledged, and the increased needs of some of the departments, notably the police and public works.

Chief Troyer has asked for the addition of two or three officers to the force, and the board of public works announces the necessity for a larger depot to properly maintain the streets and keep the different improvements in the city in a proper state of repair. The city is already pledged to spend about $18,000 this year for a garbage crematorium, and an increased levy will have to be made for the permanent improvement fund, unless the revolving fund is to become depleted. Already there are several transfers due the revolving fund from the permanent improvement fund, which have not been made by the controller, owing to the fact that there is no money in the permanent improvement fund to make the transfer with. These sums are due the revolving fund as the city's share in certain improvements that have been made in the last two years. The revolving fund is being gradually depleted in this manner, and some steps will have to be taken by the committee to effect a readjustment.

FELL UNDER CAR WHEELS.

Prosperous Iowa Farmer Almost Cut in Twain.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 6.—Reece Jones, a prosperous farmer of Keokuk county, fell beneath the wheels of a sleeping car at Sigourney Monday evening, causing his body to be cut practically in twain.

Jones had just accompanied his wife into the sleeper and had bidden her an affectionate good-bye, as she was leaving for a visit to the Portland exhibition and other points of interest to the far West.

The train had started and Jones was making a hasty exit, when he slipped and his body swung squarely in front of the wheels. The train was stopped and Mrs. Jones, distracted with grief, removed to her home. Jones was 60.

STRONG MEN NEEDED.

The Herald notes with pleasure that a number of newspapers in Northern Minnesota have taken up its appeal to the people to send their best men to the legislature, in order that this end of the state may be assured a square deal in the reappointment of senatorial districts and in the several vitally important matters that it will have to present to the legislature next time.

The Herald started this appeal at this time believing that it is not too early to begin to think of such matters, and knowing that the importance of the movement would readily appeal to the press of Northern Minnesota, which will have to bear the burden of stirring up and keeping stirred up the proper public sentiment in the matter. It did not start the movement with the intention of laying back after it had been started and letting things take their own course. It proposes to keep the fight up, and it needs all the help that the newspapers of Northern Minnesota, always alive to the interests of their communities can give it.

The fact that a few broad-minded country editors in Southern Minnesota have sent a good word for drainage and immigration is encouraging, but it must not be permitted to deceive anyone with the idea that Southern Minnesota is going to act in any way differently from its former course in regard to this end of the state, and give up all we ask without a murmur. Northern Minnesota has always had to fight for all she got, because legislative matters are ruled on selfish principles, and Northern Minnesota has been a legislative minority. She will remain so in the next legislature, but if the proper attention is given to the selection of candidates that preponderance of votes can be overturned by a preponderance of energy and ability.

Next year, at the primary election and later at the general election, senators and representatives will be selected, from every district. The people, particularly under the primary election system, select their own candidates and fill their own offices and theirs is the blame if they allow incompetents and sluggards to become public officials.

Both parties should choose their best men to become candidates for the legislature next year. True, they should do this for all offices every year, but it does not always work out that way. Much depends upon its working out that way in the elections for legislative representatives next year. The matters which Northern Minnesota seeks to regulate are not matters of party; sentiment will be so strong that doubtful both parties will go upon record with equal firmness and clearness upon all of them; they are simply matters of good business and good government, and the politics of the men selected to handle them are of the very least importance—so they are able and energetic.

WORK AS MEDICINE.

The value of rest as a specific for human ills is greatly over-estimated. Rather should it be said, perhaps, that the idea of rest has been misunderstood, and that idleness has been mistaken for rest. Idleness is not rest, as many an unfortunate individual has found to his sorrow. Idleness is disastrous to body, mind and soul.

The current number of the Medical Record has an article on work as a therapeutic measure, which contains a lot of sound common sense. It assumes as fundamental the proposition that work is the greatest of all factors in the maintenance of health. That does not mean merely physical but mental work. The sanest, safest and most effective rest is usually a change of work. For physical weariness often mental exercise is wholesome, while for mental fatigue there is often nothing more beneficial than physical work. This is where the man or woman with a "fad," so it be harmless, is often better situated than those without. The fad becomes a source of mental or physical exercise outside the routine of daily work and results in a happier and healthier condition. The Medical Record says:

Conventional work with mind and hands should be encouraged in all persons. Rest will prove serviceable, many conditions where absolute rest will not only prove useless but even harmful. To send a man from an active business life to one of complete inactivity will often prove disastrous, as much as to prescribe all food for the obese. The nervous will complain that they do not feel like work. If left to themselves and told to do absolutely nothing, not even read, they are sure to do absolutely nothing, and grow thereby morose and unattractive. The desire for work should be encouraged in all conditions and in all classes. If one's interest is aroused to a slight degree, a continuation of work will develop a desire for occupation. One will never feel like work if one has nothing to do. Work will often do what medicine, however properly applied, will not.

This is wisdom. It bears not only the credentials of patent logic and soundness, but it carries the stamp of high medical authority. Pope hinted at a condition every idler knows when he spoke of being

AN AFFECTED ALARM.

Some people and some newspapers are ridiculous in the tremors they affect every time they hear the word "paternalism." They are so afraid that the functions of government will be broadened to include something besides mere police power and collection of taxes that every time anything else is proposed they shriek out "Paternalism!" and proceed to faint much after the fashion of the fair lady of ancient date who felt it incumbent upon her to faint at the slightest provocation. Fair ladies of today scorn such affectation, and faint as little as possible. Strong men of today, too, try to make believe they possess a little sense, even if they do not, and are not likely to shriek out at a bugaboo like this.

The Indianapolis News expatiates at length under the head of "The Perils of Paternalism," and sees in the present "reign of graft," proof that popular government is in no way fitted to do much more than govern, and that any attempt to broaden its powers leads inevitably to graft. The News says that self-government is the government of all, by all and for all, and that it cannot continue to be this if it seeks to do things for any one class, no matter how large and influential that class may be.

Stuff and nonsense! The trouble with people who are affected to be horrified at the suggestion of paternalism is not that they fear that anything is likely to be done in the interests of a large and influential class, but that they fear something is going to be done in the interests of the whole people that will destroy the special privileges of a favored few. We are going to hear a good deal about "paternalism" in the coming years, and it will be discussed as though it were something horrid like crime or deceit. It is not horrid, at all. There may be some that honestly disbelieve in it; there are many that honestly believe in it, and would have government do for its people fairly and honestly things that private interests yield for the despoliation of the people. Government control of railways and railway rates is going to be slightly referred to as "paternalism." Let nobody be alarmed at the epithet.

The postoffice department, the agricultural department in its many phases, the patent office, the pension bureau, the library of congress, improvement of rivers and harbors, building of lighthouses, charting of shoals and menaces to navigation, the weather bureau, and numerous other features of the federal government are the rankest kind of paternalism. Yet who wishes to abolish any of them?

In the state and local government the grain weighing and inspection service, drainage appropriations, educational appropriations, municipal water, light and other services, all these and more are typically paternalistic. Who wants to eliminate any of them from public life? People are not going to be alarmed at the cry of "paternalism." Ultimately, whenever an industry is found to work against the interests of the people in private ownership, it is going to be given over to public ownership, which the Indianapolis News and its ilk will call "paternalism."

HANDICAP OF FUTURE.

The story of William Ely, recently arrested in Chicago, has little novelty in it, but the lessons it teaches are always good, and always singularly fruitless because hardly anybody ever profits by them except when they have the same experience.

When Ely's father died he came into a fortune of $200,000. He spent it, and spent it foolishly, of course, and quickly. He was young, inexperienced, and he found plenty of people to help him spend it and to forget him when it was gone. It was the old, old story of the fool and his money. They were soon parted and so now the fool and the friends his fast-flying money brought him. Most of it went on the race tracks, and he took pride in being a "game loser" and in the fact that the touts and bookies who got his money patting him on the back and called him "good fellow."

When his money was gone, of course, they kicked him out. It was not the loss of the money that mattered. Ely was young, and the experience for which he gave his money was worth all it cost, if he had been strong enough to utilize it. But his associations and the manner of his distribution of the money had destroyed more than his fortune. It had debased and destroyed that which is worth all the fortunes in the world and more, and which all the world's riches cannot replace when it is once destroyed—his character. He had fallen into a jaundiced view of life, which had become a taint to be frittered away in enjoyments, at any cost, instead of a thing to do usefully with.

When it became necessary for him to earn his living, contact with real life laid bare the streak of yellow. Money, not character or labor, was the only means he knew of for accomplishing things. So he failed, and presently when he was short of money, he stole. Shortly he was attempting to follow the parous career of burglar. He did follow it, long enough to land himself behind prison doors.

Ely's father had done much better if he had thrown away his fortune and left his son nothing but his own courage and ambition. He might have done something with himself, in that event. Young Ely would have been better off if he had been presented with a ticket to a soup kitchen instead of that fortune of $200,000. The fortune was his undoing. Weak? Of course he was. Who is not weak? Who knows how near he would come to following in young Ely's footsteps under the same circumstances? Certainly he who has permitted his character forming to be the sport of events would be in no shape to withstand the blight of sudden fortune. It takes real character to stand prosperity, which has ruined more souls a thousand times over than misfortune ever did.

THE FIELD SURVEY.

That dove of peace is certainly a "small, hot bird."

Astronomers who traveled afar to see the eclipse and then found that the clouds eclipsed the eclipse can be forgiven if the event eclipsed their tempers.

Queer thing, human nature. Not long ago the average American was wishing Oyam was turn in and lick Linewitch before peace was declared. Now the average American is claiming Oyam was unable to do it.

Has anybody thought to call the bird of peace over from Portsmouth to fix up the little dispute in the ranks of Minnesota Republicans yet?

Northern Minnesota's lands must be drained, spanned with good roads, and settled. It can't all be done in a day, but every day something can be done if everybody will put a shoulder to the wheel.

"Plough deep while slugs sleep," said Poor Richard. The politicians plough deep in the off-years.

The press of Northern Minnesota is taking up the demand for a high class of representation in the next legislature, and if the people will become interested they will send men down to St. Paul that will get what they go after.

All criticism helps: Kindly criticism to improve its object and malicious criticism to expose the character of the critic.

It is said that Europe has no graft. We have. That is perhaps one advantage of living in a free country.

Hotel Gossip.

"All parts of the country have fresh politicians, but I believe the South has more of them than any other section," said C. B. Gould of New York, at the Spaulding, Georgia, for instance, is not in the thick of a gubernatorial fight. Hoke Smith is a figure in the contest. Mr. Smith has some queer ideas. Not the least queer are those concerning the railroad question. He is in favor of forbidding the operation of railroads in Georgia by foreign corporations, or non-resident citizens. He says that if this is done the owners of the roads will be forced to sell them, or to lease them to citizens organized in Georgia, thus bringing all the railroads in the state into the hands of home corporations.

The Weather.

While the rather unpleasant prospect for today's weather, according to the forecast issued yesterday, was partly cloudy skies and northeasterly winds, the day dawned bright, with very light winds, and a very pleasant atmosphere. But the wind was from that quarter, and there was a heavy atmosphere over the lake, and the sky soon became partly overcast. Nevertheless, it was thoroughly enjoyable weather, and only a confirmed pessimist could fail to be satisfied. The outlook is that the northeast winds will continue, becoming fresh and therefore more annoying, and the weather man forecasts showers for tonight and Thursday. As long as they are only showers and do not develop into a continuous downpour, the people at the Hotel Lakes can feel contented with the brand of weather allotted to them.

Twenty-two Years Ago

Taken From the Columns of Duluth Papers Twenty-two Years Ago.

Mrs. R. S. Moffett of Erie, Pa., has arrived here with her son to spend a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. C. P. Bailey. Their mother, Mrs. Andrews, started for her home in Perry, N. Y., on Tuesday evening by the China.

Mrs. Isaac Mendenhall and her granddaughter, Miss Mendenhall, who have been visiting here this summer, started this week for the Pacific coast. They will visit the Puget Sound cities and then go to San Francisco.

Miss Clara M. Coleman, the new high school principal, has arrived and will make her home with Mrs. A. H. Fish, where Miss Gowdy will also board. Miss Garriot and Miss Kent have also returned. Miss Baker has declined the position she was offered. It is probable Miss Rudolph may return, as her mother's health is said to be much improved.

At a mass meeting of the citizens, presided over by Judge Stearns, steps were taken to give the Villard party, on their arrival here on the 25th, a reception worthy of the eastern terminus of the Northern Pacific and the west end of the greatest waterway of the world, and the sum of $2,170 was immediately subscribed toward the cost, and the rest of the amount needed, $5,000, has since been raised. The following committee on arrangements was appointed: R. S. Munger, chairman; C. Tower, Jr., George Spencer, A. E. Rodd, M. Fink, J. J. Castello, Luther Mendenhall, A. C. Barlow, C. H. Graves, Z. D. Scott, D. E. Little, J. H. Upham, E. G. Swanstrom, J. D. Eising and C. Polaris. The following are donors of $100 each toward the celebration: Judge O. P. Stearns, Munger & Markell, Spencer & Co., C. H. Graves & Co., Thomas Cullyford, Duluth & Iron Range Railway, Little, Peck & Co., Ohio Central Barge & Coal company, J. J. Sawyer, Mendenhall & Haines, Ensign & Cash, A. N. Seip, Duncan, Gamble & Co., and J. H. Upham. The following have given $50 each: E. Wieland, Bradley, Hanford & Co., Times Publishing company, C. J. Gilbert & Pearson, Arthur C. Mallett, Stone & Ordean, and Scott & Holston. The sum of $25 was donated by each of the following: T. H. Pressnell, R. C. Mitchell, S. Levy, W. W. Spaulding, Setzer & Smith, M. Bunnell, A. S. Chase, A. J. Miller & Co., E. Johnson, M. Fink, Cooley, LaVague & Co., Clark & Marvin, H. Burg, Leopold Bros., J. R. Chas. W. S. Woodriss, and E. A. Olmsted.

J. A. Bradley, a brother-in-law of M. S. Stewart, has bought the interest of S. Jeffrey in the meat market of Jeffrey & Son.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Fairmont Sentinel: It is hinted that Ed. Weaver of Mankato has hopes of being called governor in about eighteen months. Mankato is a good town, and of course, as aspirants, but cannot hope to get into the game until after St. Peter has played the full hand.

Phillager Leader: Senator Brower of St. Cloud is being courted by a few disaffected ones to try for the nomination for congress from this district. Mr. Brower, unfortunately, for him, is supported by the wrong crowd and lives in the wrong town to receive many favors from this neck of the woods.

Grand Rapids Independent: The Itasca News tells of how fast the land in that vicinity is being sold. The day is not far off when the whole section will be sold and settled upon by the substantial, practical and experienced farmers who have gotten tired of paying rent and cannot afford to pay the fabulous prices asked for in the older section.

Northome Record: No one else could make us believe anything else than that the Thurland Warmer in east portions. Upper lakes: Light variable winds tonight and Thursday. Generally fair."

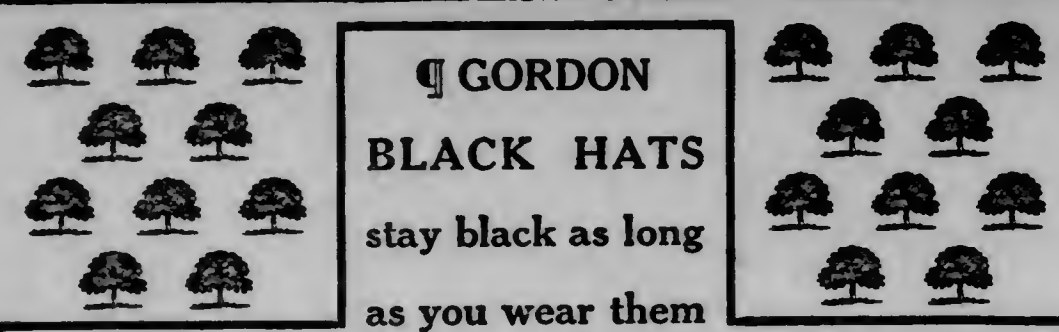

North Branch Review: A scientist says that kassies removes freckles. Now we know the reason why some of the girls around North Branch have freckles.

Long Prairie Argus: As soon as honest men begin to push the probe into the corrupt spots it hurts somebody and the party for harmony is raised by the wounded grafters and their friends. The argument is that it will hurt the party, and by using such pleas they sometimes succeed in suppressing investigation. It is need of reform and the dirty places are done so, while the gentler areas on how they ought to be.

Hutchinson Leader: Duluth impressed the editors with its importance as a great business center. The tremendous trade in grain, coal, lumber and iron ore was a revelation. The extra-great amount of freight handled in this city was very vivid.

St. Peter Free Press: An item, started by the St. Peter Dispatch to the effect that R. C. Dunn, late Republican candidate for governor, has added about $20,000 to his bank account by a lucky mining deal, is now pronounced a myth by Charles Mitchell, the Martin County Independent, and Charley knows where he speaks.

Crookston Journal: A Southern Minnesota paper says: "The northern part of the state has improved, but it will never be the country we love here." Take a look at the last census figures, friend. Figures don't lie.</

CONTINUES STRONG

Copper Metal Almost Unobtainable—Price
Seventeen Cents.

Foreigners Expect to See That Figure Prevail
Next Year.

If the price of copper is being manipulated, as Thomas Lawson asserts, it is being done so in a strikingly successful manner, for the producing interests are unable to keep the price down and the authorities on the copper market all report the supply as exhausted and the demand so keen as to be continually forcing prices upward. The idea of manipulation is scouted as absurd. George L. Walker this week reports copper is practically unobtainable. Copper for immediate delivery is selling around 17 cents a pound and the talk abroad is that the price will be about the average next year. American producers would rather see a 15-cent price, as they believe that at a figure higher than that the use of copper is apt to be discouraged.

Walker says this week: "Copper is practically unobtainable. There are a few little speculative lots in the market, and the producing companies that do not sell their output in advance are disposing of it to those consumers who are now obliged to buy for immediate delivery regardless of prices. Lake and electrolytic are quoted around 17 cents for near-by delivery, and for October, November and December, 16.5-8 to 16.3-4 cents is being paid. Some consumers, fearing that the present condition will be indefinitely maintained, have been bidding 16 cents per pound for deliveries during the first three months of next year, and the extreme strength of the situation is reflected by the refusal of producers to make contracts on that basis. There seems to be a feeling abroad that shall have a 17-cent copper market during the greater part of next year."

"The leading producers of copper are not pleased with the present condition of things. They tried to hold the price down to 16 cents, and they will welcome a return of the market to that level. The fact that the present high price will have a tendency to curtail consumption is too well understood to call for discussion. Producers desire that manufacturers should always feel confident that they can secure all the copper they need at a price not exceeding 15 cents per pound. Such a condition of things would encourage free consumption of the metal and keep the trade healthy and active."

"A good deal has been said of late to assume that he was even an important factor in bringing about the break in prices is folly. His assertion that there is a coming break in the price of copper has no basis in reason. There is no over supply or over production of copper and consumers are in a position where they must keep buying regardless of prices. There is nothing in sight ahead of the copper producing companies but a long period of tremendous prosperity."

"My opinion of the copper share market is that this decline is simply an incident in a bull movement. It was brought about by a scare engendered by the sudden break in the New York list and it should not go very far. The best of the copper producers are in a position where they must keep buying regardless of prices. There is nothing in sight ahead of the copper producing companies but a long period of tremendous prosperity."

COMMISSIONER GIVES TALK

Kilby Tells of Salvation Army's Work in the West.

Commissioner George R. Kilby, in charge of the Salvation Army's work in the West, presided at an enthusiastic and well-attended rally at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, under the auspices of the local Scandinavian corps.

The commissioner told of the army's work in the West and outlined its plan for improvements. Addresses were also made by Lieut. Colonel Miles, who is second in command, Maj. John T. Fynn, Brigadier Cousins of Minneapolis, and Staff Captain Christopher, also of that city.

Commissioner Kilby will preside at a meeting this evening in the First M. E. church. He is a Boer war veteran, and will probably touch upon the work of the Salvation Army in South Africa in his address this evening. He leaves Duluth tonight for Crookston.

BANQUET FOR VISITORS.

Hardware Men Guests at Kitchi Gammi Club Function.

The visiting hardware men who returned yesterday afternoon from a trip over the iron ranges, were tendered a banquet at the Kitchi Gammi club last evening. F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range road, was the guest of honor, and among the Duluth men present were W. J. Olcott, A. M. Marshall, H. C. Marshall, A. D. Thomson, J. B. Cotton, George Swift, and others. Immediately after the banquet, the visitors took a special train for Two Harbors, where they will board the steamer Princeton on their return trip. During their stay in Duluth, they have been guests of the American Steel and Wire company and Steel corporation officials at Duluth.

PRINCE IN NEWFOUNDLAND. St. John's, N. F., Sept. 4.—Prince Louis of Battenberg arrived here yesterday escorted by the cruisers Drake and Beifort, for the purpose of going on a deer stalking expedition. He is a guest of Gov. McGregor, during his stay here, which is expected to last a week. A dinner was given in his honor at the government house yesterday and a reception at the parliament building was scheduled for last night. After more social functions on Wednesday and Thursday, the deer hunt will begin Friday.

SHOOTING IS POOR

Returning Chicken Hunters
Tell Hard Luck
Stories of Sport.

They Claim Prairie Chickens Have Been Drowned Out.

Duluth sportsmen returning from the prairie chicken country in the Western part of this state and in North Dakota have hard luck stories. Almost without exception they say that the shooting is the poorest they have ever known it, and that there are few birds in any of the localities where chicken shooting has been excellent in past years. Some of those who have returned report that they secured, during their several days' shooting no more birds than they have killed in one day's hunt in former seasons.

The sportsmen say the scarcity of birds is due to the extremely wet weather in the chicken country during the brooding and hatching season, and that the birds have been drowned out. One Duluth man who has for several years made frequent trips westward for chickens says the same conditions exist from Duluth clear up to the Canadian boundary line, that while there is a scarcity of chickens in the states the people residing over the boundary line "have to shoot them away from the door."

Several sportsmen report seeing plenty of ducks while on their chicken hunt, but say that instead of sticking to the lakes, the ducks are to be found this year out on the flooded prairie lands, where they can be reached only by wading.

Among those who have returned since the first of the week are Mart Adson, Henry H. Myers, H. P. Williamson, A. B. Lord and A. W. Lord. Local sportsmen have recently been taking up with Executive Agent S. P. Fullerton the new provision of the game law against putting birds in cold storage. The attempt to secure permits to do this has been unsuccessful, however, and all the birds that are killed this year will have to be taken out during the winter and spring months.

To one Duluth sportsman, S. F. Fullerton, executive agent, has written the following letter in answer to an inquiry: "Replying to yours of the 30th ult., will say that according to Section 60 of the new game law, the placing or receiving within, or storage of any game bird, or game animal, in cold storage, in a cold storage plant is prohibited and made unlawful. We are sending you a copy of the game laws, under separate cover, and will also call your attention to Section 37. You will see by this that we cannot grant any permits to store game in cold storage."

Section 60 of the new game laws is practically word for word, in Mr. Fullerton's letter. Section 37 treats of the retention of game, tags and permits. Any person who shall have game legally in possession of game birds, and wishes to retain them after the time limit has expired, must make application to the state game commission in writing. The application must state the name and residence of the applicant, the number, kind and location of the birds, which are not to exceed forty-five in number. The applicant must also state that he intends retaining the birds for his own use and not with the intent of sale. If the commission is satisfied that the intentions are bona fide, it will issue tags or seals to be attached to the birds, or in lieu thereof, a written permit to keep and use the game. This is not construed to mean that the person having possession of the birds cannot dispose of them as a gift to another. Birds to be lawfully held after five days from the close of the open season must have these tags attached. Violation of this law is punishable by a fine of not less than $25, nor more than $50 and costs of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty, nor more than sixty days, for each and every bird, animal, or part thereof, so shipped, sold or disposed of.

The accident was witnessed by Dr. T. J. Martin and his wife, of Buffalo, who were in another machine a short distance behind the ill-fated car. Dr. Martin hurried to the aid of the victims, but could do nothing for them.

The car occupied by Mr. Wolfe and Miss Hannill was driven by F. G. Plummer. He was taken before Prosecutor Loyd at Camden, N. J., who discharged him after hearing his statement. The accident was due to defective steering gear. It occurred at Hayes bridge, a short distance east of Naco. The approach to the bridge is curved, very steep, and heavily with sand. As the machine was plowing its way through the sand, Plummer discovered that the steering gear was out of order. He continued, however, and when the car reached the smooth boards of the bridge, it plunged forward and swerved toward the pipe railings. Miss Hannill rose to her feet just as the right forward wheel of the automobile struck the railing. Mr. Wolfe jumped up and attempted to prevent her from falling. The impact of the machine was so great that both were hurled from the car over the railing to the tracks below. Mr. Wolfe and Miss Hannill were to have been married in December. She was spending the summer with her parents at the seashore and Mr. Wolfe had been visiting the family. He was formerly a member of the Fifth United States artillery.

BOARD RESPONDS.

Answer of Educators in Suit Is Filed.

An answer has been filed in United States court in the patent suit of the Paul Steam System company of Boston against the Duluth board of education. The plaintiff company claims that the board of education in its heating plant for Endless school, has infringed on patents belonging to the plaintiff, therefore damages and the like are asked.

Wilson G. Crosby, the attorney of the board of education in his answer, asserts that the patent mentioned in the complaint, William P. Skiffington is not the real patentee as his patents are annulled by others.

Cured of Catarrh of the Head, Throat and Stomach

By COOPER'S NEW DISCOVERY and QUICK RELIEF after all other remedies had failed.

The Cooper Medicine Co.

Gentlemen: I have suffered with catarrh for three years. First the nasal cavities and air passages became inflamed and then a nasty mucous dropped from the head into the throat.

My breath became loaded with foul-smelling germs and my stomach became affected and pained me so much after eating that I lost all desire for food.

I tried all known medicines and a number of doctors, without receiving any benefit.

I was told of Cooper's remedies and decided to try them. I bought several bottles of the New Discovery and began to improve immediately.

I continued the use of the medicine and am now nearly as well as ever. I can eat a hearty meal and enjoy my life. My head is clear and I feel like my old self.

I heartily recommend Cooper's New Discovery for catarrhal troubles.

RIOTOUS JAPANESE STONE MARQUIS ITO AND MEMBERS OF THE HARRIMAN PARTY

THE SULTAN YIELDS TO DEMANDS OF FRANCE

Accepts All Points Presented In the French Ultimatum.
Promptly Pays Indemnity For Imprisonment of Bouzain.
Makes Formal Apology and Removes Offending Caid.

ABDUL AZIZ.
Sultan of Morocco, Who Grants Demands of France.

Paris, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the foreign office from M. St. Rene Taillandier, minister to Morocco, announces that the Moroccan government has yielded to the French demands and given complete satisfaction.

The foreign office was highly gratified this morning to receive the dispatch from the French minister at Fez announcing that the sultan had yielded all points demanded in the French ultimatum. The dispatch says that Sept. 4, the day preceding the expiration of the ultimatum, the grand vizier, El Fedoul Garni, accompanied by a retinue, went to the French legation, where he was received by the minister and his staff and the leading European officials. The grand vizier then publicly presented a formal apology for the arrest of the French-Algerian citizen, Bouzain, and handed the minister the amount of the indemnity demanded for the imprisoned man and also presented letters from the Moroccan ministry of foreign affairs announcing that the Caid responsible for Bouzain's arrest had been removed. The French minister answered, accepting the excuses and reparation given and thereupon the preparations for the departure of the legation were preliminary to the enforcement of France's demand were suspended.

The foreign office here says the reparation is complete on all points and that the incident is closed, thus terminating the anticipated resort to coercion through the military and naval branches of the service.

JAPS ATTACK RUSSIANS.
Defeat Them Badly After Strong Resistance.

Tokio, Sept. 2. (Delayed in transmission).—An official report says: "The Japanese army attacked the Russians at Chongtuyang on Sept. 1. The Russian forces consisted of four battalions, six guns and several hundred cavalry. The district was mountainous and difficult, but finally the Japanese artillery successfully attacked the Russian left and occupied their position at nine in the morning. The Russians strongly resisted, but were forced to retreat at 11 o'clock. Another Japanese detachment defeated the Russians at Heanbenkokai, and pursued them. Japanese casualties were one officer killed, and five officers and sixty men wounded. The Russians left forty dead on the field."

CONFUSION OF NAMES.

Former Governor Crittenden Is Not Dead.

St. Louis, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Republic from Gloucester, Mass., says: "It was rumored here last night that Governor T. T. Crittenden of Kansas City has died here. It has since developed that a cousin of the former governor, having the same initials, had died, and that the confusion of names caused many to believe that it was T. T. Crittenden of Kansas City, whose death had occurred."

TAGGART FIRES HOT SHOT AT ATTORNEY

Says Congressman Smyser Is a Scandalous Villifier.

Wooster, Ohio, Sept. 7.—Capt. Taggart was again on the witness stand in the Taggart divorce case today and created a sensation when he accused ex-Judge Smyser, counsel for Mrs. Taggart, of using his position as a member of congress to obtain an order from the war department that he (Taggart) be tried by court-martial. Capt. Taggart lost his temper and said to Mr. Smyser: "Your position in the matter was that of a scandalous villifier. The letter you wrote to the war department was vile and mean. It contained misrepresentations. Your talk was cowardly and made under cover of your position."

Mr. Smyser had a letter that he had written to the war department which Capt. Taggart pronounced worse than

MANAGER OF NELSON IS RATHER SUSPICIOUS OF JEFFRIES DEAL

San Francisco, Sept. 7.—"I have never objected to Jeffries on the ground of dishonesty, but on account of the change in the betting I thought there might be a collusion between Jeffries and the Brits." Such is the statement made by Billy Nelson, manager of Nelson, Nolan and Brits, particularly as the betting had dropped after Jeffries was named. Then when Brit's brother sent a telegram to Jeffries signing Bill Dehner's name to it, and Brits received the answer to Dehner's telegram accepting $10,000, it strengthened his belief that there was something wrong.

TOUGHS BEAT MINNEAPOLIS MAN AND STEAL HIS MONEY

Minneapolis, Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Durston, a laborer, was held up and beaten on the streets here today by a party of five men, who robbed him of $20. Durston was approached in the bar of the hotel by two men, one of whom, Frank Cederberg, an ex-convict, is under arrest charged with the crime. They tried to persuade him to shake dice, but he refused. The proprietor of the hotel had Salvationists. As the police force at St. Louis De Mole is very small, some of the English speaking residents went to the rescue of the Salvationists and a pitched battle followed. More rioting is expected tonight, as the Protestant residents are organizing to defend the Salvationists and will be aided by members of some of the English Protestant militia corps.

It is impossible to secure accurate figures of the casualties. The J. J. estimates them at two dead and at 500 wounded in all, including those seriously injured, and slightly injured among whom are 100 policemen. The wounds are mostly slight sword thrusts and bruises made by stones. The city is exceedingly quiet this

IMPERIAL MINISTER'S HOUSE IS DESTROYED

Ten Christian Churches Are Also Burned By Infuriated Mob.

Rioting Continues and Many Police Stations Are Destroyed.

Tokio, Sept. 6.—(Delayed in transmission).—E. H. Harriman, president of the Southern Pacific railroad, has been threatened, and the Marquis Ito, president of the privy council, has been stoned by mobs. Neither of them was injured.

The Harriman party had an exciting experience last night while at a dinner given by Baron Sone, minister of finance. Dr. W. G. Lyle and J. C. McKnight were caught in a crowd on their way to the dinner and were stoned and slightly hurt. After the dinner was over a detachment of soldiers escorted the party to the legation. A crowd stopped R. P. Schwerin, vice president of the Pacific Mail Steamship company, and assaulted his runners, but they did not touch Mr. Schwerin.

Crowds menacing a neighboring police kiosk filled the space in front of the American legation and hoisted and leered the American flag. The soldiers charged on the crowd and drove them back.

The dinner planned for tonight in honor of the Harriman party will not take place owing to the disturbed conditions in the city.

Tokio, Sept. 7.—A mob burned and destroyed ten Christian churches and one mission schoolhouse last night (Wednesday). The people were not injured.

New York, Sept. 7.—At the Southern Pacific offices it was said that no word had been received from Mr. Harriman from Tokio. His associates were of the opinion that the hostile demonstration was in no sense personal. Mr. Harriman's visit to Japan, it was declared, was entirely for recreation and pleasure.

Tokio, Tuesday, Sept. 5, 7 p. m.—Serious rioting followed the attack today on the office of the Kokumin Shimbun, the government organ. A mob attacked and burned the official residence of the minister of home affairs, which stood between the Nobles club and the Imperial hotel, and faced Hibuya park. All the houses in the neighborhood of the official homes of Premier Katsura and Baron Komura, foreign minister, who is now in the United States, but the police succeeded in preventing injury to the occupants or damage to the houses.

The situation tonight is threatening. Turbulent crowds fill the streets, and it is feared much damage to property is possible under cover of the darkness. All the police reserves are performing urgent duty and heavily guarding danger spots. The streets in the neighborhood of the Kokumin Shimbun are closed, and 200 police form a cordon around the office.

The destruction of the home minister's residence was intensely dramatic. Throughout the day a series of demonstrations occurred in the neighborhood of the building and late in the afternoon the mob attacked the house, swept the police away and battered down the gates. The police and servants resisted stoutly but the mob surged forward and entered the house.

Tokio, Sept. 6, 7 a. m.—The destruction of small police sub-stations continued until midnight. It is impossible to ascertain the exact number destroyed, but it is estimated that fifteen police stations were also destroyed. The mobs generally prevented damage to adjoining private property by dragging the police kiosks into the middle of the streets before applying the torch.

Shortly after midnight another attempt was made against the Kokumin Shimbun office but the police dispersed the attackers killing one of the assailants. The fact that the man was cut in the back angered the policeman. Detachments of national troops mobilized on account of the war, were called out during the night. The crowds received the soldiers good naturedly and cheered them. The principal duty of the troops was the protection of the police.

The anger of the crowds was chiefly on account of the closing of Hibuya park and the denial of the right to publicly meet in the park which is under the charge of the municipality. After the park was closed yesterday, the mayor and council met immediately and protested to the government and insisted that the park be reopened. It is now claimed that all the turbulence resulted from the indirect closing of the park. Students and young street rowdies seemed to be the largest participants in the disorder of the night.

The firemen succeeded in saving the main structure of the home minister's residence. Only the outbuildings were destroyed. It is impossible to secure accurate figures of the casualties. The J. J. estimates them at two dead and at 500 wounded in all, including those seriously injured, and slightly injured among whom are 100 policemen. The wounds are mostly slight sword thrusts and bruises made by stones. The city is exceedingly quiet this

UNITED VETERANS OF THE SPANISH WAR Hold Their Second Annual Reunion at City of Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Sept. 7.—With fluttering flags and martial music the hospitable gates of Milwaukee were thrown open today to greet the delegates and visitors to the second annual reunion of the United Spanish War veterans and the ladies' auxiliary of that organization. Each arriving train brought its hundreds of visitors, and it was early seen that the number in attendance would greatly exceed all expectations.

After a reception of delegates, the veterans met at 10:30 o'clock in Light Horse Squadron armory, and were welcomed to the city by Acting Mayor Caceran, in the absence of Mayor Foss. Commander-in-Chief William E. English then delivered his annual address, reviewing the organization's work of the past year and speaking of the congratulatory terms of the progress made. A business session followed, at which committees were appointed and reports of officers were submitted.

The delegates to the ladies' auxiliary held their first session at Hotel Pfister, and listened to the annual address of

Mrs. Isabelle Alexander, president general of the society. This was followed by a business session. Among the important matters which are expected to be considered by the veterans are a union of the Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans and the United Spanish War Veterans, establishment of a war museum at Washington, the securing of giving preference to veterans in government positions; founding of a temporary home at Washington for survivors of all wars, and the restriction of membership to white survivors of the various campaigns in the "West Indies and the Philippines."

The contest for a successor to Commander-in-Chief English becomes warm. M. McQuay of Chicago, and Maj. Charles R. Miller of Cleveland. The struggle for the office promises to be a decided one, the Eastern states seeming to favor the Ohio man, while the Western and some of the middle states are expected to throw their support to Gen. Moulton.

MAILS IN N. Y. CARRIED IN ANY OLD VEHICLE OWING TO STRIKE

New York, Sept. 7.—A general alarm was sent out early today by Chief Inspector Cortright of the police department, calling on the captains to take special care to guard all mail wagons. The order was issued because of a strike last night by three hundred drivers in the employ of contractors for hauling the mails from the general postoffice. Contractor Travis declares that plenty of men are available for the strikers' places. Automobiles will be used temporarily, however. Mail matter aggregating five hundred tons is delivered during the early hours and the postoffice officials say they will have no trouble in accomplishing the usual task. During the early hours a number of strike breakers were sworn in and mail was being carried from the postoffice to the Grand Central station, the steamship piers and the ferries by all sorts of vehicles ranging from touring automobiles to one horse carts.

FATAL COLLISION ON THE C. P. R.

St. Paul, Sept. 7.—A special to the Dispatch from Winnebago, Minn., says: Canadian Pacific passenger train No. 1 struck a silk train three-fourths of a mile west of Dingley siding, forty-seven miles east of Regina, N. W. T., last night. Passenger Engineer Ebereson was instantly killed. Express Messenger J. A. Schindler and Mail Clerk W. H. McKinnon, both of Winnnebago, sustained some cuts and bruises, but were able to remain on the run. No passengers were injured. The mail and express car and one of the engines were badly damaged. The line was cleared early today. The accident appears to have been caused by the engineer and conductor of No. 1 running into the silk train where they had orders to meet the silk train.

THE FINAL STRAW.

New York City. There is a barber in One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, who has been in the habit of going out for a round of golf after the shop is closed. As a result of the town calls for a more or less wooling of facious, cheekers, and a report at his chair next morning somewhat untidy. Of late, however, the regular patrons have noticed a change in his appearance. No more the red-dish eyelids and uncertain touch with the razor.

"Must have given up sporting life?" ventured the first customer the other morning.

"Killed to," confided the barber. "Facious and a barber shop don't harmonize. Why, after a night out I was all ways afraid I'd cut a man's head or amputate his ear. But the limit was reached about a week ago when I tried to do the town in the richest red you ever saw. It was highballs, and more highballs, until I thought I was riding home in a purple alpish driven by a team of green elephants. When I came to work, the first thing I did was to pour hair tonic in the lather cups and give a good rub to the hair. The barber shook his head ominously, and said: 'You're a little run as a barber, but that wasn't the worst.'"

"What else did you do that caused you to get on the 'water wagon'?" asked the man in the chair. "The barber shook his head ominously, and responded: 'I tried to give a bald-headed man a shave.'"

FINISHED HIS WORK.
A late Harvard professor was famed for writing rhymes during his leisure moments. Likewise, during his office hours, he wrote the Boston Herald. One warm day a student desirous of consulting him, found the professor asleep in his chair. "The student crept up softly and found the professor had begun a stanza, as follows:

"The luminous rays of the sun,
Shall lighten the depths of the sea.
The student took up a pen and finished the verse thus:
And the fishes beginning to sweat, Cry 'D-n it, how hot we shall be!'"

GOOD FAIR TONIC.
Albert E. Hutton, of the historic, traveling salesman for a button company, was formerly a drug clerk. On one occasion returning from lunch, he took charge of the store when the proprietor refreshed the inner man, says the Boston Herald.

Mrs. Blank came in and asked if her hair tonic was ready. The clerk looked on the prescription case, where he found a four-ounce bottle of red liquid standing on a piece of paper inscribed, "Mrs. Blank, hair tonic," which was according to the label, wrapped and delivered. On his return the proprietor instructed the clerk to compound some hair tonic, for which Mrs. Blank would soon call.

"Why, I gave it to her," said the clerk.

"Oh, you put it up?"

"No, I found it put up on the case, standing on a paper on which was written her name and 'hair tonic.'"

"Well," said the startled apothecary, "it made that memorandum for you to act upon, and just before you returned Jenks, the liquor drummer, left a four-ounce bottle of whiskey for me to examine and analyze, and he must have stood it on the paper. Well, it's best to let it go, as no harm can come from it."

Some time later the clerk when waiting on the lady asked her she liked the hair tonic, and was pleased to be informed that she thought it was "just splendid."

SEEKS HIS PAY

John Armstrong Appeals From Disallowance of $567 Claim.

Wants Pay For Taking Care of the County's Team.

John Armstrong, former road foreman for the county of St. Louis, has appealed to the district court from the disallowance by the board of county commissioners of his claim of $567, for the care of the county road team for a period of two years and seven months at $18 per month.

The complaint in the case has not been filed and Judge Cant has ordered that Mr. Armstrong have five days from Sept. 6 in which to file it, and the county board ten days in which to make an answer. Mr. Armstrong has an additional five days in which to file a reply to the answer.

The proceedings of the board of county commissioners show that the claim was disallowed at a meeting held May 3, 1905.

Some time later notice was given by Mr. Armstrong, through his attorney, H. B. Fryberger, that he would appeal from the disallowance of his claim.

Mr. Armstrong claims to have taken care of the team from May 10, 1903 to Jan. 1, 1905, a period of eight months for which he asked $144, and from May 1, 1902, to March 15, 1904, a period of one year and eleven months, for which he claims he should have $423, at the rate of $18 per month.

Mr. Armstrong's claim grows out of the action of the board in discharging him, following the decision of the court that the board had no right to maintain the position of road overseer, which position he had been filling for some time at a salary of $5 per day for the time he worked.

This decision resulted from an appeal of taxpayers from the allowance of Mr. Armstrong's claim for services rendered, the court holding that only so long as he had been employed and had actually worked he must be remunerated. The appeal was made on the ground, in part, that he had not been actually working during all the time that he turned in to the county. Since the case was tried the board has abolished the position of road foreman.

During the time that Mr. Armstrong was foreman he was furnished with a team by the county to go over the roads inspecting them and working on them. This was in progress and it is for the time that he had the team in his possession that he is now seeking to recover for their keep.

Since the position of road overseer or foreman has been abolished, the team has been kept at the county poor farm.

DOMESTIC CAN COLLECT $1,397

For Working For Her Uncle For Past Five Years.

St. Paul, Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A woman who has been working for her uncle for the past five years, a domestic can collect $1,397 for services rendered, while William J. Thompson, a prosperous farmer of county.

This amount was awarded as pay for five years' service by a jury in the Clay county district court, and the supreme court holds it not to be excessive. Miss Elmoir asked for $4,000.

According to Thompson, Miss Elmoir, who is his niece, was to receive her board and care, and eventually become his heiress in return for her services. The future, however, did not look very promising, and Miss Elmoir asked for cash down.

BRIDE'S SISTER DIES JUST BEFORE WEDDING.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 7.—While dressing to attend the wedding of her sister, Miss Kate McVey, to Judge John G. Park of Kansas City, Miss Ed McVey, sister of the bride, was stricken with heart disease and died.

The wedding party in waiting at the First Methodist church was kept waiting for the bride, who was expected to arrive at 10 o'clock, but she never came.

AMERICAN MINISTER PROTESTS TO PORTIE.

Constantinople, Sept. 7.—The American minister, Mr. Leshman, has lodged a protest with the portie against the departure from established procedure in the trial of Ghilks Vartanian, the assassin of Apik Enghiljan, the authorities having prevented the consular officials from seeing the corpse for the purpose of examining his claims to American citizenship and determining whether he was entitled to American protection.

The authorities hurried the trial through and condemned the prisoner to death before the settlement of this question.

IOWA WILL HAVE BIG CROP OF CORN.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 7.—Iowa railroads are preparing to handle the largest corn crop in the history of Iowa. Extra cars will be required, and officials here state, from their reports from agents over the state, that the crop will exceed that of last year. The total corn output will be about 375,000,000 bushels.

EMINENT ENGINEERS

Number Here In Connection With Water Power Development.

The development of the Great Northern Power company's project and the power using plans which are to follow it, are attracting some of the leading engineers in electrical lines to the city and at the present moment a number of them are in the city. In fact, it is probably the largest gathering here since the beginning of the development.

P. O. Blackwell of New York, and W. A. Breckinridge, superintendent of the water power at Niagara, and both consulting engineers of the Great Northern Power company, are here. Then there are Messrs. Street and Miller of Pittsburgh, and Westinghouse company's experts; Mr. Richter of Schenectady, N. Y., the General Electric company's expert on single phase motors, and S. G. Knox of Milwaukee, who is with one of the large steam shovel manufacturers. Mr. Knox is a brother of Fenwick B. Knox of this city, and is here in connection with the investigation of the possibility of installing electrical power in the steam shovels operated at the mine.

ENOCH WAS NOT.
Boston Herald: Last summer the Rev. A. B. Simonds, an Alliance man, who holds annual meetings at Old Orchard at one of his sermons.

He is fond of the preacher who preached from the text, "God is not." He went on to explain that the word "God" is a misnomer, and that you may not know in what way God is, but he is there, and he is the one to examine the text carefully in the light of the context.

First, Enoch was not an Episcopalian, because he "walked" with God, and did not die. Second, he was not a Baptist, because he "walked" with God, and did not die. Third, he was not a Methodist, because the context tells us that he walked with God at all times, and was not a member of any church. We are plainly told that God took him.

CONDUCTOR'S ADVICE.

Tom Lyons, who was for years a conductor on one of the suburban street railway lines, was noted for his wit, says the Boston Herald.

One day he was busy collecting fares, and was often made the victims of his sometimes caustic answers, so popular was he that no offence was ever taken.

One day a middle-aged man boarded Tom's car, and had scarcely taken his seat when a drunken man staggered into the car and stepped on the middle-aged man's toe. Turning indignantly to Tom, who was busy collecting fares, the victim demanded: "Conductor, do you allow drunken men to ride on the car?"

"No, sir," replied Tom, "but if you sit down and keep quiet no one will notice you."

BROUGHT HIM AROUND.

New York Globe. A man in a hurry rushed into the ticket office, and, tossing 10 cents to the ticket seller, extended two fingers underneath the aperture to indicate that two tickets were desired. The ticket seller took a look of bland concession and quipped:

"What is it?"

"Don't you see?" retorted the man, "I'm a little stiff, and I want you to understand the dummy language." "You certainly act like a dummy," replied the seller.

"Guess you are crazy," courteously responded the seller.

"Put out a ticket," demanded the man in a hurry.

The seller did so and a nickel in the man's hand was the ticket back and said:

"Now put out another ticket."

The man in a hurry glared at the seller and went on his way.

The same man was repeated the succeeding night, and the ticket seller succeeded a bit weary after the encounter.

On the third night the man in a hurry went to the same window and, throwing down the two fingers in a mute appeal for the brace of tickets, the muscles of the seller's face were again convulsed with indignation.

He grudgingly pushed out two tickets and took the money.

"Give me to see you are learning the dummy language," said the man in a hurry, as he rushed for his train.

"You are a dummy," said the seller, "but if it took all summer, and knowing that thousands of suburbanites wear and leave on the train, I should not doubt as to the ultimate conquest of the seller."

KIDPT THE MONEY.

Elder John H. Pike, of the fifty-five years past of the Christian church of Newburyport, was well and favorably known, says the Boston Herald.

He was in the city on a temporary lecture in his church on Court street, Newburyport, he referred to the low den in the city and denounced it in strong language. The keeper of the place was told what the elder said. The next morning, as his customers came in as usual, he said to them: "I want you to be here at noon, when the elder goes past my door, and I will step out and thank him for advertising my place of business, and will hand him a $5 bill. Of course, he will not take it."

The noon hour approached and several men with the proprietor, stood upon the sidewalk in front of the saloon. The elder was seen approaching, and soon reached the place, when the proprietor stepped up to him and said: "Elder I understand you advertised my place last evening from your pulpit, and here is $5 I wish to present to you."

"Thank you," replied the elder, at the same time putting the money in his vest pocket. "I think I can do more good with this than you can do."

INSURANCE HEARING

Agreements In Equitable Affairs Read to the Committee.

Salaries of the New York Life Given By Witnesses.

New York, Sept. 7.—William Alexander, secretary of the Equitable Life Assurance society, was the first witness examined at the hearing before the legislative committee, which is investigating life insurance companies.

Mr. Alexander is a brother of former President James W. Alexander. Before the hearing was opened, counsel for the committee stated that James H. Hyde would be summoned as a witness.

Lawyer Charles E. Hughes read from the charter of the Equitable society extracts showing that holders of policies, having a face value of not less than $5,000, have one vote for directors personally, but not by proxy.

At the hearing, Mr. Alexander had a share of the surplus of the society, the directors to decide what the share should be.

Mr. Hughes next read the bill of sale of the Hyde stock in the Equitable to Thomas F. Ryan for $3,500,000. It was shown that legal safeguards were taken to insure the delivery of the stock on June 6, 1906, at the expiration of the trust created by Henry B. Hyde.

One thing noted being that James H. Hyde made a will directing that the trustee should keep the money for the benefit of his children, and that the executors if he should die before the expiration of the trust.

The agreement between Mr. Ryan and the trustees was submitted by him. Grover Cleveland, Morgan J. O'Brien and George Westinghouse, also were read. After the reading of these documents, the questioning of Mr. Alexander was resumed. He said the mutualization of the trust had been prevented by the suit brought by Francis E. Lord, a stockholder. Mr. Alexander also testified to the salary paid by the Equitable to the president of the company, formerly held by James Hyde, is now vacant.

mother of mischievous boys is rarely taken by surprise, but she found one day that a small boy had been in the house and that she was indeed alone.

"She tested her former seat and her sewing, and was about to conclude that the strange occurrence would not be repeated, when she was amazed to see the pitcher lift itself several inches from the bowl and then settle down into it again with a loud noise. This was repeated several times, and the pitcher was finally entirely out of the bowl and placed, with deliberate care, beside it on the washstand.

"Immediately after this the bowl was flung from the washstand and fell in a shower of fragments at my mother's feet, and in a quick succession the smaller pieces of the entire toilet set followed and added their several little heaps to the debris on the floor. Then as if done by invisible hands, the larger pitcher on the washstand was lifted and rolled on its side, so that the clear spring water contained was poured slowly from it on the carpet, and when quite emptied it was flung high and flung with much violence to the floor, where it was entirely shattered. From that time the peace and quiet of the happy old household were destroyed and were never again re-established."

"The very next day after its first manifestation, the pitcher was again flung from the washstand, a door which opened on the wide gallery, and which was standing open, began to move slowly, and was shut as with calm deliberation by invisible hands."

"That was done," said mother quietly, "by the spirit. But at the same time spoken before the door was opened and was flung back to its original position with great force. At the same time two windows in the room, which were raised to admit a breeze from the Atlantic, were lowered simultaneously, and in quick succession they were raised and lowered many times, till finally, as the service was being performed, in each window were broken into tiny bits."

"These insignificant beginnings were only the preludes to larger and more disastrous events. Promptly it happened when the family was seated at meals, plates, cutlery and glasses were flung into the faces of various members, in several instances inflicting serious wounds, and at the same time the spoons were broken or suddenly seized and flung at the guests. At other times the tablecloth, with the entire service, was flung off the table, and the floor or thrown through the heavy, old-fashioned furniture would crack and groan, then, as if by magic, the furniture would be moved to its place in a mad dance about the room, and would move more easily back to its accustomed place or would be dashed to splinters, and the reading of these documents, the questioning of Mr. Alexander was resumed. He said the mutualization of the trust had been prevented by the suit brought by Francis E. Lord, a stockholder. Railroads.BUY NEW CARS

Range Roads Said to Be Purchasing Additional Equipment.

Rainy Lake Line Also Purchasing More Rolling Stock.

Both the range roads and the Virginia & Rainy Lake line are buying additional equipment this fall. Increasing business is given as the reason for these expenditures and it is expected that the new cars and locomotives will be needed as soon as they can be delivered, orders for them are being put in as early as possible.

Many of the Eastern roads and other corporations have put in orders for rails for 1906 delivery and it may be seen from this that the demand for iron will be as big next year as it was this, if not bigger. The range roads have not enough cars as it is and can stand little more crowding. The Duluth & Iron Range and the Duluth, Mesabe & Northern will each receive about four or five hundred additional ore cars and five or six locomotives next spring.

The officials of the Rainy Lake road have not closed their deal for more and better equipment but they probably will before tomorrow. It is understood that they are buying cars of the Russell Wheel & Foundry company of Detroit. It is known that C. W. Russell, manager of the company, is in Duluth and on business.

The Oliver Iron Mining company is understood to be making some extensive purchases in the way of equipment. From the purchases that have been made, it would seem that those most intimately connected with the industry, feel that next season will again be a big one for the iron range and their interests. Some of them expect a year that will even surpass this one.

Runners of additional passenger equipment for both range lines are about. While some new cars were recently put into service, it is said that the officials feel that they should have more cars, particularly during the summer.

Every season, capitalists, tourists and others come to Duluth and are shown over the ranges. Very often the visitors come in parties of half a hundred or so and special trains, perhaps, are chartered to take them around. With the regular passenger business on the increase all the time, the roads find themselves short of cars. So some new coaches will probably be ordered this fall.

REDUCED TO RANKS.Great Northern Dispatchers Practically Discharged.

Three Great Northern train dispatchers, who have been employed in Superior, have been as good as discharged. The fact that they did not obey the company's orders, by refusing to work at Swan River, during the recent sequestration strike, is given as a reason for their dismissal. The three men are Edward Bolan, J. Finkelson and Percy Fries.

The three were notified that if they wished to continue in the employ of the company they would have to begin at the bottom of the ladder again, by accepting places as operators out on the line. They refused to do this and accepted the offer, looking upon the action of the road as being practically an order to leave.

Misses Dolan, Finkelson and Priest were sent to Swan River during the strike to fill places.

They remained there only two or three days. The boarding house at the place refused to board them, and it is said they could purchase no necessities from the stores. Finally the Great Northern rushed a boarding car to the place and the three men were able to get back to their old positions. The company offered no particular objection at the time.

Mr. Priest, who was recently married, has been with the Great Northern for ten years. Finkelson has been in the road's employ seven years, and Bolan two years.

OUST THE DEMONA Tussle With Coffee.

There is something fairly demoralizing in the way coffee sometimes wrecks its flimsy malice on those who use it.

A lady writing from Calif. says: "My husband and I, both lovers of coffee, suffered for some time from a very annoying form of nervousness, accompanied by most frightful headaches. In my own case there was eventually developed some sort of affection of the nerves leading from the spine to the head."

"I was unable to hold my head up straight, the tension of the nerves drew it on one side, causing me the most intense pain. We got no relief from medicine, and were puzzled as to what caused the trouble, till a friend suggested that possibly the coffee we drank had something to do with it, and advised that we quit it and try Postum Coffee."

"We followed his advice, and from the day that we began to use Postum we both began to improve, and in a very short time both of us were entirely relieved. The nerves became steady, once more, the headaches ceased, the muscles in the back of my neck relaxed, my head straightened up and the dreadful pain that had so punished me while I used the old kind of coffee vanished."

"We have never resumed the use of the old coffee, but relish our Postum every day as well as we did the former beverage. And we are delighted to find that we can give it freely to our children also, something we never dared to do with the old kind of coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum Coffee contains absolutely no drugs of any kind, but relieves the coffee drinker from the old drug poison.

There's a reason.

VACATION CLOTHES ARE REQUIRED!

Willingly or unwillingly, our Willies and Johnnies have to go back to school now and learn a few things which they ought to know. If they are dressed in proper fashion the youngsters' spirit is in a more receptive mood for their teachers' wisdom; it is, therefore, well for their parents to do a little studying of the boys' clothes question. Here they can learn a few things which they ought to know.

While our new fall and winter stocks are far from complete, we can show, right now, a much larger stock and a vastly better selection of Boys' and Children's clothes than most other stores at the Head of the Lakes display when all their purchases have arrived.

Our prices are "Columbia prices," which means they are as low as goods of like high quality can be bought for at any reliable store in New York, Chicago or any other large city on the continent.

A FEW TIMELY SUGGESTIONS FOR SCHOOL BOYS OF ALL AGES.

There are good School Suits here at $1.95. These are made in the popular Norfolk style for boys 8 to 14 years old.

Then the pretty belted coats—an ideal School Suit with two pairs of trousers, one a plain pant and the other a knickerbocker—$4.00 and $5.00.

In the old-fashioned and ever-popular plain two-piece School Suits we show mixtures and plain colors without end—$1.95, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 and $6.00.

For the little tots who go to the kindergarten we have a dozen pretty styles of Russian Blouse Suits, Eton Sailor Suits and Norfolk Suits; also Sailor Suits with the sailor collar—$2.50, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 and $6.00.

The older boys who wear long trousers suits will find this a good store for them. We know growing young men are good dressers, and not easy to satisfy. Their fathers can't get better clothes than the sons do here. Clothes made by such firms as the Stein-Bloch Co., and Garson, Meyer & Co., at prices from $5.00 to $25.00.

Knee Pants for school, in blue and black and in fancy mixtures—at 50c, 75c and $1.00.

Some boys like to go to school in a sweater—fine blue and red ones are here at $1.00, $1.50 and $2.00.

Others would not go without a nice shirt like papa wears. Here are Madras, Percale and Oxford Shirts, and many of our regular 75c and $1.00 ones can still be bought at 45c.

Heavy ribbed cotton hose—the best on earth for lively school boys—at 25c.

Star Blouses in white and fancy colors—all sizes, from age 8 to 15—$1.00.

Hats and Caps for boys of all ages, in scores of different styles.

Boys' and children's 50c to $1.00 Tams—38c.

NEARLY COMPLETE.Detroit-Bemidji Survey Will Soon Be Finished.

Bemidji, Sept. 7.—The railroad survey being made by Engineer E. T. Abbott of Minneapolis, between Bemidji and Detroit, will be completed within ten days. The surveying party from Detroit is now at the lower end of Little Valley lake, while Mr. Abbott yesterday joined the party working out from Bemidji at Suks Lake. The two parties are twelve miles apart. A delegation of business men from Park Rapids yesterday waited upon Mr. Abbott here in an endeavor to secure a survey from Park Rapids northwest to Thief River Falls. Information as to the railroad in those interest the survey is being made is absolutely lacking. Mr. Abbott said this morning that this would be announced shortly after the completion of the survey.

Dempsey & Dougherty, who had the contract for the construction of the Wilton & Northern road, twelve miles north of Wilton, have completed their equipment to Minneapolis, where they have taken a contract for the 200 west of that city.

MAY VISIT RANGE LAND.Iowa People Coming With View of Buying.

A party of men from Glidden, Iowa, left St. Paul Wednesday night to inspect some farm land in Altkin county and in all probability they will look at some property which may be had on the range. The land department of the Duluth & Iron Range road is expecting them almost any day. If they come, they will probably settle in the neighborhood of Payne as that county is being rapidly opened up and advantages are to be found there now.

Some of the new wagon roads are nearing completion however, which is making the task of showing off the land an easier one.

NAMED HIS OWN WIFEAs Probable Poisoner of St. Paul Saloonkeeper.

St. Paul, Sept. 7.—T. M. Lowry did not die of heart failure. He was done away by the two women he was out with. This was the statement made by a prominent St. Paul physician, who afterwards learned that one of the women was his own wife.

This physician knew Lowry well and said that he had never suffered from heart failure and in all probability was poisoned by the women who were with him. Lowry left his saloon on Washington street at 9 Monday evening, in company with the physician's wife and another woman. He reached home at 2 Tuesday morning and died a few moments later.

Coroner Miller held an autopsy Tuesday afternoon and is now having the stomach analyzed. He would only say that "things did not look right."

The police are investigating and both women are under police surveillance.

FIGHT IN INDIANALively Contest For the Leadership on Between Republicans.*The Control of the State Committee Is at Stake.

Indianapolis, Sept. 7.—It begins to look like old Indiana politics—the days when the Harrison and Gresham factions were warring for control, when knives were out and whetted to razor edge, when the smoke of the campaign cigar lung in clouds over the community.

A political fight in Indiana means something. In the old days, when Gen. Harrison's friends were fighting the Gresham-Fairbanks machine, political conventions in Indiana were worth going miles to see. There were fights and drag-outs, charges and counter-charges, if politics involved criminalities and recriminations. When everything was ended it was plain that the political roadroller had passed over somebody.

One instance is recalled in which a member of the state committee was introduced to the audience by a man who was under its influence. His proxy was secured and he was locked up in a room at a hotel. The key was carried away and his proxy voted in the committee. This vote gave the Fairbanks faction control of the state committee over the Harrison element. A protest was made against this coup, but those were the days when "Gom Jack" Gowdy sat on the lid and was not to be moved from his position by ordinary business methods. "Gom Jack" is now training with the anti-Fairbanks party.

The fight in Hoosier politics is now between the Beveridge and Fairbanks factions. Senator Beveridge is now senior senator from Indiana. He has been in the senate one full term, and was unanimously re-elected last January for another six years.

When Beveridge became senior senator he took the initiative in all matters of Federal patronage. When Fairbanks became vice president his sphere of influence passed from Indiana and embraced everything to his former colleague. The state committee has been organized heretofore as a Fairbanks machine. The political plate matter supplied to the country newspapers was all laudatory of Fairbanks. The special trains were all run by the state committee's funds to parade him over the state and exhibit him as a presidential possibility. He was generally in the political limelight.

Mr. Beveridge has been the dignity of an underdog. He was made to appear as an also ran. All the while he was being sought with assurances that the future held much for him in politics.

Two years ago the Fairbanks people were up to the fact that young Mr. Beveridge had won a majority of the members of the state committee and holding out certain promises to Beveridge, the Fairbanks machine was counted to gain another two years' lease of power.

Another factor in the fight is that the committee is now coming on. It is stated that if a vote were taken today in the state committee, the Fairbanks machine would have six.

When the committee was reorganized two years ago no test vote was taken, but the members of the committee had a falling out with the vice president over the fate of a railroad bill in the state legislature.

of the treasury here in a few days to bring all parties together in the interest of harmony.

The relations between Fairbanks and Beveridge while both were in the senate grew more and more strained. At one time within the last year Senator Marshall, through United States Marshal Pettit, made a formal demand on Fairbanks for the return of a private letter which had fallen into the vice president's hands incidentally. Fairbanks refused to return it, and which Fairbanks refused to return.

The incident was hushed up and common friends got busy to prevent Beveridge from carrying out a threat to demand the return of the letter.

Those who remember the old feud between the friends of General Harrison and those of Vice President Fairbanks, knowing out of the Harrison-Gresham factional trouble, predicted that before the Beveridge-Fairbanks struggle is ended there will be all kinds of excitement along the Wabash.

Fairbanks is known as a grim fighter. He makes little noise and never in a hurry, but he moves toward the accomplishment of his political purposes with the deliberation and precision of a glacier. And when he has passed by he leaves a trail of wreckage in the form of ruined out-appearances of things gone.

While some of Mr. Fairbanks' enemies have described him as a technical "tight wad" in the matter of his purse strings, his organization has always found it has no wealth and his only income is from his salary as senator and from the interest on his real estate. But he has unlimited energy, is immensely popular with the literary men, and is a can party in the Hoosier state, and being senior senator, now has control of most of the Federal patronage.

He has been steadily growing in favor with the Indiana masses until today his position before the people is well nigh impracticable. The strange thing about his political successes is that he never has had a machine and seems to rely upon no organization, but goes out and makes an appeal to his friends generally to aid for him.

The city election of Indianapolis is likely to have a bearing on the outcome of his struggle for the state committee. The city election occurs in November, and if Bookwalter, Republican, is elected, as now seems probable, it will be a great setback for the Fairbanks machine.

Bookwalter remembers the hostility of the Fairbanks machine in the past, and up to this time has refused to make terms with the Fairbanks machine.

In the event of his election as mayor, to permit Fairbanks to have the two delegates to the convention from Marion county. In the present even division in the state committee, the result of the city election in Indianapolis may determine whether Fairbanks' machine will control the state committee for the next two years.

Senator Fairbanks, it is alleged, induced President McKinley to name George F. McGinnis postmaster at Indianapolis without consulting Beveridge, or in any way taking his views into consideration. McGinnis considered this rank discourtesy, and he removed the matter to the attention of the Indiana legislature.

They have failed to consult with the Harrison monument design, which Fairbanks opposed his election to the vice president. When Secretary Shaw learned that the vice president had refused to consult either Senator Beveridge or Congressman Overton, he would have his approval of the sign and will send the supervising architect.

SHOT FOR WILD ANIMAL.Mrs. Coventry Killed By Husband and Companion.

Livingston, Mont., Sept. 7.—The killing of Mrs. Coventry by her husband, Dr. Coventry, at Clyde Park Monday, proves purely accidental, and a verdict of accidental shooting was returned by a jury.

Dr. Coventry went, with Kennedy, a neighboring rancher, on a few hours' hunting trip. Later, Mrs. Coventry went to the park, and about 1 o'clock Kennedy and Dr. Coventry were returning to camp and while passing through the grounds where Mrs. Coventry was berrying, they mistook her for a bear.

As she picked berries her hat waved through the underbrush, and the two men, thinking it was a bear, both fired. Dr. Coventry shooting her through the heart with a .30-caliber rifle. Both died before she reached her side. When the men reached her side, they found her lying on the ground, and she was dead.

MILWAUKEE CHEMISTPlans to Raise Poppies on Colorado Lands.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 7.—In wide poppy fields you shall rest and dream pleasant dreams. If the plans of Gustave O. Schorke of Milwaukee can be brought to fruition, Mr. Schorke, who is a chemist of some note, has found a new use for the arid land about Denver, and is now endeavoring to secure a sixty-acre tract for the purpose of planting and cultivating the Asiatic poppy for medicinal purposes. He has invented a system of solar evaporation by which he proposes to extract the opium and codine alkaloids and at the same time preserve the seeds of the plant, which is not done under the present system of opium manufacture. Mr. Schorke believes that the Colorado climate is entirely suited to the cultivation of the plant and that a good sized fortune awaits the development of the enterprise.

POLITICAL BOSSSESOf Philadelphia Fought to Be Non-Residents.

Philadelphia, Sept. 6.—The purging of the assessors' lists here has brought out the curious fact that a large number of the leaders of the old Republican machine are false voters, as they are assessed from divisions where they do not actually reside.

It is found that Israel W. Durham, the city boss, is assessed in the Seventh ward, while his actual home is at Merion, outside the city. Register of Willis Klemmer, holding a county office and voting from 132 Green street, actually lives in Odessa, which is in Montgomery county. Select Councilman Patton, leader of the Twenty-seventh

WORK FOR MASTER

Failure to Get Crowd
Does Not Chill Salvationists.Meeting at First Methodist Church Turned Into Praise Service.The lecture by Commissioner Kilbey of the Salvation Army, "Through the War With Door and Briton," did not take place last night, for the reason that the audience fell far short of expectations. Less than seventy-five people were present in the First Methodist church, which had been engaged for the evening."Efficiency," said one of the army officers,
"the English-speaking people do not take as much interest in religious matters as the Scandinavian element."
And so it would seem, for the greater number of those present were Scandian. The commissioner proceeded with a religious service, saying that he believed it better fitted to that sized crowd present than would be the lecture. The speakers of the evening were Commissioner Kilbey and Col. Miles, both of whom are enthusiastic workers for the Master, and whose success in the work one does not wonder over, after hearing them. The small crowd present, in view of the expectations of a goodly house, did not dampen their spirits in the least, but they went ahead with all the fervor of enthusiasts for their work. Mr. Finn, a member of the party, and who is secretary of the department of work among young people in the army, sang several songs, accompanying himself on an accordion. He sang well, too.
Commissioner Kilbey spoke of the peace of mind of the true Christian, and said that while people outside of the fold think they are happy, they never realize the joy which belongs to the Minnesota & In-ternational Railway company by virtue of an act of congress giving the company certain rights in the event of its being its main line within a given period.
The company has been in possession of the line since the first of January, and has been working for God, to bring his fellow-men to see the right, there is a great peace in your soul, there is no worry about yourself, and the only worry you have is to see your fellow-men bring

Commissioner Kilbey spoke strongly against the liquor habit. He said that he that he cannot see how they can see why people will meddle with it at all. He spoke in warning for the young people to keep away from it.

Col. Miles, in opening his address, said that what one sets his or her mind to get, they will get at least in measure. If one sets his mind to get money, he will get it, and he will get it in the same way.
Therefore, he said, the man who has the lowest, by exercising determination can drag himself away from his evil surroundings, even when he thinks he is irredeemable, and set his feet upon the Rock and become a servant of God. Col. Miles said that he believes in the old-time hell believe it is a punishment provided by God, but a consequence of sin.

Acting Commissioner
Fimple Gives Decision In Beaudette Case.Dennett, Minn., Sept. 7.—News has been received from Washington that Acting Commissioner Fimple of the general land office has decided adversely to the Beaudette Townsite company and Homestead Cathcart in their contention for the land upon which that flourishing village is located near the Minnesota-Canadian line.
The decision holds that the land in contention belongs to the Minnesota & In-ternational Railway company by virtue of an act of congress giving the company
certain rights in the event of its being
its main line within a given period.
The company has been in possession of the line since the first of January, and

LITTLE GIRLS BITTEN.

Mad Dog Terrorizes Anoka County Community.Anoka, Minn., Sept. 7.—In view of her mother, who was making a frantic, but futile effort to rescue her, the 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ernest Bennett of Oak Grove was attacked by a mad dog, who time and again buried its fangs in the child's forehead.
The dog had previously attacked and bitten another little girl named Frodgar.
Bennett was coming home in a buggy from St. Francis. When near home she saw a big dog, with bloodshot eyes and wildly frolic, growling from his loose-hanging jaws. Her children were in the yard at play, and she made a frantic effort to reach them, but before she could do so the dog had thrown the little girl to the ground and inflicted several wounds in her forehead.
The dog then started for a child of Walter Gaslin, but Mr. Gaslin succeeded in getting the child out of harm's way.
The dog then bit another dog belonging to Herbert Breyman. George Sobye secured a shotgun and, after pursuing the animal for a mile, killed it.
The Bennett girl was hurried to a physician, who dressed the wounds. Fears are expressed that the bites may prove fatal to both girls.

PICNIC SUNDAY.

Labor Day Program at Zenith
Park.The Labor day committee will meet tonight at the Trades assembly hall and decide as to the celebration of Labor day next Sunday. It is quite likely that the events provided for in reason that transportation will be much easier, the distance being less.

In such case those who go will take cars to West Duluth, and from the foot of Sixty-first avenue will embark on the Estelle, the Mary Mann and other vided for the transportation of the crowd. This will also make the matter

APPEAL FILED

From Verdict For $6,000 For Personal Injuries.Crookston, Minn., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rider Wardner of East Grand Forks, who secured a judgment against the Great Northern Railroad company at the last session of district court for personal injuries sustained in an accident at Grand Forks, and it is claimed that he through the supreme court, as Ator-neys Countrymen and Wilkinson, for the railroad, have filed an appeal.
Wardner was injured severely on May 21, 1904, by the collision of a Great Northern train with a farm wagon at Grand Forks, and it is claimed that he never will entirely recover from the effects of his wounds. Suit was started for $45,000 and the jury returned a verdict of $6,000.
An addition to the Polk county jail, to accommodate the increased number of prisoners and provide room for the steam boilers, is being erected at a cost of $3,000, and will be completed this fall in time for occupancy before the meeting of the grand jury. The county commissioners are seriously considering the installation of an electric lighting plant.

uels and his divorced wife, Mrs. Hattie L. Samuels-Bickerton, have each disposed of their 1-64 interest in the famous Hercules mine for $25,000 apiece.
The Paulson-Burton combine purchased both interests and now control the rich property by a 1-32 interest.
The past year the total dividends from the property have been $40,000 monthly.
Mrs. Bickerton receiving $20,000 for her small interest. The great profits are made entirely from the crude ore as it is taken from the mine.

MAYOR FAY SUED

Two Virginia Citizens Allege Libelous Statements By Executive.John M. Martin Demands $50,000 and Joseph Backus $20,000.Mayor Marcus L. Fay of Virginia has been sued for damages aggregating $70,000 by two citizens of his city who claim that he has been libelous in his utterances and has made remarks in public that are defamatory to their character.John M. Martin, an attorney of Virginia, formerly president of the village of West Duluth, and well known in this city, has sued Mayor Fay for $50,000 and Joseph Backus, a saloon-keeper at the range town, claims that Mayor Fay in a written communication to the city council made statements which tend to ruin his reputation, and to the extent of $20,000.The papers in the two cases were filed yesterday by Judge Martin, who represents both himself and Backus.
Mayor Fay has twenty days time in which to file his answer, after which the cases will probably come on for trial at the November term of district court.Mr. Martin's charge arises out of a damage suit which has been started against the city of Virginia, by Mrs.
Mary Turney, who asks that she be awarded a judgment of $800 because of the ruin alleged to have been brought her premises by a city sewer. Judge Martin is Mrs. Turney's attorney.It is alleged by Judge Martin that, in discussing this case at the city hall,
June 8 last, Mayor Fay accused him of wrongfully invading and advising his client, inducing her to bring a suit against the city at his instigation, with a view of making the municipality Judge Martin swears such accusations have injured his standing at home, and were uttered with an intent to prejudice the public. He further alleges that Mayor Fay called him a dangerous man and declared that he should be discharged from the practice of law.According to the complaint in the Martin case, Mrs. Fay is alleged to have made the following public statement:
"In my opinion Attorney J. M. Martin is a dangerous man in this community and should be disbarred from practicing in the courts."
"It is my belief that this is a trumped up suit which never would have been brought if Mrs. Turney had been further advised. I believe that instead of her seeking an attorney, the attorney sought her. Evidently this attorney does not scruple at anything, not even to sending threatening and obscene anonymous communications through the mails which I believe to be an offense against the United States postal laws."I have instructed the city attorney to fight the suit to a finish in the courts. If we compromise in this case, I have reason to believe that there will be no end of trumped up suits for damages brought against the city for damages by Mayor Fay.There is one way by which this attorney and his damage suits can be got rid of and that is by going behind the scenes and finding out what for the court and stating reasons why he should be disbarred."
Judge Martin claims that the statements are false and that his honesty has been attacked by his years of service in offices of trust and honor in the state. He sets forth that he graduated from Columbia university, now the George Washington university, in 1899, and was admitted to practice in the United States supreme court in 1899, on the motion of Senator Moses E. Clapp.
In the other damage case against Mayor Fay, Joseph Backus says the place he has been injured is a crooked and disreputable character. Mayor Fay is alleged to have accused Backus of having knowledge as to the perpetrator of the dynamite outrage, when a portion of the Fay residence was blown up.
The alleged libelous communication to the city council by Mayor Fay, was as follows:"Gentlemen: I herewith return license No. 241, granting to Joseph Backus the right to conduct a saloon in the building on lot 7, 2, block 25, without my approval, for these reasons:"Several years ago Joseph Backus brought to the city the reputation of the White Bear saloon of Hurley, Wis., and until the passage of an ordinance by the council he was known, conducted a combination saloon, gambling joint and disorderly premises."
The report made to the mayor by the Pinkerton detective agency of St.
Paul stated it to be a fact that Joseph Backus had made this statement:
"Somebody had ought to kill the mayor, or at least tar and feather him."
This statement was made for no reason other than that the mayor introduced and advised the passage of the objectionable ordinance, which forced him for the first time to run a saloon bearing the car marks of respectability. Later on this report informed you that Backus circulated a report that the mayor had dynamited his own home. I have also been informed that Mr. Backus is the "Virginian" referred to in the St. Paul and Minneapolis papers.The report made to the mayor by the patronage of shady characters with whom he is acquainted, largely throughout the Northwest. While here in Virginia he has demonstrated it to be a fact that he runs an orderly house only when forced to do so by the authorities.
"I believe it would be the duty imposed on the council, if not by the laws of the state, at least by all moral law for the welfare of the city, to refuse to grant a license to any man who will harbor disreputable characters."I believe that Joseph Backus could if he would tell me who he perpetuated the dynamite outrage last fall."

NEW WAY BEST

Deputy Emerson Enthusiastic Over Office Inspection of Wheat.Officials Are Already at Cass Lake and Sandstone.H. E. Emerson, chief deputy grain inspector, is of the opinion that the exclusion from Superior of Minnesota inspectors and the establishment of an office inspection of wheat from all Great Northern cars is a very good thing indeed.The new system will be tried at once and a large west room in the grain inspection suite on the sixth floor of the Board of Trade building has been fitted up with standards, hooks and other conveniences which will be used under the new order of things.The samples taken from the cars at Cass Lake and Sandstone will be sent to Duluth on passenger trains and will reach the city from eight to nine hours earlier than the grain itself. Samples will be shipped on trains leaving the inspection sub-stations at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and 1 o'clock in the morning."I think the office inspection is going to be a great success," said Mr. Emerson, this morning. "The grades will be more uniform and the inspection better in every way for the reason that the inspectors will always have good light.
The light in the cars is often wretched, and there are plenty of large windows in the room which has been fitted up for the inspection and I can see no reason why it should not be a great deal better than the old method."The "bull pen," as we have begun to call the inspection room, is all in readiness. If everything runs along smoothly samples from the Northern Pacific's cars will be inspected in the office. This has not been definitely settled upon, however.In view of the fact that grain may be inspected and graded before it reaches Duluth, local grain men are inclined to be as enthusiastic over the office inspection as Mr. Emerson. It is conceded that the new system is more satisfactory than if the inspectors were obliged to go to the Great Northern yards in Superior every day, as in the days of old.

WORTHY CASE.

County Goes to Aid of Virginia Family.Action was taken by the county poor commission yesterday to have Mrs. Thomas Solmenson, of Virginia, brought to this city and placed in St. Luke's hospital at the county's expense, until such a time as her husband is able to earn enough money to care for her. Mrs. Solmenson has been paralyzed for several years and with no one to care for her and her little daughter but her husband, Solmenson, who works in the mines, was compelled to neglect his work and the family came into such straitened circumstances that it was on the verge of starvation. The conditions became known to C. W. Miller, of Virginia, who notified the poor commission. She will be placed where she will have the proper medical care and attention while her husband will be enabled to continue his work at the mines.

returned here from Cape Sabine, Green-in the northern waters being very adverse. Ice floes are unusually heavy already, and much bad weather has prevailed. On the voyage to Greenland, the Roosevelt proved an eminently satisfactory vessel.

TIES ARE CUT

Court Severs Marriage Relations of Several Couples.

Cruelty, Drunkenness, Non-Support and Desertion the Charges.

Habitual drunkenness, cruelty, non-support and desertion were grounds on which several persons sought divorces in district court, this morning. Judgments were rendered in favor of the petitioning parties in five cases, one was held open for further evidence and one case was dismissed, the petitioner that no order had been given by the court fixing the time limit for the answer of a defendant residing without the state.

On the ground of extreme cruelty over a considerable period of time, Hannah U. Olson was legally separated from Ole J. Olson, the court directed that the husband should give the mother custody of the children and, inasmuch as, if necessary, the court would assign the husband from any interference with the wife and children.

Mrs. Anna Slayton was granted a divorce from her husband, Ole Slayton, on the grounds of cruelty. This was the only case tried this morning in which there was semblance of a contest. Slayton filed an answer to the complaint and made grave counter charges against his wife, but beyond merely appearing by his attorney at the opening of the trial he made no fight against the petition of Mrs. Slayton.

Slayton's testimony was to the effect that his husband had assaulted her on numerous occasions and even made an attempt to kill her. Slayton testified that he had been with his wife at the time she was killed, but that he did not see her when she was killed.

Mrs. Slayton mentioned another occasion when she claims she threw soap in her husband's face as he was about to assault her, and then fled before he had time to recover himself. She claims that for this act he had her arrested for assault, but that she was discharged.

She denied emphatically all charges of infidelity that were made by Slayton in his answer, and stated that the reason she had him examined for insanity was that he acted in a mad, mad manner, and that she was afraid of him. She added to her testimony that she still believes that Slayton is not right in his mind.

After severance was divorced from Ole S. Severson on a strong showing of habitual drunkenness. Severson was introduced to the effect that he spent 115 days in the county jail during the last spring and summer on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and for failure to furnish bonds to keep the peace.

Mrs. Ella Johnson of Eveleth was granted a divorce from William J. Johnson, on the ground of drunkenness and non-support. Johnson testified that he has been working as a domestic and cooking for from twenty-five to thirty persons for the past two years, and that for a portion of the time she supported Johnson.

In the case of Jennie Wilson against David Wilson, where habitual drunkenness and non-support was charged, Mrs. Wilson claimed that her husband went so far as to sell her clothes, the furniture and the bedding to buy whiskey. As there was an insufficiency of supporting testimony in this case, the court held it open for further evidence.

An interpreter was needed to explain the family troubles of Sophia Simi and Nicholas Simi to the court, but after all the testimony was given, Mrs. Simi was given a decree on the ground of desertion. She claimed that Nicholas left her the night of March 27, 1905 to be gone two hours, but that the time he has been absent has been extended into six years, during which period she has never heard a word from him.

All the testimony had not been completed in the case of Ambrose Briggs against Jane Briggs, when the noon adjournment was taken. Briggs claims desertion on the part of his wife in one of the Eastern states, some years ago. His testimony showed that they had been married a great many years, and that they have married children. He claims not to know the present residence of his wife, but that he is going to look for her.

The case of Leonidas O. Whittier, a theater singer, against his wife, Mabel Whittier, was also partially submitted. Whittier gave testimony to show that his wife has refused to reside here with him and that she does not intend to follow him, being content to live away from him. The court held the case open because of being satisfied that a point blank refusal on the part of his wife to join her husband had been proved.

Whittier is to be given an opportunity of producing copies of letters urging her to come to him, which Mrs. Whittier is alleged to have never answered.

SITUATION IS GRAVE

For the Awful Fighting Which Occurred at Baku.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 7, 7:30 p. m.—Though the dispatch from Tiflis and current reports from St. Petersburg say that the oil works and tanks at Baku have been entirely consumed and the town practically wiped out, according to a dispatch to the Nobel company from Baku this is an error, and the loss, though enormous, is not complete. This dispatch stated that the firing in the city was not so bad as the newspapers had been checked. The fate of the tanks and works which are yet on fire, and the oil which is blowing a hurricane. Unless it changes and keeps the fire back on the unaffected districts, there is hope of saving some of the properties.

The sender of the dispatch was unable to give details of what had been destroyed, and was not destroyed. Smoke and flames preventing a close investigation. The town of Tiflis is full of refugees from Baku, who have abandoned all their belongings.

A dispatch from the great petroleum works has asked military protection for 20,000 pounds of combustible liquids contained in the reservoirs at Baku.

IN THE NAVY.
Boston Herald: The Rev. Edward A. Horton has a new story, which runs in this vein:

A man who had knocked about more or less before he converted to Christianity, and proceeded to find a friend his experience.

"I don't say so! And what church did you join?"

"The Baptist."

"Oh, but you haven't joined the army at all, you've joined the navy."
